ENGLAND CONDEMNS HER RAILWAY HEADS

CURSE OF "YOUNGER SONS"

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 16.—Lord Claud Hamilton's descent upon America for the combination of brains and experience which he cannot find in England continues to arouse extraordinary interest in every class of the business community. It cannot be said to have given birth to any controversy, for nearly every paper or person expressing an opinion holds the view that Sir Claud is wrong; but it is hoped that the agitation will have at least one beneficial result, since it will prove of real value to aspiring merit in the United States in its struggle for recognition.

The ground taken by the newspaper editorials is that the railway management which has succeeded in destroying all initiative and originality among its employes is self-condemned, and the suggestion is made that any reforms introduced should start from the head downward.

Thus, The Daily News says of English railways in general:

"The control of these great undertakings has fallen into the hands of younger sons of the aristocracy. Boards of Directors have been largely regarded as the perquisite of a class; as a source of income for men of family who, having no career and not too much money, needed some form of public assistance. A system vitiated at the head by so indefensible a practice calls for drastic overhauling; and if we are to have American managers for English railways, we can conceive no better task for them to start with than the reform of the present Directors."

The Daily News continues:

"There would be no cause for alarm if the appointment of Mr. Thornton proved to be the beginning of an infusion of American genius into our business and public life. We have the vices as well as the virtues of a long history, an insular position, and a proud industrial record. We like old methods, not because they are good but because they are familiar. The hand of a feudal past is heavy upon us, and distrust of education is still widespread.

Praise for American Genius.

"There is no English-speaking country where a career is less open to talents or where natural capacity is so subordinate to social considerations. American genius is free from this atrophy of the past. It moves in a more liberal atmosphere and faces the problems of modern life with a freshness of initiative unknown here. We may find its culture lacking in some of the graces of an older civilization, but that is inevitable in a country in the making, which receives annually more millions of emigrants speaking all the tongues of Europe; but the vigor and courage of its spirit, its accessibility to ideas, and its practical approach to the facts of existence are qualities of the highest value.

"There is no country in which education has been brought into such immediate relation with the actual needs of life. The great University of Wisconsin has become the model of a multitude of State universities which are applying research and ideas to every department of life—individual, economic, social, and moral—with remarkable results."

"Ridiculous Self-Depreciation."

The Standard condemns Lord Claud Hamilton for yielding to the rather ridiculous and wholly mischievous fashion of self-depreciation which has lately grown up. After paying a tribute to the young Englishmen of the present generation, The Standard concludes:

"Though we have some lessons to learn from our rivals, they have quite as many to draw from us; and there is not the smallest occasion for undue and depressing humility. We are not so deficient in administrative or mechanical talent that we need to send despairing cablegrams to an American when there is a good post vacant, and a good man required to fill it."

Speaking at Preston to-night, A. Bellamy, President of the National Union of Railway Men, said that Lord Claud Hamilton's statement that he was unable to find a single man in this country to manage his railway amused him. If his Lordship began to Americanize his railways, he said, he would find that he had to Americanize wages and conditions and deal with his men with more spirit than a few years ago.

SCOLDED GIRL MISSING.

Viola Jaffry, a 15-year-old schoolgirl of 25 Milton Avenue, Jersey City, was reproved by her parents on Saturday afternoon for disobedience. Soon afterward she left home, and since then has not been seen by her parents, who yesterday asked the Jersey City police to aid in the search for her.

The girl is said to be tall for her age. She has dark hair and complexion, and when she went away wore a dark skirt and coat, a black hat and shoes and stockings of the same color.

CONVICT MINE GUARDS.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Feb. 15.—Three Waddell-Mahon guards and a Deputy Sheriff were found guilty of manslaughter to-day for the killing of Steve Putrich, a striking copper mine worker, at Seeberville on Aug. 14 last.

Harry James, another Deputy Sheriff, was acquitted under the Court's instructions. The men convicted were James Cooper, Arthur Davis, William Groff, and Edwin Polkinghorne. All except Polkinghorne came from New York. Judge Flannigan will sentence the men to-morrow

The jury reached a verdict after ten ballots. The Court had instructed the jurors that they could find the men guilty of either second degree murder or manslaughter. John Gronholt, foreman, said the jury had agreed on a verdict of manslaughter. Charles Watson, attorney for the men, demanded a poll of the jury, and each of the twelve said that it was his verdict. The four convicted men, who had been at liberty under $5,000 bonds, were taken to jail. James was released, but was ordered to report to-morrow in connection with the killing of Aloiz Tijan.

The case attracted widespread interest throughout the copper country, owing to its connection with the strike. The Waddell-Mahon men were brought here at the beginning of the strike to help protect the property of the mining companies and the lives of non-union men employed to fill the strikers' places. The strikers have referred to them as "gunmen."

SUBWAY TRAINS TIED UP.

Short Circuit at Dyckman Street Blocks Northbound Track.

There was a tie-up of an hour and a half late yesterday afternoon on the regular northbound traffic track of the Subway between the Dyckman Street station and the end of the line at 242d Street when the feeder cable that supplies the electricity from the sub-power station at Dyckman Street to the third rail burned out on a short circuit. Several trains were stopped between stations when the power gave out, and the passengers had to walk to the nearest stations.

This exercise was attended with more inconvenience than danger, for, although the Subway tracks between Dyckman and 242d Street are elevated, there is comfortable walking space on the structure beside them, and the third rail was "dead."

There are three tracks on the Subway structure north of Dyckman Street, and neither the centre track nor the track for southbound trains was affected by the accident. After a delay of six minutes northbound trains were started from Dyckman Street on the centre track. This is inaccessible at all intermediate stations, so passengers were carried to 242d Street. Those who wanted to get off south of 242d Street had to come back to their stations on southbound trains. The accident occurred at 5 o'clock, and at 6:35 the regular track was reopened.

The sub-power station supplies the current that operates the trains from Dyckman Street [illegible] Separate feeder cables connect the third rail of each of the three tracks with the generator in the power house, but there is only one cable to each rail.

It was said at the office of the Superintendent of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company last night that the reason for the accident was not known.

MAN, 97, SLAIN AND ROBBED.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Feb. 15.—George Lillie, 97 years old, was murdered in his home near Silver Creek early this morning and robbed of $520, the proceeds of an auction sale recently held at his farm. His daughter, Emma, who kept house for him, also was overpowered and drugged, but she will live. Bloodhounds will be placed on the trail of the murderers to-morrow morning. The aged man's son, John, went to Silver Creek last evening and left his father and sister in the house. He returned home last night and went to bed. When he went to call his father this morning he found the aged man dead. Dr. Fred Brickell and Coroner Blood, who were summoned, said choral had been given to the old man. There were footprints about the house and marks on the furniture in the room where the old man had secreted the money.

The daughter, who was a partial invalid, has not yet sufficiently recovered to tell a coherent story. Tramps are blamed for the killing.

BABY GIVES ALARM OF FIRE.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIELLE, N. J., Feb. 15.—Awakened by the cries of their infant son, Henry, Postmaster Stanley V. Wainwright and his wife saw flames coming through the walls of their bedroom in the Union House here at 3 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Wainwright snatched the baby from his crib and ran from the house, while her husband threw the Post Office cash box through a window and ran to the room occupied by his mother. He aroused her and Amanda Anderson, a servant, and escorted them to the street.

Wainwright ran half a mile to the fire house and sounded an alarm. On their arrival the firemen telephoned for aid to Spring Lake, Point Pleasant, and Manasquan. Chief Ruf of the Manasquan department refused to allow the apparatus to be taken from his town, but the men of his command came to Brielle in a body and assisted at the fire. Ruf was hissed by the men of his own company when he arrived later.

For a time it looked as though the handsome homes that line the river shore for half a mile would be destroyed. Burning embers fell on roofs almost a quarter of a mile from the burning structure. They were swept off with brooms by men sent to protect the houses. The firemen saved the Post Office and grocery that stood only ten feet from the north wing of the destroyed building. In this house Robert Louis Stevenson wrote much of "Treasure Island."

W. ROCKEFELLER NO WORSE.

Denial That His Voice Is Gone—Health Better Than It Was.

Special to The New York Times.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Feb. 15.—Denial is made to-day of reports concerning the health of William Rockefeller, who is spending the Winter months quietly on Jekyl Island. It was recently said that Mr. Rockefeller was in a serious condition and that he had almost lost the use of his voice.

It is now stated that the Standard Oil millionaire is in better physical condition now than he has been for some months. He was not even accompanied to Jekyl Island by a physician, as had been his custom in the past. His voice is weak, but not more so than it has been for the past two years. His speech, it is reported, will never be fully recovered.

Mr. Rockefeller is spending much of his time taking long walks. Mrs. Rockefeller and other members of his family are with him.

ELEVEN ARE SAVED FROM LOST BARGES

DRIVEN ACROSS THE SOUND

From the home of an Orient Point, L. I., farmer came the belated news yesterday of the rescue of the five men, four women, and two little children who were on board the coal-laden barges Elizabeth, Katie Woods, Frederick Willenbrock, and Rose Marie Feeney, when those craft were lost in the storm off Bartlett Reef in Long Island Sound shortly before midnight Saturday. The eleven persons had been given up for lost, and that they succeeded in weathering the storm was due to the heroism and cool headedness of the barge skippers, and the marvelous seaworthiness of a little dory that for more than fourteen hours remained afloat in the face of a terrific storm.

The loss of the barges was reported at New London late on Saturday afternoon when the tug Pliny Fiske, which had them in tow, got into port. A terrific gale was sweeping the Sound when the towing hawsers parted and the barges were swept out into the Sound.

The rescued, all of whom are safe and well in the home of C. L. Lathan, at Orient Point, are Capt. Frederick Sherhorn and his wife, and Seaman John H. Milligan of the Elizabeth; Capt. George Towne of the Frederick Willenbrock, his wife and two-year-old son; Capt. William Aiken of the Katie Woods and his wife, and Capt. William Johnson of the Rose Marie Feeney, his wife and their eight months' old baby.

All four of the barges, they reported, sank during the storm on Saturday morning. Their only hope was the dory of the Katie Woods, and into that the men and women and little children huddled, while driven at racing speed through the storm-racked waters, expecting every minute that the dory would follow the barges to the bottom of the Sound. But that was a wonderful dory, and time and again the frail little craft was hurled high by a wave, only to settle back safely for the next big comber to come along and repeat the performance. And all the time the gale was raging and a blinding snow was sweeping over the Sound.

Barge Captain Tells of Rescue.

"We were all asleep in our cabins," said Capt. Johnson of the Rose Marie Feeney yesterday. "Some time about midnight of Friday we were awakened by the terrific rolling of the barges. We knew immediately that the tug had lost us, and that we were adrift and were being swept out into the Sound. My barge, the Rose Marie Feeney, soon sprang a leak, and within half an hour I realized that it was going down. I told my wife to wrap the baby in blankets and get ready to take to the dory, which I unlashed and made ready for launching.

"The Elizabeth was in the same plight as the Feeney, and I yelled through a megaphone to Sherhorn, the Captain of that barge, that if I succeeded in getting my dory overboard and away from the Feeney I would try to come alongside the Elizabeth and take him and his wife off. The waves were running sky high, it seemed, but in some miraculous manner the dory dropped safe alongside the Feeney and I managed to get in and drag my wife and baby after me.

"I never pulled at the oars as I did in the half hour it took me to get alongside the Elizabeth, and then we used up fifteen minutes more in getting the Sherhorns off. In the meantime the Feeney had gone down, and the Elizabeth was settling fast. Sherhorn, as soon as he and his were safe in the dory, took an oar, and after another hard struggle we managed to reach the side of the Willenbrock, where we took Towne and his wife and their little boy off, and we were just in time, for the Willenbrock was sinking fast.

"There were nine of us in the dory then, and we were crowded together like sardines, but there was Aiken and wife on the Katie Woods, and we told the women to squeeze into as little space as possible, as we had to make room for the Aikens. Twenty minutes later we had the Aikens with us, and then began a fourteen-hour struggle to stay on top of the water, which, I tell you, was a battle the like of which I hope never to face again as long as I live.

Had Little Hope of Escape.

"We realized that our chances were about one in a million of weathering that storm, but we made up our minds to make the best of a bad situation, and so we huddled close together with all our blankets around us and let the dory take its own course, trusting to God to bring it somewhere near the land where our plight could be seen and our rescue effected.

"When daylight came the wind was howling a mile a minute, and our little dory was being tossed about like a piece of cork. To make matters worse, a blinding snowstorm was raging, and it was impossible to see whether we were near land or in the middle of the Sound. The gunwales of the dory were awash most of the time, and every few minutes we would be drenched and the dory almost swamped as it was tossed high by some giant sea. Time and again I thought it was all over with us, but every time the dory acted gamely and came up strong and ready for the next sea.

"The women folk acted splendidly. They realized that it was a time for everybody to be courageous and do his or her part. We had a little fresh water and some biscuits, and when we were not holding on to the dory to keep from being tossed into the Sound we munched at the biscuits and drank sparingly of the water. My baby, wonderful to relate, actually slept during a big part of that terrible fourteen hours in the storm, but Towne's little boy got frightened once or twice when a big wave got us and it seemed certain that our last moment was at hand.

"Early in the afternoon the skies cleared and we saw the shore of what proved to be Orient Point. Then lifesavers of the station there and the farmers came out to us and pulled our dory to the beach.

"We had to leave three dogs on the barges when we deserted them. We wanted to save them too, but there wasn't any room, and so we had to let them go down with the barges."

At the life-saving station the rescued received dry clothing and food, and then were treated by physicians. It was feared at first that the terrible exposure might result fatally in the case of the two little children, but at the Latham farm it was said this afternoon that those youngsters seemed as well and happy as ever.

FEDERAL PLAN TO AID ARMY OF THE IDLE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Federal Industrial Commission announced to-day that it would undertake an investigation immediately into reports that hundreds of thousands of men and women were out of work in the country. In New York City alone, according to what the commission has heard, there are 350,000 persons unemployed. The object of the investigation will be to determine whether the Federal Government should take action to relieve this condition, and what measures should be instituted to that end.

The commission's announcement was in the form of a statement by Frank P. Walsh, its Chairman. Mr. Walsh puts forth the interesting suggestion that it may be necessary, in order to remedy existing conditions, to provide for insurance against non-employment. How this can be accomplished he does not indicate.

"Hundreds of thousands of men, industrious and anxious to work," says Mr. Walsh, "are either out of employment or without assurance that their jobs will continue another week or another day.

"Groups numbering from 100 to 1,000 stand on the docks outside our great industrial plants each morning at 6 o'clock, hoping the foreman will pull them out of line and put them to work. They are thankful if they get only a few hours' employment.

"Poorly nourished and thinly clad, these men gather each morning for the foreman's inspection, submit to his rapid scrutiny, and then many drift away to the cheap saloons or cheap lodging houses to wait for another chance.

Calls Conditions Intolerable.

"None can see this spectacle without realizing that here is something society cannot afford to tolerate. An employer never thinks of laying off his bookkeeper or clerk after employing him three or four hours in a day or three or four days in a week. The problem of continuous employment for laborers is more difficult, but it is a problem that must be solved if we are to check the increase in our great army of hopeless, homeless men.

"If nothing else will avail it may be necessary to urge insurance against non-employment."

It was said that during the next six weeks the activities of four of the commission's investigators will be restricted to a rapid survey of unemployment in industrial centres from Boston to Kansas City, and a critical examination and analysis of public and private employment agencies.

The commission also announced that estimates of charitable organizations in New York City saying 350,000 persons were out of work there would be examined critically.

"The commission realizes," it was explained, "that present conditions in the labor market are practically the same in every year at this season and that the problem is a permanent one."

The first direct step contemplated by the commission, after it has gathered its material, is to present to Congress for enactment a bill "establishing a Federal bureau to serve as a clearing house for public and private agencies and to direct the movements of migratory workers. Co-operation to end casual employment will be urged upon employers."

In a statement accompanying the announcement of Chairman Walsh, the commission said:

"Federal control of all employment agencies doing an interstate business is urged upon the commission by E. W. Carpenter, manager of the National Employment Exchange in New York City. This bureau was organized by some of the largest employers of labor in the metropolis to serve as a model, and the claim is made that the evils from which migratory workers suffer at the hands of other agencies have been eliminated in its operation. Otto T. Bannard is President of the exchange, and John R. MacArthur, contractor for the Ashokan Dam, is Vice President."

Discredited By Democrats.

The statements of Mr. Walsh and the commission are bound to raise a hornets' nest. Democratic Senators and Representatives and members of the Cabinet have attempted to discredit the reports of widespread distress due to non-employment. They have asserted that these statements were merely newspaper gossip and not based on any reliable information.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of New York, a member of the commission, said to-night that the commission had not based its statement of the number of unemployed in New York on press reports, but had obtained its figures from its own agents, who had been making an investigation there.

Mrs. Harriman reached Washington this evening from New York. She said agents of the commission had been at work in various fields gathering estimates of the number of unemployed, and it was on the basis of the reports of these agents that the inquiry into the prevailing distress was to be made. The commission, she added, would probably be divided into groups, and each group would hold hearings and gather information in various parts of the country where the number of unemployed was reported to be excessive.

Mrs. Harriman said that many workers were engaged in "seasonable employment," which kept them employed for a portion of each year only. Much of the present non-employment, she said, was probably due to this condition, which was permanent.

In view of the attitude that Democratic Party leaders have assumed toward the assertions of Republicans and Progressives that the Underwood tariff law is mainly responsible for prevailing labor conditions in certain sections of the country, it is likely that Mr. Walsh and the other Commissioners will find that their statements are very unpopular among Democrats in Congress.

The commission will probably have hearings in mining regions of some of the States where distress through non-employment is reported to be very general.

RESCUE ARTISTS AS STUDIOS BURN

Sparks thrown against the sky gave the first warning of a fire in the Gibson Studios Building at 142 East Thirty-third Street last night. The blaze drove several hundred persons to the street. Four alarms were sent in.

The sparks drew the attention of Patrolman Shommers, on duty at Thirty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, and he turned in the first alarm. When Shommers got to the building he found the Superintendent, William Taylor, was bringing down tenants in the elevator. Agota Facundo, a Peruvian youth, on the fifth floor, said he had been awakened by an explosion below him and had awakened several tenants, who made their way to the street by the fire escapes.

The fire spread rapidly, with a series of sharp explosions, which threw burning wood in all directions and made the work of the firemen dangerous. Deputy Chief Martin, who arrived in response to the second alarm, sent in a third and a fourth in rapid succession, as the fire had been communicated to a tenement house at 144 East Thirty-third Street and to the Astor Stables, owned by James Naughton, at 217-219 Lexington Avenue.

Patrolman Reilly of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station brought down Mr. and Mrs. Backeroy and their seven-year-old son from the fourth floor of the studio building by way of the fire escapes. Another tenant, Louise Fabre, was rescued by policemen. The firemen were much impeded in their work by the intense cold. Many lines of hose burst as soon as they were laid, while work on the ladders was made perilous by ice. The fire was beaten back before it had done much damage to the tenement and stable. The entire studio building was destroyed. More than thirty horses and several autos were taken to the street from the Astor Stables.

The cause of the fire was not learned. It is believed to have originated on the third floor, and to have been fed by oils and paints used by artist tenants of the buildings. The Gamut Club, a dramatic organization, had quarters in the building.

MILDER WEATHER COMING.

Forecaster Predicts Higher Temperatures by the Middle of the Week.

According to the report of the National Weather Bureau, issued last night, the cold weather which has prevailed throughout the East will continue until to-morrow or Wednesday. But in the middle of the week, the forecaster in Washington says, higher temperatures may be expected.

"On the Pacific Slope," the bulletin says, "temperatures will average near or above the normal during the week. East of the Rocky Mountains the weather will be fair during the next several days, except that local snows are probable during Monday and Tuesday over the Great Lakes, the upper Ohio, and the North Atlantic States.

"The next storm of importance to cross the United States will appear on the North Pacific coast on Tuesday, and it will cause general rains in the Pacific States during the following several days. This storm will cross the great central valleys Thursday or Friday, and the Eastern States near the end of the week; this disturbance will be preceded by a general change to warmer weather east of the Rocky Mountains, and it will be attended by snow in the Northern and probably rains in the Southern States. There are no indications that this disturbance will be followed by a cold wave."

His Dancing Surprises Atlanta, and So Does Hoke Smith's.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 15.—Secretary McAdoo and Senator Hoke Smith have been showing Atlanta how to dance during the intervals between the regional bank hearings. There were many entertainments in honor of Secretaries McAdoo and Houston and Controller Williams, which were attended by Senator Smith, who came here from Washington to urge Atlanta's claim for a regional bank.

Secretary McAdoo's dancing of the tango was a feature of all the social affairs. Senator Smith featured in the "hesitation waltz." The Senator is ponderous physically, but the women say he is the best hesitation waltzer ever seen in Atlanta.

Lunches and Dines with Family—May Rest for Another Day.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President Wilson's cold, it was said at the White House to-night, was very much improved. The President lunched and dined with his family in the state dining room. It was the first time in three days that he had descended from the upper apartments.

White House officials said they did not know whether the President would be at his desk in the executive offices to-morrow. So far as known no engagements have been made for him, and it is likely that he will take another day of rest before resuming work.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Mayor Curley said to-night that to award the building of the proposed naval supply ship to any other navy yard than Charlestown was equivalent to saying to the country that the word of Secretary Daniels was valueless and that political pressure was more potent than justice.

The statement was a reply to the Mayor's critics who had said his activity in the use of advance information relative to awarding the contract had injured the prospects of obtaining it.

KENNEDY'S RISE IN POLITICS

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Feb. 15.—With his throat cut from ear to ear, State Treasurer John J. Kennedy was found dead soon after noon to-day in a small lavatory off the ballroom of the Markeen Hotel, where he had lived with his family for about a year. An open razor lay on the floor beside him.

In his circumspect arrangements to kill himself Kennedy had seated himself so that the blood from the wounds would drain into the bathtub, and would not stain his clothing.

A sudden spell of insanity, due to worry and to his impending second appearance to-morrow before the Grand Jury in New York City under subpoena from District Attorney Whitman in the John Doe graft inquiry, is believed to have inspired him to kill himself. Family and friends insist that his official accounts are correct.

> Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 15, 1914.
>
> My father, John J. Kennedy, died suddenly to-day. I am quite familiar with his affairs as Treasurer and know that everything connected with his affairs has been conducted properly and will be found to be correct. I would, however, suggest that his accounts as State Treasurer be examined as expeditiously as possible and an audit be had so that an official report can be signed. WILLIAM KENNEDY.

Family Had Been Watching Him.

Friends of Mr. Kennedy say he has been acting strangely for two weeks. His condition had been such that Mrs. Kennedy or her son tried to keep a watch on him most of the time.

A subpoena was served on Mr. Kennedy Wednesday at Albany for his second appearance before the New York Grand Jury to-morrow. Yesterday, after he arrived at Buffalo, another subpoena, identical with the first, was served on him.

The Treasurer sent for his attorney, Michael P. Dirnberger, Jr., and after a short talk with him it was announced that Mr. Kennedy would start for New York to-night. Mrs. Kennedy and Mr. Dirnberger intended to leave with him on the 8 o'clock train to-night. A ticket for New York and a sleeper ticket for that train were found in Mr. Kennedy's pocket.

After the talk with his attorney, Mr. Kennedy appeared to be in excellent spirits. Yesterday afternoon he met several close political friends at a downtown hotel and spent several hours with them.

He was up until midnight last night taking tango lessons with his wife and daughter and some friends in the ballroom of the Markeen Hotel.

He went to high mass at the chapel of the Blessed Sacrament with his son, William, this morning. On his way back to the hotel he met and talked with some old friends. He said he was going to New York to-night, and that he had nothing to fear from the Whitman investigation. He laughed and joked about the matter.

Significant Good-Bye to Family.

Arriving at the hotel about 12 o'clock, he went to his apartments. There he talked to his wife, son, and daughter for some time. He was in a happy mood,

ACTS OF KENNEDY WERE UNDER FIRE

Whitman Admits He Was Investigating Certain Information About State Treasurer.

KENNEDY FELT HUMILIATED

Grilled by Bankers on Grand Jury, He Dreaded Having to Face Public John Doe Inquiry To-day.

District Attorney Whitman learned of the suicide of State Treasurer Kennedy while returning to this city from Washington last night. On his arrival here at 9:20 o'clock, the District Attorney said:

"Certain information had come to my office about Mr. Kennedy, and I had intended to ask him about these things at the John Doe investigation to-morrow."

"Did you have any evidence against him on which you could have asked for his indictment?"

"I did not. There was no evidence against him. We were merely investigating information which had come to us."

"I am inexpressibly shocked at the news," continued Mr. Whitman. "Of course, the man is dead, and it would not become me to make any comment on the situation as affecting the graft investigation. Mr. Kennedy was a witness before the Grand Jury, and later he was invited to appear as a witness in the public investigation. I was greatly surprised when he did not appear. After that he was subpoenaed to appear. I wish to say again that I had absolutely no evidence against Mr. Kennedy. I cannot understand the cause of the suicide."

The special Supreme Court Grand Jury investigating graft conditions will not be in session until to-morrow. Kennedy's appearance, technically, therefore, would have been before one of the three regular Grand Juries which sit today. It was understood that Kennedy would have been served with a John Doe subpoena after he made his appearance in New York County. It was necessary to issue a Grand Jury subpoena because a John Doe subpoena does not carry power outside of the county.

Assistant District Attorneys Clark and Embree, aides of Mr. Whitman in the graft investigation, also admitted that Kennedy was under investigation, but would not outline the course on which the District Attorney was proceeding.

It is an open secret that Kennedy was hard pressed when he was a witness before the Grand Jury on Jan. 29. He told friends afterward that he did not want to submit to an examination by Mr. Whitman in public. It was this fear of a public hearing, it is understood, which Mr. Whitman was relying upon. It is believed that Kennedy would have revealed secrets of the political machine of which he was a part rather than submit to a grilling by the District Attorney.

While there was no tangible evidence against him, Mr. Whitman wanted to question him, it is understood, along several lines. One line, it was learned, concerned Kennedy's connection with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, a concern which has bonded many banks which are depositories of State funds. Kennedy was Resident Vice President in Buffalo of this concern before becoming State Treasurer. His son, William Kennedy, is now carrying on the business from Buffalo.

Another line, it was learned, concerned Kennedy's action in the Canal Board on certain big Barge Canal contracts. The inquiry in this matter was related to the alleged hold-up of Contractor James C. Stewart for $150,000 by a man who said he was James E. Gaffney, the intimate friend of Charles F. Murphy.

Before Grand Jury on Jan. 29.

Kennedy was called before the New York County Grand Jury on Jan. 29 last by District Attorney Whitman. He was summoned with other members of the State Canal Board largely as a result of the revelations made regarding the alleged attempt of James E. Gaffney to exact from James C. Stewart, a contractor, 5 per cent. of a $3,000,000 Barge Canal contract which Stewart expected to receive from the Canal Board. Stewart did not agree to pay the percentage, and he did not get the contract.

Treasurer Kennedy was one of the members of the Canal Board who voted not to award the contract to Stewart, although Stewart was the lowest bidder. Instead, half of the work went to P. McGovern & Co., a firm with strong Tammany affiliations, at a price 20 per cent. above the engineers' estimate. After a long delay Stewart got the other half at a price $400,000 above the original engineers' estimate. State Engineer John A. Bensel raised the original estimate $250,000.

Stewart failed to identify Gaffney as the man who had attempted to hold him up. He said he believed the man was Gaffney, but he was not sure. No indictment was found.

Besides Kennedy, the members of the Canal Board who appeared before the Grand Jury on Jan. 29 were Duncan W. Peck, Superintendent of Public Works; State Engineer Bensel, and Mitchell May, Secretary of State. All came by invitation and not under subpoena.

Kennedy was the second man called, and he was questioned for an hour and a half. When he left the Grand Jury room he looked worried and he fairly ran away from the reporters. A friend with him said the State Treasurer had nothing to say.

"I may see you again," District Attorney Whitman had told Kennedy.

"All right. You know where to find me," the State Treasurer responded.

Kennedy's Bonding Company.

It is known that the hour and a half in the Grand Jury room was an ordeal for Kennedy. The investigation took three different lines. First came the matter of the action of the Canal Board on the bid of James C. Stewart. In this matter, it is understood, Kennedy passed the responsibility along to others. He denied that he knew anything about any Gaffney hold-up or of the alleged connection of Charles F. Murphy with Gaffney.

The second topic dealt with Kennedy's connection with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore, of which he was Resident Vice President in Buffalo prior to his election as State Treasurer. District Attorney Whitman and his assistants, John K. Clark and William D. Embree, had a great deal of information concerning which they questioned Kennedy.

Primarily this information concerned an alleged "switch" by banks in this city from the Fidelity Trust Company, a local bonding company, to the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, Kennedy's own company. Word had been brought to Mr. Whitman that Kennedy favored those banks with State deposits which were bonded in his company. The District Attorney was trying to establish whether there was any connection between Kennedy and the "switch."

This charge was not a new one. It had been printed in 1911. At that time Kennedy said:

"There is no basis for a charge of favoritism or of the exercise of undue pressure. No word or act of mine can be pointed to as indicating that it would be agreeable for the banks acting as State depositories to change their bonding companies, and no man or men have been authorized in any way to hint at such a thing."

The District Attorney, it is said, had learned from [illegible] Fidelity and [illegible] less than $700,000 in business had been switched [illegible] Kennedy [illegible].

Humiliated by Bankers.

Kennedy's denial of the charges of favoritism before the Grand Jury was followed by questions as to his own fitness for the place of State Treasurer. There were several prominent bankers on the Grand Jury, and they did not hesitate to question the witness sharply. Kennedy, it is known, felt humiliated under this line of questioning.

These questions, it is understood, were such as almost any bank clerk naturally would have at his tongue's end. They related to the size and importance of banks in the city and to the methods of transacting banking business. Kennedy, it is said, admitted that he did not know the name of the largest bank in the city; that he could not name the leading five banks, and that he did not know how much interest the State was getting on its deposits, as compared with New York City.

At the height of the cross-examination, it is said, one of the bankers went to the point of asserting that he would discharge any of his office boys who displayed as little understanding of banking as the State Treasurer had. It was the fear of being humiliated in public and seemed perfectly normal.

He finally remarked that he was going downstairs for a minute. As he left the room he said good-bye to all the family. Mrs. Kennedy thought this action strange, and after a while asked her son to see where his father was.

When William reached the lower floor, there was no trace of Mr. Kennedy. He searched through the rooms on the ground floor, and finally enlisted the aid of the hotel servants. One of them said he had seen Mr. Kennedy going toward a lavatory which is little used during the day.

There the youth found his father lying with a great gash in his throat, the jugular vein being severed. An open razor identified as his own was by his side.

The house surgeon was at once called, but found Kennedy was beyond human aid. He thought he had been dead about ten minutes when discovered.

Dr. Stocker, the medical examiner, was notified, and the police were also called. After an investigation the medical examiner stated that he believed Mr Kennedy was temporarily insane insane when he ended his life. A certificate of death by suicide was granted, and no inquest will be held.

William Kennedy spoke for his mother and sister. He said that his father had been much worried during the past few weeks, but he insisted that his official accounts were all right. Later he wired to Gov. Glynn his request for an immediate inquiry, that any inimical gossip might be stopped.

The home life of Mr. Kennedy was said to be beyond reproach. He was devoted to his wife and children and enjoyed a splendid reputation in the part of the city where he had made his home for many years.

Kennedy's personal affairs were in good condition, his friends say. He was heavily interested in the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore, owned considerable real estate, and while his supply of ready cash was never large, he had enough for any ordinary use. He borrowed occasionally from local banks, but only small amounts, and his financial standing was high.

If he was involved in a financial way, it is thought that it was not in this city. Practically all his banking business was done with the People's Bank of this city. Arthur D. Bissell, President of that institution, to-night issued this statement:

"There is nothing to the report that Mr. Kennedy was a heavy borrower from our bank. In fact, he was not a heavy borrower or a heavy depositor. He always had a personal account with us, but it was never large. His borrowings were moderate also.

"The District Attorney of New York knows all about his account. I went down there two weeks ago, answering his request, with a transcript of the Kennedy account in the People's Bank. I did not go before the Grand Jury; I merely told what I knew to one of Mr Whitman's deputies.

"I have always believed that Kennedy was on the level and perfectly straight in his financial affairs. I think his accounts will be found all right."

Statement by Treasurer's Attorney.

Mr. Dirnberger, the Treasurer's attorney, gave out this statement to-night:

On Thursday, Jan. 29, Mr. Kennedy at the request of District Attorney Whitman appeared before the Grand Jury of New York County. He signed a waiver of immunity and was examined by Mr. Whitman and his assistant at great length and in much detail, covering a period of about one and one-half hours.

On Wednesday, Feb. 11, a subpoena from District Attorney Whitman's office was served upon Mr. Kennedy personally at Albany, again requiring his appearance before the same Grand Jury on Monday, Feb. 16, at 10:30 A. M.

Yesterday, Feb. 14, at the Iroquois Hotel here in Buffalo, another subpoena, identical in form with the one served upon him on Wednesday, was served upon him personally, also requiring his appearance before the Grand Jury at the same time on Monday morning.

For the past ten days I have been in constant touch with Mr. Kennedy, and was with him personally at Albany on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. During this time I examined carefully into the affairs of the State Treasurer's office, examined all the statutes relating to the office of State Treasurer and such rules as regulated the conduct of that office.

I had daily conferences with Deputy Controller Wendell, who has charge of matters relating to the conduct of the Controller's office in so far as they relate to the office of State Treasurer; I also met and discussed matters in relation to the State Treasurer's office with Attorney General Carmody, and met with Mitchell May, Secretary of State, and discussed with him matters relating to the Land Board, Canal Board, and other boards of which Mr. Kennedy, as State Treasurer, was a member.

I discussed with Mr. Batton, the Deputy State Treasurer; with Mr. Cannon, the cashier, and with the executive clerks in charge of all the departments in the State Treasurer's office, to familiarize myself with the procedure of the affairs of the office of the State Treasurer.

After this very thorough examination, which I made in a most extensive and exhaustive way, I found that Mr. Kennedy had conducted his office in a most efficient manner, and had complied strictly with the statutes relating to that office in every particular, and with the rules of conduct which had governed that office for many years.

Everything done by Mr. Kennedy in the discharge of his duties as State Treasurer I found had been done properly and in a most upright manner and entirely in accordance with the law applicable to that office.

Worried Over Examination.

Mr. Kennedy was a most conscientious man, of a retiring disposition and disliked publicity, and was keenly sensitive to criticism. Having been before the Grand Jury and given that body all the information asked of him and everything that they desired to know, and thinking that his examination had been concluded, he worried constantly about the proposed examination Monday morning because he could not imagine what further investigation there could be concerning him and his affairs as State Treasurer.

He talked with me constantly about this matter during the last few days, and while I know he had nothing to conceal in his proposed examination to-morrow, I could see that he was brooding over this matter and feared the publicity. He told me that he had never before been a witness, either before a Grand Jury or in an action before any court, and he feared that he might be unable to explain clearly the intricate questions which might be asked by a keen District Attorney under such trying circumstances. This also weighed heavily on his mind. And the combination of these things I feel certain so oppressed him as to cause a temporary derangement of his mind.

Yesterday afternoon, after having luncheon with him, we further discussed the matter of the examination on Monday morning, and determined that he, Mrs. Kennedy and I would leave for New York City to-night at 8 o'clock, so that he could appear before the Grand Jury on schedule time.

Think His Mind Was Deranged.

We also determined that he should sign another waiver of immunity, if the District Attorney requested him to do so, and we also agreed that if the District Attorney should ask him to appear before a Magistrate in the John Doe proceedings, after he had appeared before the Grand Jury, he would willingly do so and give the District Attorney all the information he possessed regarding any matters on which the District Attorney might determine to question him.

The decision on these matters of policy was entirely satisfactory to Mr. Kennedy, and, knowing he had nothing to conceal, we both felt that this was the proper attitude to take regarding this matter.

I feel certain that an investigation of his affairs as State Treasurer will disclose that he had properly and correctly administered the duties of that office, and I am unable to account for his unfortunate act of to-day except on the ground that his mind was temporarily deranged.

Son Is Fidelity Company Secretary.

No statement could be obtained from young Kennedy to-night regarding the alleged connection between State contractors' bonds and the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, of which he is resident Secretary. The young man was backed in that enterprise by the State Treasurer, who is said to have been a heavy stockholder.

His friends here say that Mr. Kennedy was not interested in any land development enterprises at the present time, although early in his term of office he was said to have invested in some Erie County suburban properties.

FIDELITY CO. TO INVESTIGATE.

Baltimore Concern on Kennedy's Bond Once Had Him as Agent.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15.—The suicide of John J. Kennedy will probably lead to a searching investigation of his accounts by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of this city, which was on his bond as Treasurer of New York.

Before being elected to the Treasurership Mr. Kennedy was Buffalo agent of the company. John R. Bland, President of the company, when told to-night of the suicide, said that Mr. Kennedy's books were audited when he resigned as agent of the company, and that they were perfectly satisfactory. The company went on his bonds when he took the oath of office as State Treasurer. This makes the company responsible if there are any discrepancies in his official accounts. So there will be an investigation by the company, aside from that made by the State.

KENNEDY'S RISE TO POWER.

Began with a Waterfront Saloon and Longshore Constituency.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—Until he was elected State Treasurer in 1910, the political activities of John J. Kennedy were confined to Erie County and chiefly to Buffalo, his native city.

And he was a power in Buffalo. His rise in politics there was similar to the rise of the average Tammany district leader in New York. He lived in one of the waterfront wards, where the population was composed largely of the army of grain shovelers and longshoremen employed on the docks and at the grain elevators controlled by William J. ("Fingy") Conners. Longshoremen are a thirsty lot, and, making the most of his environment, Kennedy started a saloon. Before long he had two saloons, and both were busy places.

Later in life he ran a saloon in a more select neighborhood. His last place was at Pearl and Eagle Streets, and was more pretentious than those through which he laid the foundation of what fortune he possessed, as well as his political power. It was the gathering place of politicians of both parties, among whom Kennedy was ever a dominant figure. It was not until he was elected to a State office that he got rid of the drinking establishment at Pearl and Eagle Streets and removed with his family to one of Buffalo's fashionable apartment houses.

While Mr. Kennedy was a familiar figure at State and National Conventions—he had been a delegate to every Democratic State Convention since 1884—and while he was always associated with the more influential leaders of the machine type, he never carried much weight in conventions. But in Buffalo his influence was enormous.

When elected State Treasurer in 1910, he finished twenty-six years of continuous service as Alderman. In the Council he represented the old Nineteenth—now the Twenty-fifth—Ward. For many years he was the Democratic leader of the Council, and, as such, controlled it. But even when the Republicans were in power or when there were factions in his own party he always managed to patch up a bi-partisan understanding and keep well within the clique that controlled affairs. As a member of the Board he was constantly made a target by the civic reformers, who called him the tool of corporations seeking franchises and favors.

When Conners switched his allegiance from the Republican to the Democratic Party and went into Mr. Kennedy's district seeking a constituency from which to build up leadership for himself, he got into an ugly political row with Kennedy. When Conners rose in political power he forced Kennedy out of the Democratic State Committee where he had represented the Fiftieth Senatorial District. Conners took that place himself.

There had been considerable bitterness between the two politicians since, and when William H. Fitzpatrick, who was Conners's chief lieutenant, fought him for the leadership in Erie and won out in 1910, Kennedy gladly joined hands with him.

In 1911, soon after the Democrats had become firmly intrenched in power at the Capitol, and while, under Dix, the old order held sway both in the Legislature and the State departments, Kennedy was under fire in connection with alleged activities to compel banks, wishing to become depositories for State funds, to do their bonding business with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore. This company was known as a Tammany concern, and at one time some men who wielded large influence in Tammany Hall during the Croker régime were among its officials or Directors. Before Kennedy became State Treasurer he had been a Vice President of the company and its agent in Buffalo. He denied any favoritism, and no tangible or convincing proof was ever brought forward in support of the allegation.

When first elected State Treasurer, Mr. Kennedy received a majority of 8,000 in Erie County. In the last election his plurality over his Republican rival for the office was more than 14,000. But this was due to the split in the opposition ranks. The Republican and Progressive vote for Treasurer combined for one candidate would have left Kennedy nearly 9,000 short of a majority.

Kennedy was 57 years old. He was tall and spare in build, with gray hair and close-cropped gray moustache. In his appearance and demeanor he did not betray either the former saloonkeeper or the typical leader of a district where rough-and-tumble politics held sway.

Kennedy attended the public schools at Buffalo and afterward became a student at St. Joseph's College in that city. In 1881 he married Miss Ottilie Schupp, who survives him. He also left a son, William, who was graduated from Cornell in 1911, and a daughter, Miss Jane Kennedy.

The Weak Spot in Department Stores.

Which is it?

It's the billing.

Think a minute, Mr. Department Store Manager. Aren't most of the "kicks" you get, about bills? Items customers can't understand? Totals incorrect? Articles erroneously charged? Delays in mailing statements?

Fortunately, there is a way out.

Several stores, by installing "Ellis" machines, have put their billing on a mistake-proof basis. At the same time, they have cut costs 40%, or more.

Say the word and we will put an "Ellis" machine in the accounting department of your store. We will also furnish an instructor, free of charge.

KENNEDY'S BOOKS TALLY TO A CENT

OSBORNE AFTER KENNEDY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—The State Controller made an exhaustive investigation of the State Treasurer's office last week. Deputy Controller James A. Wendell said to-night that its affairs were found to balance to a penny, and that not the slightest irregularity was found.

Gov. Glynn refused to comment upon Mr. Kennedy's suicide, but said he was gratified to learn that the finances were sound. At the same time he ordered a full audit of the books to begin to-morrow.

It became known after the suicide today that Arthur L. Warner, chief assistant to James W. Osborne in the investigation of State departments, for several months had been investigating reports that the State Treasurer was intimately connected with a bonding company that had been doing a large business with State contractors. So silently has Mr. Warner worked that he did not think that even District Attorney Whitman had knowledge of this line of the Osborne investigation.

Information came to Mr. Warner that Mr. Kennedy had been connected with the bonding company in question prior to his election as State Treasurer and that since that period his connections had been kept up through the instrumentality of a near relative. Mr. Warner refused to disclose the specific line of inquiry he had made in the case, but it is understood that it had reference to an alleged association of Kennedy, George H. McGuire, and Charles F. Murphy, Jr. A witness at the John Doe proceedings in New York said Mr. Murphy gave him assurances that he had sufficient influence to control the awarding of certain contracts.

Whitman's Investigation.

When agents from District Attorney Whitman's office were here two weeks ago obtaining bank accounts Mr. Kennedy's was said to be one of those sought. John Kirkland Clark, one of Mr. Whitman's assistants, was here yesterday looking into the Canal Board's proceedings, and it was presumed that Mr. Clark was here to secure material on which to question Mr. Kennedy to-morrow.

Friends of Mr. Kennedy attributed the suicide to dread of the ordeal which awaited him in New York to-morrow before the Grand Jury.

John H. Cannon, cashier in the State Treasurer's office, who had been with Mr. Kennedy as his business partner and assistant for twenty years, said: "Mr. Kennedy was as honest as the day is long. This hubbub about subpoenaing him before the Grand Jury was a terrible blow to his pride, and the strain must have upset his reason."

Deputy Treasurer George W. Batten said: "Mr. Kennedy's record in the State Treasurer's office was as clean as a hound's tooth. The worry over the subpoena must have upset his mind."

Isaac Blauvelt, check clerk in the Treasurer's office, said that Mr. Kennedy came back from New York a broken man after testifying before the Grand Jury on Jan. 29. Mr. Blauvelt added: "Mr. Kennedy was proud of the distinction of having been twice elected State Treasurer—he was, at any rate, until this talk of scandal in the Canal Board, of which he was a member, came up. This is how he talked to me: 'When I was before the Grand Jury they asked me if I didn't run a saloon in Buffalo at one time, and they asked me if Cannon, my cashier, had been my business partner. My God, do they want a man's soul down there?'"

Attorney General Thomas Carmody said: "I am confident that Kennedy had nothing to fear from the Whitman investigation."

Wife Worried Over Kennedy.

The mental strain which Mr. Kennedy was under caused Mrs. Kennedy to accompany him to Albany last Monday. They returned together to Buffalo Friday afternoon. Just before leaving the office Mr. Kennedy went over to Mr. Cannon's desk and said: "I know that everything is all right, but I cannot get this thing off my mind. It is on my mind every minute."

Deputy Batten explained the reason for the failure of Mr. Kennedy to go before the Grand Jury a week ago Friday. He said Mr. Kennedy had important business in Buffalo and asked Mr. Whitman's assistant to let the matter go over. Last Monday night he and some friends met Lawyer Dirnberger to discuss the situation. It was decided that Mr. Kennedy should respond to any subpoena which Mr. Whitman might issue, but that he would not go to New York to testify merely on the receipt of a telephone message. Mr. Dirnberger said before returning to Buffalo last week:

"We have been served with a perfectly legal subpoena commanding Kennedy's appearance before the Grand Jury next Monday, and we will leave Buffalo Sunday night for New York in response to that subpoena. While we do not see any necessity for the Grand Jury inquiry, Kennedy will not attempt to dodge it; but should Whitman try to force him to testify in public in the John Doe inquiry we may refuse on the ground that the New York District Attorney has no authority to question a State official without direct allegation that a crime has been committed."

Mr. Dirnberger said at that time that Mr. Kennedy was very nervous over the matter, but he expressed the opinion that this condition soon would pass away, because Mr. Kennedy was beginning to realize of what little importance the whole proceeding was.

The vacancy in the State Treasurer's office will be filled by the Legislature on joint ballot. The Republicans have ninety-seven votes on joint ballot, the Democrats eighty-one, and the Progressives nineteen. There are four independents—Sulzer, Quigley, Lefrenz, and Boylston. It will be necessary to have 101 votes for a choice.

Worried Over State's Money.

Edward J. Graham, Deputy Superintendent of Banking, recalled to-night that Treasurer Kennedy visited the Banking Department on Jan. 30 and inquired about the banks of the State. He had some misgivings as to whether the millions of State moneys should not be withdrawn from the State depositories and placed in Albany banks, where they could be kept track of. The Banking Department officials explained that such a thing would be inadvisable and convinced Mr. Kennedy that the State depositories were safe.

Banking Supt. Van Tuyl returned from New York to-night to be on hand to-morrow should any exigency requiring his presence arise. He does not expect any.

caused Kennedy to tell his friends that he would never submit to examination in the public investigation which Mr. Whitman was conducting. The District Attorney, knowing this, felt that Kennedy might become a valuable asset in the investigation if forced to take the stand. It was thought that Kennedy might be willing to tell a great deal of the interior workings of the Democratic machine if spared, the task of taking the witness stand in public.

Mr. Whitman first tried persuasion. He invited the State Treasurer to appear before Magistrate McAdoo as a voluntary witness on Friday, Feb. 6. Arrangements were made for a John Doe hearing for that day and Kennedy was heralded as the "star" witness, but he failed to appear. Assistant District Attorney Embree got Kennedy on the long-distance telephone and asked him why he had not made his appearance.

"I don't want to testify in public before consulting my attorney," replied Kennedy. "My attorney lives in Buffalo."

Kennedy Subpoenaed.

Mr. Embree told Mr. Kennedy that he would call him again within twenty minutes. Then Mr. Embree told Mr. Whitman what Kennedy had said. The District Attorney directed that Kennedy be asked again to come to New York immediately. When Mr. Embree called up again he was told by Deputy George Batten that the State Treasurer had taken a train for Buffalo.

Mr. Whitman heard last Tuesday of a meeting in State Treasurer Kennedy's office at which, according to the information, members of the Canal Board expressed themselves vigorously against any member of the Canal Board testifying in public. Kennedy, for one, it was said, asserted that he would never submit to the ordeal.

Mr. Whitman next day dispatched Process Server Jay Barry to Albany with a Grand Jury subpoena for Kennedy. Barry found Kennedy in his office and handed him a subpoena for his appearance before the Grand Jury in New York County to-morrow morning.

"Mr. Kennedy looked very glum," said Barry yesterday. "He didn't say a word."

All was in readiness for Kennedy's appearance to-day, and Mr. Whitman and his assistants were primed for the occasion. They had gone to elaborate pains to investigate the information which had come to the District Attorney's office about Kennedy. This information, it was understood, dealt particularly with Kennedy's connection with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company.

There was a prevalent feeling in the District Attorney's office, however, that Kennedy would fail to respond to the subpoena. This suspicion had been strengthened by a dispatch from Buffalo that Kennedy was of the belief that Whitman had no right to subpoena him as a witness in the John Doe investigation on a Grand Jury subpoena. There was some ground for Kennedy's position, lawyers asserted.

It was pointed out that Magistrate McAdoo's power was limited to serving subpoenas within New York County. To get Kennedy within the County on a Grand Jury subpoena, and then make him testify before Magistrate McAdoo, it was pointed out, involved questions of law.

By challenging Mr. Whitman's right to call him from up-State in the public investigation in New York County, it was pointed out yesterday, Kennedy would have been liable to arrest for contempt of court. Kennedy, in view of this predicament, it was thought, wavered as to which course to take.

Bonding Ramifications.

Mr. Kennedy, it is believed, could have been a great aid to District Attorney Whitman's investigation. He might have told, for instance, of the connection of Murphy's nephew, Charles F. Murphy, Jr., with the contracting business of the State. Evidence has been submitted in the John Doe investigation that young Murphy, as New York City agent of Kennedy's company, the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company, split all commissions on bonding business with James K. McGuire, ex-Mayor of Syracuse, and McGuire's brother, George H. McGuire. The McGuire brothers, under the firm name of McGuire & Co., devoted most of their efforts to bonding contractors on the Barge Canal and State highways, while young Murphy attended to New York City contracts, notably subway work. The partnership is a silent one, and its existence never became known until Mr. Whitman wrung a confession from George H. McGuire.

James K. McGuire is under indictment in this county for soliciting a campaign contribution from a corporation. Mr. Whitman was anxious to get more evidence against him. Kennedy, he believed, could have given him a lot of information concerning the political activity of the elder McGuire in the State departments.

Persons who were interviewed here last night spoke well of Kennedy. One man, prominently associated with the State Banking Department, said that the department never had experienced any difficulty with Kennedy. This man admitted that Kennedy's qualifications for his office were not of the best.

"It was common gossip in banking circles," said this man, "that a number of banks in this city switched their bonding business to Kennedy's company. But no suspicion attached to Kennedy on that account. The switching of the bonds was regarded as good business policy, nothing more. A relative of State Treasurer Kennedy solicited business from banks, and it stands to reason that bankers would see the advantage of keeping the State Treasurer pleased. This might be wrong morally but still be within the law."

When asked last night to make a statement concerning the suicide of Kennedy, Assistant District Attorney John Kirkland Clark said he was shocked at the news, but would not care to make a formal statement.

Canal Board Under Scrutiny.

"Was Mr. Kennedy to be questioned along the line of the general routine in the State Treasurer's office, as to the cashing of warrants for work done in various departments of the State work, such as the Highways and the Barge Canal?" Mr. Clark was asked.

"Yes, but we also wanted to question him along broader lines, especially in reference to work in the Canal Board in 1912."

Assistant District Attorney William Dean Embree, when seen at his home, 607 West 112th Street, said:

"I am very much surprised and shocked. Kennedy was to appear before the John Doe inquiry to-morrow, as it was deemed advisable to have him testify as to his actions in the Canal Board during the Dix administration. We wanted to find out if possible the reason for the position he took in the Canal Board at the time when Gov. Sulzer sent his celebrated telegram asking that action on certain contracts be deferred. That telegram is a matter of record in the John Doe inquiry."

Will Hear Contractors To-Day.

The John Doe investigation will be resumed to-day despite the death of Kennedy. Assistant District Attorney Clark announced last night that twenty subpoenas had been served upon up-State contractors. Most of the contractors, Mr. Clark said, would be on hand when the hearing opened at 2:30 P. M. before Chief Magistrate McAdoo.

Mr. Clark said that he did not know the names of the witnesses and that he did not know what stories they had to tell. The contractors, he said, had been called in pursuance of District Attorney Whitman's dragnet policy of calling all contractors who had done work for the State Highway Department in the last five years. Nearly 200 witnesses have been called so far. Most of them have told of being "sandbagged" for political contributions immediately after obtaining State contracts.

H. P. BURGARD IS GRIEVED.

Never Heard Kennedy Had Any Financial Troubles, He Says.

Henry P. Burgard, Democratic committeeman from Erie County, who beat William H. Fitzpatrick at the last Buffalo primaries after John A. Hennessy exposed the highway graft in Erie County, said last night over the telephone from his home in Fulton, N. Y., that he was much grieved by the suicide of his friend, Kennedy.

"I never heard that Mr. Kennedy had any financial troubles," said Burgard.

Burgard was asked whether he ever loaned any money to Kennedy, as reported. Burgard said that he did not, and that he could not explain Kennedy's suicide because of financial reverses.

"I was surprised when I learned that Mr. Kennedy had gone to Buffalo on the very day that he was to appear as a witness before District Attorney Whitman," said Burgard. "I could not understand that."

Mr. Burgard has himself been a witness in the "John Doe" proceedings. He was named by Hennessy as one of the men who furnished evidence of up-State grafting. When on the witness stand, however, he denied that he knew of any wrong-doing at first hand.

STRICKEN IN THE THEATRE.

Father of Devery's Son-in-Law Dies in Bellevue.

Karl Fink, whose son, Karl Fink, Jr., married a daughter of ex-Chief of Police William S. Devery, suffered a stroke of apoplexy last night while in a box at the Herald Square Theatre. Attendants carried him to the manager's office and an ambulance from the New York Hospital was summoned. Dr. Kutil, the ambulance surgeon, took Mr. Fink to Bellevue Hospital, where he died soon after his arrival.

Ex-Chief Devery and young Mr. Fink arrived at the hospital after the elder Mr. Fink's death. Mr. Fink's body was removed to the Morgue, pending an investigation by the Coroner's office. Mr. Fink was 70 years old and lived at 226 East Fifteenth Street.

CUTTER RESCUES SCHOONER.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 15.—The revenue cutter Seminole picked up the distressed schooner Bayard Hopkins off Diamond Shoals to-day, according to a radio message received here. The message said:

"Seminole found distressed schooner Bayard Hopkins at 3:30 this afternoon, three miles west of Diamond Shoals. Vessel is in bad shape from recent storm. One man on schooner injured. Seminole towing Hopkins to Beaufort, S. C."

SET AFIRE AND ABANDONED.

Schooner Cynthia Left Sinking in Gale—Captain and Crew Saved.

Special to The New York Times.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 15.—Capt. Decarteret of the cable steamer Minia, at sea, sent the following wireless dispatch, via Sable Island, to-day to the Government station here:

"The Gloucester schooner Cynthia was abandoned in a sinking condition during a gale at 8 P. M. on Friday in latitude 44.55 N., longitude 56.08 W. The Captain and crew were rescued and taken on board.

"The Cynthia was set on fire, but, owing to the heavy coating of ice she may not burn. She was on the port tack with a strong southeast wind, and going fast to the southwest.

NO WORD FROM THE NIAGARA.

French Liner Sighted, but Doesn't Answer Ushant Signals.

BREST, France, Feb. 15.—Practically no word was received to-day of the French Line steamer Niagara, which, bound from Havre for New York with 147 passengers aboard, was obliged to turn back because of broken propellers, and was returning to a French port.

Yesterday the Niagara was reported in distress about 135 miles off Ushant, and the steamer Bordeaux had gone to her asistance. The Ushant signal station learned to-day by wireless from a passing ship that the Niagara had been sighted far to the northwest. The station flashed signals in that direction continuously throughout the day, but up to to-night had received no answer.

GALES DELAY OCEAN LINERS

The Campania, Savoie, St. Louis, and Amerika Were Due Saturday.

According to the wireless reports received yesterday, the Atlantic liners now on the way to this port will be delayed by the heavy gales they have encountered. Four of the ships—the Campania, from Liverpool, with mails; the Savoie, from Havre, with mails; the St. Louis, from Southampton, and the Amerika, from Hamburg—were due on Saturday. They will not arrive until to-morrow.

The Cunard liner Campania is a fast ship, and this will be the first time in her twenty-two years of service between New York and Liverpool that she has arrived three days late. Capt. E. T. Britten in his wireless dispatch said that the ship was fighting westerly gales and exceptionally heavy head seas. The Campania is due to sail on her return journey to Liverpool at 1 A. M. on Wednesday with mails.

The Lapland, from Antwerp, will arrive to-morrow, and the Nieuw Amsterdam, from Rotterdam, and the Columbia, from Glasgow, will not reach port until Wednesday, probably. About 2,000 cabin and 6,500 steerage passengers are on board the seven steamers, and this will make a busy day for the immigration authorities and the customs officials.

This is the first westward voyage this season over the long course, which is about 120 miles longer than the short route.

Two belated steamers arrived yesterday, the Samland from Antwerp, and the Buenos Ayres from Cadiz. Capt. Kalange of the Samland said that the ship had encountered fifteen days of uninterrupted gales. On Thursday morning, 750 miles from Sandy Hook, the ship passed casks and drums which the Captain thought had been swept overboard from the deck of a freighter.

The Captain of the Buenos Ayres reported that Miguel Coultley of the Cuban consular service died on Feb. 5 and was buried at sea. His wife and his two daughters were on the ship.

LAUNCH'S CREW SAFE.

Sought by Police Boat, They Report from Sandy Hook.

The police boat Patrol, in charge of Sergt. George Ellis, returned to the Battery yesterday morning at 10 o'clock after a fruitless six hours' search of the harbor as far as Sandy Hook for a motor launch containing four men from Great Kills, S. I. Word was received at Harbor A Station that the launch had gone out at 1 o'clock to look for another launch with two women and two men who had gone out on Saturday night for a moonlight ride. The men sought were Frank Hepzel, 36 Crescent Beach; his brother, William, of 18 Crescent Beach; William White, 42 Nelson Avenue, and Harry Cullen, 20 Amboy Road, all of Great Kills.

Late in the afternoon the men telephoned to the police at Harbor A Station that they had been forced to run before the wind and had managed to land at Sandy Hook. They had gone in search of a launch called the Petrel which had broken adrift from its moorings, they said, and not after moonlight riders, as previously reported. The Petrel was picked up by the tug Kennedy and towed into harbor last night.

NEW LINER SHORT OF COAL.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 15.—A wireless message received here from the new Danish steamer Frederik VIII., which left here on Feb. 4 for New York, reports the vessel in latitude 52, longitude 34, short of coal and steering for the Azores.

The Frederik VIII. is the latest addition to the fleet of the Scandinavian-Amerika Line between New York and Copenhagen, and was due here to-morrow. She left Christiansand on her maiden voyage on Feb. 7 with [illegible] and a large complement of passengers on board for New York. Invitations had been sent out for a luncheon and inspection of the liner on Friday, Feb. 20.

It is a rare occurrence for an Atlantic passenger liner bound from the English Channel to New York to be compelled to call at the Azores for coal. They generally make for St. Johns, N. F., or Halifax, as the Chicago of the French Line, and the Cufic of the White Star have done this week, owing to the heavy weather reducing their speed.

WILSON IN 1916, HIS PARTY'S SLOGAN

Democratic Leaders Feel Certain He Will Run Again and That He Can Win.

ALREADY LAYING PLANS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—Democratic leaders here feel certain that President Wilson will be a candidate for the nomination for President in 1916, and some of them are inclined to believe that his selection as Democracy's standard-bearer then is assured now. In fact, political plans based on the conviction that Mr. Wilson will run for a second term are being made now. Current activity on the part of the Democratic National Committee has that end in view.

To suggestions that Mr. Wilson's nomination for a second term would be a flat violation of the Baltimore platform, leading Democrats reply that the platform declaration was merely an indorsement of the proposal to amend the Federal Constitution so as to provide for a single term for a person elected to the Presidency. They contend that there has been much misunderstanding about the "term of President" plank, and argue that a careful reading of it ought to convince anybody that it does not contain any party inhibition against a second term for Mr. Wilson or any other President elected by the adoption of the suggested constitutional amendment.

This is the text of the plank:

We favor a single Presidential term, and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

Those leaders who are proceeding on the conviction that President Wilson will be a candidate for the nomination in 1916 have not regarded it as necessary to consult the President on the subject. They have felt a delicacy in making any such inquiries, but are satisfied that there need be no worry on that score.

The preliminary work of the Democratic National Committee to keep Woodrow Wilson in the White House after 1917 is expressed in three pamphlets dealing with the accomplishments of the Administration. They are intended to furnish the keynotes for the Democratic campaigns for the election of Senators and Representatives this year. To hold the Senate and the House under Democratic control is the immediate purpose of the committee. Democratic victories in a majority of the Congressional districts are regarded as essential to the success of the ticket in 1916.

The leaders maintain that Mr. Wilson is immensely popular. They hold that if a Presidential election were held now with Mr. Wilson as the Democratic candidate he would be triumphantly re-elected. While the tariff legislation is criticised in certain sections it is contended that the enactment of the currency legislation has offset it entirely.

The President is encouraging the campaign plans of the party workers in several ways. His discussion of the New York political situation last week with Gov. Glynn and Chairman McCombs of the Democratic National Committee indicated that he would sanction the effort of those New York Democrats bent upon reorganizing the party in the Empire State. Mr. Wilson's active part in inducing Representative A. Mitchell Palmer to become a candidate for Senator in Pennsylvania to succeed Boies Penrose shows how deeply he is interested in Democratic success this year, and he intends to keep in close touch with State contests.

HONEYMOON IN BOX CARS.

Young Pennsylvania Couple Finally Reach Chicago, Seeking Work.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Saying that they had spent their honeymoon riding in box cars and on the blind baggage from Youngstown, Penn., to Chicago, where they expected to find work, David McCollan and his 20-year-old wife applied at the South Chicago Police Station last night for a place to sleep.

McCollan told the police they were married Nov. 15 at the home of his bride's father.

"Not wanting to depend on my father-in-law, who is a cripple, we decided to start West," he said. "I used to work at a steel plant in South Chicago. We had very little money, so we started to beat our way. We rode in a box car to Toledo and remained there about a week. I worked there a couple of days, and we rode in an interurban car to Cleveland. From Cleveland we rode to Kalamazoo on the 'blind bagge.'

"We came to Chicago in an empty box car. We have been on the road for twelve hours, and would like a place to sleep until we get a new start."

ANOTHER HOUSE FOR MOVIES

Anglo-American Corporation Gets the New York Theatre.

William Morris, who has operated the New York Theatre as a vaudeville and moving picture house, has turned the building over to the Anglo-American Corporation, a moving picture concern, and next Monday the theatre will be devoted to the "movies" only. With the Criterion Theatre, under the same roof, given over to pictures under the management of the Vitagraph Company, the entire building, from Forty-fourth to Forty-fifth Streets, will be in the hands of moving picture people. Other Broadway theatres in the Times Square district are being sought by moving picture concerns.

The Anglo-American will open the New York Theatre, which in the future will be known as the New York Kinema, with "The Three Musketeers." One of the innovations will be an augmented orchestra of symphony players, under the direction of Max Hirschfield.

SHOT BY HUSBAND'S PISTOL.

Woman's Accidental Wound Leads to a Sullivan Law Arrest.

Albert S. Zemtler, a retired farmer living at 263 Forty-third Street, Brooklyn, was arrested last night on a charge of violating the Sullivan law. His arrest followed the calling of a physician from the Norwegian Hospital to attend his wife, Elizabeth, 61 years old. Mrs. Zemtler was shot in the shoulder last night while cleaning a bureau, in a drawer of which was a 32-calibre revolver in a holster.

The holster slipped and the revolver fell to the floor, discharging a cartridge. The physician said that Mrs. Zemtler's wound was slight and that she would recover. Her husband is 63 years old.

SIGSBEE ENDS A LEGEND.

Orderly Didn't Say "I Have the Honor to Report" at Maine Explosion.

A tradition was exploded yesterday by the recital of cold truth when Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee related the story of the blowing up of the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor at the memorial services held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. The ceremonies marked the sixteenth anniversary of the destruction of the Maine. A handsome bronze memorial tablet cast from metal plates salvaged from the wreck of the battleship was unveiled by Rear Admiral Sigsbee before his address.

Admiral Sigsbee corrected the generally credited account of the manner in which his orderly, Anthony, reported to him the fact that the ship had been blown up and was sinking. Anthony has been pictured in previous accounts as entering Capt. Sigsbee's cabin, formally saluting, and saying with due regard to naval discipline: "I have the honor to report, Sir, that the ship has been blown up and is sinking." Admiral Sigsbee said:

"We were all men and Americans," he said, "and ceremony was forgotten. When Anthony, my orderly, came to me in my cabin and I inquired what had happened, he replied dramatically: 'The ship has been blown up and is sinking,' without pausing to begin with the customary, 'I have the honor to report.'"

Admiral Sigsbee went into further details of the story and said:

"I have been bounteously honored by the Government. I wish to make a plea here for the survivors of the Maine, who have since entered civil life. May they not be forgotten on this memorable occasion."

FEAR TRANSIT DELAY.

Taxpayers Oppose Plans for Reconstruction of Queensboro Bridge.

The United Civic Associations of Queens, representing property owners and taxpayers of that borough propose to ask Mayor Mitchel and the Public Service Commission this week to examine carefully the assertion of Bridge Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke that the reconstruction of the Queensboro Bridge to fit it for the accommodation of the transit lines of the dual transit system which form the connecting link between Manhattan and Queens will cost $4,249,000 instead of $2,000,000, as the engineers under the former city administration estimated.

The property holders feared, it was said, that the indications were that the completion of the new transit system would be delayed. It was reported not long ago that the Queensboro Bridge [illegible] to accommodate more of the lines connecting Manhattan and Queens. Mayor Mitchel, when he appeared before the Queens Chamber of Commerce, said that he had not heard of the proposal.

To construct the tunnel will take at least five years, and those living in Queens believe that the city officials [illegible] the bridge [illegible]. The elevated extensions in Queens are nearing completion rapidly, and the Queens taxpayers feel that [illegible] adequate methods of getting to Manhattan.

The prisoners gave their names as Harry Stern, Harry Davis, Abraham Freedman, Aaron Lubner, and David Silverman, of New York. Max Yavalow, proprietor of the store, said that he had $2,000 in his safe.

Now he works seated in a chair.

A rather elderly man, solemn, bearded and wearing "specs," who stands all day at a high desk—that is the popular idea of a bookkeeper. Library Bureau has changed all that by inventing the unit record desk. It is a combination of a desk and a card file. The tops of the cards are on a level with the top of the desk—below the eye, underneath the hand. The bookkeeper, "card-keeper" is a better name for him, works seated in a chair.

A "card-keeper" can do far more work than a bookkeeper, partly because he sits, not stands, but principally because a card is more quickly found than a page in a book.

Unit record desks are used, not only as ledger desks, but also for housing stock records, customers' lists, credit information, sales records, purchase quotations, orders, indexes, etc.

Let us show you just what the unit record desk will do for you.

TO SHOOT SALAZAR IF RESCUE IS TRIED

Gen. Scott Gives Explicit Warning to Sulking General, Held a Prisoner.

HE MAY SEEK GUARD HOUSE

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 15.—Hundreds of visitors went to Fort Bliss to-day to view the camp where Gen. Hugh L. Scott is caring for more than 5,000 Mexican men, women, and children, who fled after the Federals were defeated at Ojinaga a month ago.

Gen. José Ynez Salazar, held a prisoner, is uneasy and sulks within his tent. Gen. Scott has him confined in a special barbed wire stockade away from the other prisoners, and recently told him that if an attempt was made to rescue him, he would be the first person shot.

To-day Salazar sent word to Gen. Scott that he feared the rebels at Juarez would take advantage of the order and make a false demonstration from the railroad tracks nearby, probably firing a few shots in the air, and before the ruse was discovered the guard would have carried out the instructions with reference to himself.

"I have no more desire to escape than a ten-year-old boy," was the message Salazar sent.

Gen. Scott said that he might enter the guard house if he wished. Here he would be in a cell, but perfectly safe, and the Mexican may try the experiment for a week.

Capt. G. H. Estes, Adjutant of the Twentieth Infantry, which is in charge of the camp, has a card index to keep track of the refugees. In the camp are 53 wounded officers and 187 wounded men, also 218 Federal officers and 3,180 men who are physically fit. There are 1,259 women and 556 children. Of the children 400 are of school age, and as soon as possible Gen. Scott will start a school for them.

It costs 18 cents a day to feed each prisoner, or about $900 for the camp. The rations consist of Mexican beans, chili peppers, cornmeal, potatoes, onions, bread, fresh meat, and coffee.

Most of them are better off than they were when in the field. They are housed and fed regularly, and we have trained them to police their camp and take sanitary precautions. They are well clothed also, as Huerta recently provided for all shoes, hose, underwear, hats and overalls, or dresses. Officers receive $5 a month and privates $2.

A special permit, not easily obtained, is required to get into the camp. This is due largely to the cases of smallpox which have developed. Americans who have had the privilege say that the refugees are rather sullen.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 15.—It is reported that Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador to Mexico, intends to visit the Mexican capital soon.

MANY HURT IN CHURCH RIOT

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 15.—As a result of rioting to-day, provoked by the unsuccessful attempt of Sheriff Edward Swanson to carry out the order of Judge W. A. Funk of the Circuit Court, placing the Rev. Stanislaus Gruza in charge of St. Casimer's Polish Roman Catholic Church, three persons were seriously injured and nearly 100 otherwise hurt.

The riot was the culmination of trouble of more than a year's standing. Early in 1913 the priest in charge of the parish was transferred by the Order of the Holy Cross, the headquarters of which is at Notre Dame, and Father Gruza was assigned to succeed him.

The parish, consisting of 560 families, refused to accept Father Gruza, and barred his entrance to the church. When the church authorities refused to yield the matter was taken up with Bishop H. J. Alerding of Fort Wayne, and upon his refusal to interfere, attorneys were sent to Washington to confer with the papal delegate. In the meantime the church has been without a priest.

The trouble started at 7:30 o'clock this morning, when the Sheriff and Father Gruza drove up to the church in a taxicab. The Sheriff made an effort to open the church door, which was a signal for the ringing of the bell, the church being filled with children of the parish. Immediately from all directions, a mob gathered.

The Sheriff called the police, who marched up to the church to aid the Sheriff to carry out the Court's order, and held the mob off while Capt. William Cassidy broke open the door. The mob, which now numbered between 1,500 and 2,000, attacked the police with pickets which they ripped from the fences in the neighborhood, and the police were compelled to use their clubs vigorously in defending themselves.

CHILDREN DANCE IN RED.

Socialist Entertainment Enlists 3,000 Youngsters of Many Nations.

Under the auspices of the New York local of the Socialist Party, 3,000 children of the Socialist Sunday schools, took part in exercises yesterday in Finnish Hall, Madison Avenue and 125th Street. Children of six nationalities were there. They wore red dresses, red hats, and red sashes.

The celebration was arranged by the Finnish, German, English, and Jewish Socialist Sunday schools. Among those who took part were children of Italian, Slav, Jewish, Hungarian, Russian, and Polish parents.

Some of the children danced the minuet. Others took part in folk dances. The children who took part in the entertainment had been training for weeks.

Three Ticket Speculators Fined.

Three men accused by detectives of having violated the city ordinance against street trafficking in theatre tickets were let off with small fines in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday by Magistrate Freschi. Joseph Cuneo of 218 West Thirty-eighth Street paid a fine of $10. Benjamin Jones of 248 West Twenty-third Street and Frank Jones of 118 West Ninety-eighth Street paid fines of $5 each. Charles Levy of 139 West 111th Street, who also was arrested on Saturday evening by a squad under Inspector Gillen sent out to break up gangs of ticket speculators whose recent practices have caused much complaint, forfeited a $500 bond by failing to appear to answer the charge against him.

AMERICAN PRINCESS GUARDS HER NAME

MEANS TO END ANNOYANCE

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—In consequence of the publicity given to the Thurn and Taxis blackmailing case, which was heard in the Westminister Police Court last week, Leonora, Princess of Thurn and Taxis, has come to London. When she was interviewed in her suite at the Carlton Hotel she frankly admitted the object of her visit.

"I have been subjected," she said, "to considerable annoyance by some one who styles herself Josephine, Princess of Thurn and Taxis. On Jan. 31 my solicitor applied for and obtained the issue of a writ in the Court of Chancery, before Mr. Justice Sargent. This writ asked for an injunction against Josephine Moffatt, to restrain her from using the title 'Princess of Thurn and Taxis' and from calling herself the wife of Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis.

"Except for the issue of this writ I have so far made no move to terminate this annoyance; but now people whom I know are asking one another about this alleged extraordinary conduct of the Princess of Thurn and Taxis in meeting men for supper parties and theatres. Here is a certificate of registration of my marriage to Prince Victor. As you see, the marriage was celebrated in Uniontown, Penn., by the Rev. Mr. Spence, on Nov. 1, 1911. My husband is described as Victor Theodore Maximilian Egon Maria Lamoral, Prince of Thurn and Taxis, and I am set down as Leonora Fitzgerald, née Nicolls, and my father as John A. Nicolls. When we went to Hungary the marriage was registered, as you see, at Baltisar in February, 1912."

A SUFFRAGETTE OPERETTA.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The methods of suffragettes who snip off the tails of Cabinet Ministers' dress coats are the principal theme of "Young England," a new operetta, by Leo Fall, the composer of "The Dollar Princess," produced for the first time at the Tontis Operetten Theatre last night.

The piece, which was well received, concerns the escapades of the Bohemian wife of a British Cabinet Minister, her mischievous maid, and a London "nut," who impersonates the Secretary of the Superintendent of Scotland Yard.

The music reveals an earnest effort to emancipate the operetta from the bondage of dance numbers, and the book is amusing in many points.

TOKIO ORDERS NAVAL TRIAL.

Officers Named in Scandal Must Face a Court-Martial.

TOKIO, Feb. 16.—Vice Admiral Koichi Fujii, formerly Japanese Naval Attaché at Berlin, and Capt. Sawasaki have been ordered before a court-martial on the charge of bribery in connection with the alleged naval corruption. Admiral Baron Saito, Minister of Marine, made this announcement in the House of Peers to-day.

Allegations have been made that Admiral Fujii and other officers received illicit commissions for influencing the allotment of Admiralty contracts in favor of a German firm.

Both the Public Prosecutor and a naval commission headed by Admiral Baron Shigeto Dewa have been conducting inquiries along this line since Feb. 1. As a result of their investigations several other naval officers have been isolated, although definite charges against them have not yet been formulated.

The naval scandal has been used as a weapon by certain Opposition groups in an effort to discredit and overthrow the Ministry. Many mass meetings have been held in protest against the Government, and riotous scenes have occurred on the floor of the lower house.

Members of the Diet have been attacked while proceeding to the House, and to-day the Minister of the Interior, Kei Hara, had a narrow escape from injury. Two men leaped into his automobile in an attempt to assault him, but were seized by detectives. All the parties charge that the others are hiring henchmen to resort to violence.

The Lower House was a scene of unprecedented disorder last night, and adjourned after midnight. The members of the Opposition destroyed the ballot box in order to prevent the adoption of the business tax, which the masses wish to have abolished. Riotous scenes on the floor of the House continued throughout the session, which extended over many hours, the obstructionists blocking the Government at every turn.

CHASE ARMED MOTORIST.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The wild automobile exploits of Lee Bond, a wealthy man residing at Lyndhurst, in Hampshire County, caused a sensation to-day in three counties.

Accompanied by a chauffeur, he first appeared at a farmhouse near Shaftesbury, in Dorset, and, producing a revolver, demanded gasoline from a farmer, who was unable to supply it. Next he visited a garage in Shaftesbury, asked for and obtained fourteen two-gallon tins, and departed without paying.

The police were informed and the car was traced into Wiltshire, where at Wilton a Police Inspector tried to stop it. Mr. Bond, who was very well dressed and wore a khaki helmet, again produced his revolver, and the car sped on. Police officers in another car pursued it, but were soon outdistanced.

The police meanwhile traced the car by its number. They found it had been hired from a garage at Lyndhurst and was driven by one of the garage's chauffeurs.

Late to-night the police arrested Bond in the garden of his residence, where he was holding a revolver in each hand. Bond is 23 years old.

GIVES HEART TO MUSEUM.

Professor Also Bequeaths Eye and Brain to Haeckel Foundation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Feb. 15.—Prof. Doerfler of Vienna has bequeathed one of his eyes, his "sick heart,' 'and his brain to the Phyletic Museum of Jena as a contribution to the foundation which will be established to-morrow on the occasion of the eightieth birthday of Prof. Ernst Haeckel.

Prof. Doerfler, who edits a magazine devoted to Haeckel's theories, writes that he is so poor that he cannot contribute anything except his corpse to the museum founded by Haeckel—"and not even all of that," he adds, "as my native town has my promise to let it preserve my ashes in a memorial urn; but there is nothing to prevent the transfer of one eye, the heart, and the brain to the museum, which urgently requires anatomical exhibits, for the purpose of establishing the truth of your great principles."

RIFLES FOR SOUTH AMERICA.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Some unnamed South American republic, according to an official statement issued to-day, requires such an enormous quantity of army rifles that the entire output of Germany's leading gunworks, the Deutsche Waffen und Munitions Fabriken, for the past eleven months has been absorbed by the republic's orders.

The works hope to complete the orders in the present month. The rifles are of the Mauser pattern.

MURDER VICTIM A JEW.

So the "Black Hundred" Shifts Its Ground—Two Arrests.

KIEFF, Feb. 15.—The murder of the boy at Fastoff is rapidly assuming the dimensions of the Beiliss case. As in the earlier tragedy, stories of mysterious characters have been introduced, such as a "red-headed man" and "a lamplighter," both of whom have disappeared. The Black Hundred is showing its old-time anti-Semitic activity.

The Minister of Justice, J. G. Stcheglovitoff, and other judicial officials have arrived at Kieff and are sifting the evidence. On their arrival they were acclaimed by deputations from the Black Hundred and the Two-Headed Eagle organization.

The leaders of the Black Hundred, after first saying that the victim was a Christian, subsequently asserted that he was a Jew, and that he had been murdered by Jews in connection with the Beiliss case for the purpose of disproving the allegations of ritual murder by demonstrating that a Jewish boy, as well as a Christian, might be the victim of a crime.

They are also seeking to prove that Pashkoff, the Jewish tailor who has been arrested on the charge of being implicated in the murder, is a relative of Beiliss. Another indication that the present case is likely to be a repetition of the Beiliss affair is found in the fact that the two opposing counsel in the Beiliss trial, the Black Hundred representative, G. Zamislevsky, and the defender of Beiliss, M. Zarudny, have arrived at Kieff. Newspaper correspondents are thronging to Fastoff.

Pashkoff is still in prison, as is also a Russian peasant, Gontcharuk, who is said to have been seen with the boy on the day of the murder.

BERTILLON'S BRAIN WEIGHED

Was 1,525 Grammes—Anaemic and Shrunken by Illness, Says Savant.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The brain of Alphonse Bertillon, creator of the system of criminal identification, weighed 1,525 grammes. The weight of the brain of the average man is 1,360 grammes.

Dr. Leonce Manouvrier of the College of France, who has made a study of the brains of many celebrated men, has just completed an examination of Bertillon's brain. He considers the weight all the more remarkable because the organ was shrunken and anaemic from a long and exhausting sickness.

The brains of many noted men have been weighed. The heaviest was that of the novelist and poet, Ivan Turgenieff, which weighed 2,012 grammes. The brain of Gen. B. F. Butler weighed 1,785; that of William M. Thackeray, the novelist, 1,658, while the brain of Daniel Webster weighed 1,518. The brain of Dr. Edward C. Ppitzka, the neurologist and alienist, who died recently, weighed 1,400 grammes.

STORM DELAYS IRISH MAILS.

Carmania Cannot Enter Queenstown Harbor—51 Passengers Left.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 15.—The steamship Carmania, from Liverpool for New York, anchored outside the harbor to-day, the Captain declining to enter. The tender did not dare to venture outside, and fifty-one passengers and 1,000 sacks of mail must wait for the Olympic on Thursday.

The Arabic, which arrived about the same time as the Carmania, entered the harbor and took her passengers aboard in a comparatively smooth sea.

NEW PARIS GOWNS ARE JOSEPH'S COATS

CAPES HAVE COME BACK

They Resemble the Golf Wraps of Ten Years Ago—Skirts as Narrow as Even

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Dress materials of many and fantastic colors and the reintroduction of a garment which had entirely disappeared from the fashionable wardrobe were striking features of the first Paris Spring race meeting at Auteuil this afternoon.

Special attention was attracted by a rainbow dress which contained every known color and several that seemed to have been invented especially for it. In design it might be described as either a "super-tartan" or a series of vivid stripes. Over this material, in one case silk and in another cloth, the pioneers of the fashions of to-morrow wore a long, sleeveless cloak resembling the golf cape popular ten years ago. It was very full, and at the back came down in a point, like a shawl, to the foot of the skirt. One of the cloaks was of yellow cloth, lined with black silk. Another, of lighter material, had a large, square sailor collar of the same material hanging over the shoulders. Another was in black satin, with a hood of brilliantly colored silk.

Though it had been promised that the new skirts would be wider, they were as narrow as ever and even more difficult to walk in, for the slit had been closed up, or at the utmost extended only two or three inches from the edge of the skirt. The trousers skirt was not to be seen.

Among the many black hats that gave the inclosure an unusually sober appearance was one in velvet, resembling a Glengarry bonnet, without a ribbon. All the new hats were small

VEDRINES'S DUEL WAITS.

Aviator Asks Seconds to Demand Satisfaction of M. Quinton.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—A duel between Jules Vedrines, the French aviator, and Rene Quinton, President of the French Aerial League, has not yet been arranged. Vedrines to-day charged Henry De Jouvenal, editor in chief of the Matin, and Count Henri de la Vaulx, the aeronaut, to demand satisfaction from M. Quinton.

Vedrines, who recently flew from Paris to Cairo, arrived here yesterday. His quarrel with M. Quinton arose out of his refusal to give satisfaction to a rival aviator, Henri Roux, who had also flown from Paris to Cairo, and challenged Vedrines to a duel after the latter had struck him. On Vedrines's refusal to fight Roux, M. Quinton suggested that he would meet Vedrines. The latter replied that while he would not fight Roux, he would fight Quinton as soon as he returned to Paris.

M. Quinton up to the present has given no intimation of his intentions with regard to Vedrines's challenge.

NEW ARGENTINE CABINET.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 15.—The newspaper Nacion announces the appointment of a new Cabinet, constituted as follows: Minister of the Interior, Miguel Ortiz; Finance, Enrique Carbo; Foreign Affairs, José Luis Murature; Agriculture, José Malbran; Public Works, Manuel Moyano; War, Gen. Velez; Justice and Public Instruction, Horacio Calderon; Marine, Saenz Valiente.

Señor Murature is editor of The Nacion, which further says that a decree announcing the new Cabinet will be issued to-morrow.

Much dissension has arisen over the question of granting the President of the Republic, Dr. Saenz Peña, an additional two months' leave of absence from his official duties, he having received two months' leave last October. The Vice President, Dr. de la Plaza, has been in charge of the Presidential office.

PIG IRON PRODUCTION.

The Figures of the Iron and Steel Institute for 1913.

Some interesting figures of iron production during the calendar year 1913, are given in the report just issued of the Bureau of Statistics of the American Iron and Steel Institute. During the year, twenty-one States made pig iron, as against twenty States in 1912. For the first time in over forty years, and probably for the first time in its history, it is asserted, Mississippi appears in 1913 among the States which made pig iron.

During the first six months of the year, the production of pig iron was largely in excess of any similar period, being nearly two and one-half million tons larger than during the corresponding period of 1912, and more than a million and a half tons in excess of the phenomenal production of the first half of 1910. The second half of 1913 showed a production of nearly 1,200,000 tons less than the corresponding period of the year before. It is curious to note that exactly similar conditions prevailed in the last half of 1910, as compared with the like period in 1909. The figures of production of pig iron in gross tons in half yearly periods for six years are appended:

1910	14,978,738	12,324,829	27,303,567
1912	14,072,274	15,654,663	29,726,937
1913	16,488,602	14,477,699	30,966,301

From this table, it appears that the production of pig iron during the last six months of 1913 was 2,010,903 tons, or almost 12.2 per cent. less than during the first half of the year. With the exception of New Jersey, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, and Minnesota, no State increased its output during the last half of the year. Pennsylvania showed a decrease in that period of 815,176 tons; Ohio, 191,421 tons; Illinois, 378,057 tons; Indiana and Michigan, 13,603 tons; New York and New Jersey, 199,280 tons, and Alabama, 98,435 tons.

There were 355 furnaces in blast during a part or the whole of 1913. The annual capacity of these furnaces is 38,629,000 tons. They produced during the year 30,966,301 tons.

TERMS OF CHINA OIL LEASE.

Standard Will Retain at Least 55 Per Cent. of Stock.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 16.—The Peking correspondent of The Times says that the arrangement between the Standard Oil Company and the Chinese Government for the exploitation of the oil resources of Chi-Li and Shen-Si Provinces includes some interesting features.

In exchange for the concession China asked for a loan of $15,000,000; but as lending money is no part of the business of the Standard Oil Company, it agreed instead that the Government should receive without payment 37¼ per cent. of the stock of the company formed to exploit the concession, with the right to purchase further holdings to the extent of 7½ per cent. within two years.

By this arrangement the Standard Oil Company retains complete control, while the Chinese appear to have the dangerous power of realizing on their holdings at their discretion. The agreement includes the right to construct pipe lines and railways for the development of the fields—a right which, with respect to railways in Eastern Chi-Li, is reported to be regarded by the Japanese with particular disfavor.

EVIDENCE OF COUNTESS.

Woman Suing for Mecklenburg-Schwerin Title Lived Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 16.—New evidence is to be introduced to-morrow in the action brought by Countess de Gasquet-James, who asks that her marriage to the Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin be declared a legal and subsisting marriage.

Among the new papers before the court is a document which shows that the Countess was born in New York on Jan. 27, 1860. She is described as a daughter of George Pratt, Colonel in the United States Army. Miss Pratt lived in New York until she was 18 years of age. Then she went to France, and soon afterward married Count de Gasquet-James, who died in 1903, leaving the Countess his fortune.

According to the documents, the Countess has been involved in legal proceedings in the United States courts arising out of the disposition of the property in that country.

One witness of the marriage ceremony at Dover was A. B. Bartlett, an American lawyer practicing in Paris, who was a great friend of the Countess.

SPELLING DOG MEETS TEST.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The thinking horses at Elberfeld, which have merited the admiration of Maeterlinck, appear to have a highly talented confrère at Mannheim in the shape of a spelling dog, "Rolf."

Prof. Claparede of the Department of Experimental Psychology at the University of Geneva, who has just investigated Rolf, pronounces the animal an undeniable wonder. Prof. Claparede, for the purpose of avoiding collusion between the dog and its mistress, brought a set of pictures which the latter had never seen. One showed four mice gnawing cheese. Rolf promptly spelled out fragments of words which convinced Prof. Claparede that the dog knew unmistakably what the picture was.

STOWED PARNELL IN DRAWER

Irish Leader's Mother Then Forgot Where She Had Put Her Babe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—J. Howard Parnell, Dublin City Marshal, writing reminiscences of his famous brother, Charles Stewart Parnell, tells of how their mother's forgetfulness nearly lost to Ireland the man who led the Home Rule movement.

"Our mother," writes Mr. Parnell, "was nursing him when a visitor was suddenly announced. She hastily stowed away the future Irish leader in a drawer, which she closed without thinking, and hurried to the drawing room.

"When the visitor left she found she had clean forgotten what she had done with Charley, and a frantic search was made until muffled howls from the drawer where he was imprisoned resulted in his release."

EX-PREMIER BRIAND STONED

But Unhurt in First Public Meeting of His New Party.

HAVRE, Feb. 15.—What politicians consider to be one of the most exciting electoral campaigns of the Third Republic was opened here to-day by the Briandist Party, a new political organization composed of many Republican Senators and Deputies. The object of the Briandists, as stated by its organizers, is to put the good of France as a whole before the considerations of local politics

Aristide Briand, the former Premier; J. Louis Barthou, also a former Premier, and a host of other leaders addressed a gathering of more than 3,000 enthusiastic followers.

Opponents of the movement had prepared a warm reception for the speakers. Thousands of whistles and rattles had been distributed to young dockmen and laborers, but the authorities had drafted reinforcements of gendarmes who maintained comparative order. The whistling and noise of rattles was drowned by the cheering.

As M. Briand passed through the streets from the station to the meeting hall, a few stones were thrown, but the ex-Premier was not harmed.

START BANK CHAIN TO KILL OFF USURY

The $6,000,000 Enterprise of Vincent Astor, Rosenwald, and Others Incorporated.

LEND CASH ON CHARACTER

To Back Local Institutions Which Will Help Honest Wage Earners Without Security at Fair Interest.

The nation-wide enterprise, the inception of which was recently noted in THE TIMES, having the double purpose of lending money to honest men of small means at reasonable rates of interest and to afford a method of enabling thrifty men to get a good rate of interest on their savings, has just been launched by the incorporation at Richmond, Va., of the Industrial Corporation. The plan follows the ideas suggested by Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears-Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, in THE TIMES's recent interview. Besides accomplishing the double purpose mentioned the scheme is to wipe out, if possible, the loan sharks, who prey upon the needs of the honest poor, and to encourage wage-earners to save and to build up good reputations, because the only men who will be able to borrow under the new plan will be those whose characters will guarantee repayment of the loans. No collateral will be asked from men desiring to borrow, but the recommendation of some neighbor whose standing in the community is known will be required.

The new plan, that will soon be in active operation, has the indorsement and backing of some of the most far-sighted and best business men in the country. The Board of Directors, so far as completed last week, consists of such men as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Dr. E. R. L. Gould, Joseph S. Auerbach, Oscar S. Straus, Vincent Astor and Theodore P. Shonts of this city; Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, A. L. Shapleigh and George D. Markham of St. Louis; Robert Jemison of Birmingham, Ala.; Henry F. Baker of Baltimore, Joseph Shattuck of Springfield, Mass.; Oliver J. Sands of Richmond, Va.; Nathan B. Scott of Washington, D. C.; Frederick J. Paxon, Hollins N. Randolph and C. H. Ferrell of Norfolk, Va., and J. R. McAllistor and Louis J. Kolb of Philadelphia.

The new corporation has a capital of $6,000,000. It will assist the organization throughout the country of local institutions which will afford industrious and needy wage-earners, and all other small borrowers, the opportunity of borrowing small sums on fair terms and promote, as far as it can, the practice of saving among the people who patronize the plan. These extracts from the charter of the company explain the extent of the plan:

First—Provide for the worthy wage-earner and other small borrowers where the need of the loan is apparent, opportunity for borrowing small sums of money without the necessity of submitting to the extortion of money lenders, but at rates which are reasonable to the borrower and yet fairly remunerative to capital; to enable the small borrower to secure such moneys largely upon the faith of indorsements and guarantees and without requirement of a pledge of chattels as collateral security for repayment, and

Second—To provide opportunity for the systematic investment of small savings bearing a higher rate of interest than is now feasible and affording a basis for the securing of credit and thus to encourage thrift.

In order to increase its efficiency the new company acquired all the assets of the Fidelity Corporation of America, which had the sole right to what is known as the Morris Plan of industrial savings and loans. This plan was originated by Arthur J. Morris and his law firm, Morris, Garnett & Cotten of Norfolk, Va. The first institution to operate under the plan was launched about four years ago. The plan suggested by Mr. Rosenwald in January ran along the same lines. Mr. Rosenwald said at that time:

"These banks, it is hoped, will in large measure eliminate the loan shark evil now flourishing all over the country. We aim to kill this system, which encourages the poor man to borrow beyond his means, a system which asks no questions as to how the money is to be used, and which extracts such high rates of interest that a borrower, once in the system's clutches, never is able to shake himself free again. No loan will be made by our industrial banks without conclusive proof that the money is to be used for legitimate purposes."

According to the statement given out by the projectors here the plan is an adaptation of the principles of the Schulze-Delitzsch industrial banks that revolutionized the financial and sociological conditions in Germany and Austria more than fifty years ago, and of the Luzatti modification of this plan that has been in successful operation in Italy for half a century. It has been scientifically fitted to American conditions and laws, based upon experience in American banking.

WAIST FACTORY ROBBED.

Thieves Take Only the Finest Materials from Heidenreith Plant.

A battered door leading to a loft on the sixth floor of 164 West Twenty-fifth Street last night led to the discovery that the silk waist factory of M. Heidenreith had been robbed. Mr. Heidenreith was summoned to the loft by Supt. F. W. White of the Metropolitan Electric Protective Association, and found that more than $2,000 worth of goods had been taken.

He said the thieves had stolen only the best of his sample lines and the finest materials. Inspector Faurot took charge of the police investigation of the case, saying that there had been many complaints of loft burglaries in the neighborhood. The amount taken by the thieves showed that they must have used an auto or wagon to cart their loot away.

SMALL GRAFTER TRIES TO DIE

Takes Poison in Station, Saying "You've Got Me Now."

Dores A. Hartogs, 35 years old, who said he was transportation agent for the Central Islip State Hospital for the Insane, was being questioned in the Fort Hamilton Station yesterday afternoon after he had been arrested on a charge of petit larceny, when suddenly he sank to the floor with a groan. He had swallowed a tablet of some kind with the remark, "You've got me now, but it won't be for long." Hartogs was taken to the Norwegian Hospital. It is thought that he swallowed bichloride of mercury. An additional charge of attempted suicide was made against him.

Hartogs was arrested on the complaint of Edward McConnell of 536 Seventy-second Street, Bay Ridge McConnell told the police that last July his brother-in-law was taken to the institution at Central Islip. Hartogs, he asserted, called on him last Friday and represented that he had been sent by the institution to collect $5 for the transportation to the institution from Bellevue of his brother-in-law. The suspicions of McConnell were aroused, and he told Hartogs to call yesterday for the money. In the meantime he learned from the institution that although Hartogs was employed there it was not in the capacity of transportation agent. McConnell was advised to give Hartogs a marked $5 bill when he called yesterday. This he did, and when Hartogs left the house he was arrested.

FEAR OF FIRE KILLED HER.

After Rescue Mrs. Rosenbaum Died in Home of Bath Beach Neighbor.

Mrs. Bertha Rosenbaum, 59 years old, of 8,663 Seventeenth Avenue, Bath Beach, was so badly frightened last night by a fire which spread from an adjoining dwelling to her home that she died ten minutes after she was carried into the home of a neighbor.

Patrolman Gordin of the Bath Beach station discovered the fire shortly after 7 o'clock last night in the two-story frame dwelling occupied by the families of David Kantrowitz and Hyman Klotz at 8,661 Seventeenth Street. Both of these families were away at the time. After turning in an alarm Gordon warned the families in the adjoining houses of their danger.

The fire quickly spread to the Rosenbaum home. Mrs. Rosenbaum became hysterical and was carried by her husband and son to the house of Ira D. Schwartz, at 8,724 Seventeenth Street, where she was attended by Dr. Jacob Sarnoff, who said that her death was due to fright.

Battalion Chief Conroy turned in a second alarm, which brought all of the apparatus from Bath Beach to the scene. The fire also spread to the dwellings at 8,665 and 8,659 Seventeenth Street, routing out the families of James Moriarity, Myer L. Brodie, Michael Simbler and Max Moscovitz.

The police reported the fire as suspicious, as the house was unoccupied at the time of its discovery. The damage was estimated at $25,000.

SEEK PRIMARY AMENDMENTS

Democratic Club Committee Will Ask Glynn to Propose Them.

The Primary Law Committee of the National Democratic Club will depart on the Empire State Express this morning for Albany to ask Gov. Glynn to send a special message to the Legislature advocating amendments to the new primary law. The proposed amendments were embodied in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the club and are modeled after the amendments to the New Jersey primary law, obtained by President Wilson when he was Governor of that State.

The principal feature of the amendments provides that the first day of registration shall be the fifth Tuesday before election, so as to coincide with the Fall primary election. It is provided that each primary district for all party primary elections shall consist of a single election district, with a board of primary election officers representing all parties in charge, and that at least five days before both primary and general elections sample ballots shall be mailed to each enrolled and registered voter.

The object of these amendments is to obtain a heavy vote in the primaries of all parties by making registration day and the primary election coincide, thus defeating the rule of the minority by which the machines now rule in the primaries, and, through making the primary election units of all parties the election district, with a bi-partisan board of officials in control, insure honest primaries which are now impossible while the dominant faction in each party controls the primary election machinery of that party.

Woman Falls Dead in the Street.

An elderly, well-dressed woman fell dead before 225 St. Nicholas Avenue at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Her body was removed to the West 123d Street Police Station, where no marks of identification were found. It was then taken to the Harlem Morgue. There at 9:30 o'clock last evening a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Hall identified the dead woman as her sister, Mrs. Mary Kerns, 53 years old, of 250 West 123d Street. The cause of death had not been determined last night, but was believed to have been heart disease.

Fashions for the Jeunesse

To be an authority on dress for young people requires international observation—and some diplomacy.

It entails personal inspection of the politest usage abroad and at home.

Suits for the Girl Who Is Graduating from Girlhood

Sometimes womanly in stature—too apt to be awkwardly subjected to "cut down" ladies' things.

As a rule there is nothing for her except what is made to order.

Following foreign fashions, here are De Pinna ready-to-wear suits, in wool crepes, gaberdines, men's wear serges and shepherd checks; $25 to $65—with special assortments at $35 and $45.

De Pinna Jeunesse Dresses for All Occasions

Simple dresses for school in serges and soft imported woolens.

Dressier dresses for evening affairs.

Dancing frocks that are the embodiment of grace and propriety.

Prices from $15 to $55. All distinctive De Pinna things, which no other shop presents.

Bring your girl to us—it is part of her education to see what a girl should wear—what she would wear in Paris, or St. Petersburg, or London.

Girls' Coats

Balmacaan and Ripple models in soft imported materials—serges, golfines and velour de la Paix—for girls from four to eighteen.

Young Men's Clothes

De Pinna, as usual, is fully prepared for boys of all ages—including those who are slipping into manhood, but who are not yet ready to slip into men's clothes.

Many new special things for the younger man of 14 to 20, who appreciates unexaggerated smartness.

THE GORHAM COMPANY

One of the first things the Gorham Company did was to make knives, forks and spoons. Naturally, 83 years' practice makes this firm an authority in that field.

The peculiar distinction of Gorham's is they have had but one standard of Quality. When Jabez Gorham, the founder, first began making spoons by hand in Meeting Street, Providence, he made the best spoons of his day. And his successors have religiously maintained this reputation.

Though the quality is much the same, it is a far cry from the handmade knives and forks and spoons of 83 years ago to the beautifully patterned table silver of to-day. The Gorham designs, each one a pattern of individual beauty and distinction.

SAYS CRIMINALS ARE LIKE ALL OTHER MEN

HAS GOOD WORD FOR RUEF

Seeks His Release and Says He No Longer Is a Menace — Gives Views on Criminology.

Criminality is the result of an attitude of mind that may be due to a number of causes, but there is no such thing as a criminal type of man, according to Fremont Older, managing editor of The San Francisco Bulletin, who was at the Hotel Gotham yesterday. Mr. Older has studied crime and criminals in San Francisco, and has established a bureau through which employment is obtained for ex-convicts. The work on his own ranch in California is managed by a one-time stage robber, and almost all of the ranch employes have been in prison for offenses from petit larceny to burglary and highway robbery.

"I have talked with hundreds of ex-convicts," said Mr. Older yesterday, "and have studied their cases while in close personal touch with them.

"Many persons seem to think that the men in our prisons are a distinct class different in several essentials from any other class. They seem to think that convicts should be treated differently from other men, whereas whatever difference there is between convicts and free citizens is almost entirely one of degree and not of kind. Few men go through life without at one time or another being out of sympathy with the law in thought or act, but we do not call them all criminals.

"The criminals are those who get caught in a single offense, which may not indicate their conscious and continuous attitude toward society, and those who, after one or more offenses, elect to hold themselves without the pale of social regulation and live in defiance of the law and custom. When a man is poor and dissatisfied and his point of view is twisted by an unsympathetic environment or the irresponsible influence of the streets it is easy for him to make the transition from what we might call occasional criminality to habitual criminality.

"Then he has the criminal attitude of mind and his occupation is law-breaking just as selling boots or books or making stoves is the occupation of another man. But he does not choose his occupation because of some inherent mental defect. Many a man whose name is a symbol of honesty would have become a criminal if he had been under the same influences and experiences that affect the average man who steals for a living.

"Among the poor, when the little boys are first turned out into the streets to play, it is always a question of who will get them first, the home or the police. They are all petty violators of the law, and it's largely a matter of chance whether any one of them will have a vision of a life of law-abiding honesty and settle down safely before a few encounters with the police and association with crime determine his future as a criminal.

"In their business of being criminals, most men look at things differently from us; but in things not concerned with their lawbreaking they are like other men in their feelings and thoughts. Realizing, then, that criminals are pretty much as other people, except in their peculiar point of view, I have spent many years trying to correct the point of view of as many of them as possible.

"The results of my efforts have been most encouraging. I have organized an ex-convicts' employment bureau in the Bulletin office, and right now there are 150 ex-convicts working on ranches and in other places in California who have got their chance through the bureau. My own ranch is worked almost entirely by ex-convicts. Only two men out of all we have helped have ever been sent back to prison, which, I think, is a remarkable showing."

Mr. Older was one of those who sought eagerly the conviction of Abe Ruef and other San Francisco political offenders, but he is now endeavoring to have Ruef parolled. Ruef, he said, was the victim of a system which he found. He has shown, says Mr. Older, that he no longer is a menace to society.

ARTISTS TO PRODUCE PLAYS

"Perfectly Happy" and "Plague of My Art" to be Acted On Thursday.

The Society of Illustrators will present two plays at the Berkeley Theatre next Thursday night. The plays will touch upon the sex question as well as other leading topics of the day. Charles B. Falls, decorative artist and playwright, has written one of them entitled "Perfectly Happy." It is called a decorative pantomime and will be accompanied by music especially composed by John T. McGovern.

The other play will be "Plague of My Art." It is two scenes and a moving picture reel, and written by Robert J. Wildhack and F. E. Dayton. The play shows what art will be 1,000 years from now. It is suggested that art critics and magazine editors bring their own fire escapes.

Charles Dana Gibson is President of the society, Arthur I. Keller, Vice President, and Henry S. Fleming, Secretary and Treasurer. Other members are E. M. Ashe, Edward Penfield, E. L. Blumenschoen, F. G. Cooper, J. A. Williams, Boardman Robinson, Harry Townsend, Wallace Morgan, Lejaren a'Hiller, Charles D. Williams, C. Allan Gilbert and Harry Grant Dart.

Y. W. H. A.'S NEW HOME.

Organization Must Raise $45,000 to Receive It Free of Debt.

The eleventh annual meeting of the Young Women's Hebrew Association was held yesterday afternoon in the association's home at 1,578 Lexington Avenue. Mrs. Israel Unterberg, the President, presented her annual report, in which she said that 1,000 Jewish girls and young women had come under the influence of the association in the last year, and that employment had been obtained for almost four hundred applicants.

The work of the association would be greatly extended, Mrs. Unterberg said, when the new home at 110th Street and Fifth Avenue, was completed. At present only eighteen lodgers can be taken care of by the association, but accommodations for 150 will be provided in the new home. The expenses of operation will increase with the work, however, and for this reason a campaign for 3,000 new members will be undertaken soon. Also $45,000 is needed before the new home can be accepted by the association debt free.

G. Richard Davis, the Chairman of the Building Committee, said the association's new home already had been built up to the sixth floor. It is to be eight stories high, with a large auditorium, rooms for cooking, sewing and other classes, parlors, reading rooms, game rooms, a dining room, kitchen, gymnasium, swimming pool, and 100 bedrooms, half of which will be double rooms. There will be a playground for the smaller children on the roof.

Mrs. Charles H. Israels and the Rev. Dr. de Sola Pool spoke, and Miss Sophia Berger, the Superintendent of the home, gave an exhibit of the handiwork of the girls, displaying many well-made dresses and other pieces.

These Directors were elected: Mrs. Morris Golde, Mrs. Adolph Guggenheim, Mrs. Joseph Klein, Mrs. A. E. Kornfeld, Mrs. J. L. Magnes, Mrs. Charles F. Samson, Mrs. M. S. Shrier, Mrs. Max W. Solomon, Mrs. Maximillian Toch, Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, Mrs. L. W. Zwisohn, Mrs. Jerome J. Hanauer, Mrs. N. Taylor Phillips, and Miss Alice L. Seligsberg.

MRS. SMITH TO BE A NUN.

Widow of ex-Postmaster General Enters Catholic Order Here.

Mrs. Henrietta Nichols Smith, widow of Charles Emory Smith, ex-Postmaster General and Ambassador to Russia, and at the time of his death, on Jan. 19, 1908, editor of The Philadelphia Press, has become a novitiate in the Institute of Our Lady of Christian Doctrine, at 173 Cherry Street. Her relatives said yesterday that Mrs. Smith would not take the veil for at least a year. She began her novitiate several weeks ago.

In thus dedicating her life to religion and charity, Mrs. Smith will relinqnish a high place in society, and it is understood that she will turn over to the Catholic Church her income and property when she becomes a nun. For many years she has been prominent in the Association of Catholic Women of America, and has been affiliated with charitable work in New York.

"Mrs. Smith does not wish to be interviewed," said the Mother Superior yesterday, "and her one request is that she be spared publicity in entering upon her new life."

According to the rules of the institute, Mrs. Smith may withdraw within the next two years before taking her vows as a nun, but it was said yesteday that there was no likelihood that she would abandon her intention of joining the order.

Mrs. Smith is a daughter of Dr. Washington Romaine Nichols, who was well known as a lawyer in this city. She is a sister of Mrs. James B. Clews, wife of the banker, who lives at Fifth Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street. Another sister is Mrs. James F. Sullivan of Philadelphia. Mrs. Romaine C. Nichols of Bernardsville, N. J., is her sister-in-law. Mrs. Nichols's daughter entered a Carmelite convent in Boston last November.

NEW SAFETY DEVICE FOR SUBWAY CURVES

TO END FREQUENT FALLS

Interboro to Try Out Device Shortly at the Fourteenth Street Station.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company announced yesterday that it had been experimenting for some time on a mechanical device to eliminate dangerous openings between the Subway platform and the car doors at stations on the Subway which are situated on curves.

When the tracks curve the platforms are required to curve correspondingly to provide a clearance for the moving cars. Where the curves are concave the ends of cars just clear the platforms, but the centre is a distance of some inches from the edge of the platform. Where the curves are convex the centre of the cars is nearest the platform, and the gap then exists at the doors of cars.

Because it has been found impossible to correct the existing mechanical arrangement of curved tracks and stations, other remedies have been sought. The Interborough describes the operation of the gap-filling device now being perfected as follows:

"When ten-car trains are in service the passenger station device operator takes his stand at a point where the forward end of a ten-car train is expected to stop, and an instant or two before the train comes to a stop he moves his controller handle to the operating point. This energizes the electrical magnets that admit air to the air cylinders. The operation of those cylinders projects a grated segment of the station platform to match up or suit each door wherever a gap obtains, thus placing a gap-filling device to cover the place between the cars and station platform before the cars come to a stop. This grated segment is maintained in a level plane, so that when it is moved to its outward position it in nowise affects the natural movement of the embarking and disembarking passengers. This grated gap-filling segment remains in the outward position until the train has proceeded a distance of some seven or eight feet on its outward journey, when, through the action of the moving train and an automatic reversal of the electro-pneumatic cylinder action, the grated segment recedes under the station platform."

A preliminary test has been successful. The next step in the process of development is to install a trial device at the most dangerous point of the Fourteenth Street station, which is now being done and will soon be in operation.

Beluchistan Rugs

ANY ONE who will take the trouble to "shop" for Oriental rugs in New York—to go to the various places where they are offered and thoroughly examine and compare the offerings—will arrive at the conclusion that in the range between $20 and $200, there is a special reason for the supremacy of Vantine's rugs. This house was the first to introduce Oriental rugs to America, back in 1878. It quickly learned the great and constant demand for rugs at these prices and has specialized on them, with the advantage of its Far Eastern connections.

Beluchistan rugs, for instance, are just now among those most demanded and we believe there is no such collection of them elsewhere at the prices here offered. From that wild country of the Khan of Kelat we show many beautiful rugs at $22.50 to $85, ranging from 3.6 by 6 feet up to 6 by 8 feet. They are in the effective translucent reds and clarets, with blue designs and show the ivory white fish-hook borders.

One very unusual rug is a Beluchistan Antique, 6.8 by 11.2 feet—a rug of the old school—priced at $175 and in an excellent state of preservation. It is rich in blues and copper bronze shades, with a surface like silk velvet—a rug that positively could not be replaced at the price.

Another Beluchistan—a semi-antique—5.10 by 8.2 feet, is offered at $85, showing softly contrasting reds and a number of intricate borders; and another, a blue rug, 6.8 by 8.4 feet, is offered at $100.

A larger rug, of the same decorative family, is a Bushire, in raspberry and dull reds—a most effective antique, 8 by 16.5 feet, offered at $350. And these are merely examples at regular prices, from a tremendous assortment of carefully selected rugs.

Certain-teed
ROOFING
GUARANTEED

The General says:—

You do not pay one cent extra for the assurance of roofing service which this label brings when you buy

Quality Cert-ified Roofing Durability Guaran-teed

If the price of Certain-teed is slightly higher than some other roofings—it's the quality that makes a 15-year guarantee possible, for which you pay.

A roof does not have hard usage to contend with. Roofs do not wear out—they dry out. No seemingly scientific test for toughness, tensile strength, pliability or anything else, can give you any indication of the lasting qualities of a roof.

But you have the responsibility of the three biggest roofing mills in the world behind our guarantee label—that is your advance indication of the lasting qualities of Certain-teed.

We use no coal tar in this roofing, because coal tar is of gaseous origin and naturally returns to gas, thus drying out too quickly. Our properly blended asphalts are the result of our quarter century's experience and tests. They are not of gaseous origin and dry out very slowly.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof for buildings of the most permanent type appeals to architects, engineers and builders as well as to owners.
A Certain-teed Construction Roof is a built-up roof and is the modern scientific process of covering—whether a gable roof or a flat roof with poor drainage.
A Certain-teed Construction Roof does away with the smoky tar-pot and as no gravel is used, does not collect dust and the roof is washed clean after every rain. It is a sanitary roof.
Costs more—but worth more. Applied only by responsible roofers.

You can buy roofing for less than the price of Certain-teed. Your saving at most, however, is but a few dollars—and it's poor economy. Certain-teed is always reasonable in price—and less expensive in the end.

PUTTING THE MODERN ROOFING INDUSTRY ON THE MAP.

By George M. Brown, President General Roofing Manufacturing Company

Prepared roofing—the modern roofing—has come to stay. It is the natural result of the needs of modern business and modern building methods.

Like every innovation—the first telephone, the first typewriter, the first automobile, the first airship—it bumped smash up against the solid wall of prejudice at the very start.

It was a real struggle—the same real struggle that every new industry undergoes before it gets under way. But this new industry had a real champion—Certain-teed, the guaranteed-for-fifteen-years roofing.

The quality capable of making good on a fifteen-year guarantee established the faith of the public in the modern roofing industry and set it on its feet.

And Certain-teed roofing—with the tremendous momentum of its broadcast advertising, its aggressive sales policy, its enormous volume of production, and with the three biggest mills in the roofing industry behind its guarantee—is chiefly responsible for this great and rapid success with which the prepared roll and shingle roofing industry has met.

Every manufacturer of modern roofing—every dealer who sells roofing and every user of roofing, has profited by the unprecedented success of Certain-teed.

Thousands upon tens of thousands of dollars have been saved by users of roofing, by the success of Certain-teed roofing—not only the users of Certain-teed roofing, but the users of all good roll or shingle roofings. For, while we contend Certain-teed, the guaranteed-for-15-years roofing to be the best roofing made, we concede that any good ready roofing has many advantages over the old style roof.

And while saving thousands upon thousands of dollars for roofing owners, the success of Certain-teed roofing has made thousands upon thousands of dollars in profits for roofing dealers—not only the dealers in Certain-teed roofing, but the dealers in all good modern roofings. For the success of Certain-teed roofing has meant the very great success of the entire roll roofing industry.

Modern roofing has come to stay. It is a gigantic and successful industry—thanks to the success of Certain-teed—for it is based on modern, scientific methods, efficiency, economy and better service. It means the truest economy for the roofing user—the best protection for his buildings and a better protection for his investment than he has ever had before.

At the same time it means a good, fair profit to the roofing dealer and bigger and better business than he ever did before with lower prices to the user.

Certain-teed roofing has established modern roofing as one of the longest steps in the scientific management of building—the introduction of modern scientific efficiency methods in the roofing industry. The success of Certain-teed roofing in this respect has meant success to all good prepared roofings. It has put the modern roofing industry on the map.

BIG DRIFTS HAMPER STREET CLEANERS

SURFACE CARS BLOCKED

Service on Some Lines Was Discontinued Yesterday, but Normal Conditions Are Hoped For To-day.

The task of removing the snow left behind by the storm which swept this city on Friday night and Saturday morning is proving a serious one, and last night officials of the Street Cleaning Department admitted that they had not made the progress they had hoped for.

Street Cleaning Commissioner J. T. Fetherston said that the snow had been packed into banks by the gale that raged in New York Saturday morning. This made the work of clearing the streets harder than usual, he asserted, as under the present conditions from thirty to forty wagons and from fifty to seventy-five strong men were unable to clean more than two city blocks a day.

At sundown yesterday 10,000 men had cleared thoroughly Cortlandt Street, Kenmare Street, (the thoroughfare between the Bowery and the Williamsburg Bridge,) and had cleared for part of their length Broadway, Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Avenues, the Bowery, Third Avenue, 125th Street in Manhattan, and 149th Street in the Bronx.

By to-night, Commissioner Fetherston said, he hoped to have Broadway and Fifth Avenue cleared from end to end, in addition to most of the other streets on which traffic was heaviest. Last night the work of the Street Cleaning Department and the snow contractors was concentrated on Broadway, Fifth and Sixth Avenues, and the principal streets in the downtown financial and business districts.

"We now have Broadway cleared in spots," said Supt. A. F. Gunther of the Snow Removal Bureau last night, "and by morning we expect to have it cleared from Bowling Green to Twenty-third Street. By to-morrow night, if all goes well, Broadway should be out of the problem. We expect to have Fifth Avenue in good shape also by sundown to-morrow."

Some of the streets that have received practically no attention so far are Madison Avenue, Central Park West, Riverside Drive, West End Avenue, and practically all of the crosstown streets except those leading to ferries and those through which the crosstown cars run.

From every part of New York, except the districts where the snow removers were concentrated, came complaints yesterday of the slowness that had marked the removal of the snow. Supt. Gunther received about 1,000 telephone calls yesterday from persons who wanted to know why the snow had not been removed from the streets in front of their homes. In most cases the complaints came from those living on cross streets, which will not receive much attention until the principal business thoroughfares have been cleared.

One man told Mr. Gunther that the fire hydrant in front of his home was buried under a ten-foot drift of snow and that he wanted the snow removed from it at once. Mr. Gunther informed him that the law required householders to keep hydrants clear of snow for a distance of ten feet on both sides, and that a failure to obey that law might result in a fine of $10. The man who complained said that he would see that the law was obeyed.

Mr. Gunther said that one man of prominence living in Fifth Avenue, between Eighty-seventh and Eighty-eighth Streets, in whose home a wedding was to be held on Tuesday morning, had asked where he could get a private contractor to remove the snow.

"The block must be clean at that time," the man said, according to Mr. Gunther, "and I don't care what it costs."

Mr. Gunther said that about 10,200 men were at work in the streets yesterday, of whom 5,600 were department employes and the rest men employed by the snow contractors. The contractors had 2,500 men in Manhattan, 1,800 in Brooklyn, and about 300 in the Bronx. About 2,400 wagons, he said, were being used to cart the snow to the dumps. Of this number about 1,400 were being used in Manhattan, 700 in Brooklyn, and the rest in the Bronx.

Street car traffic was demoralized still in many parts of the city yesterday, and in a few instances the service was suspended entirely.

The Fifty-ninth and Forty-second Street crosstown trolley lines were not running during the day, and traffic on the Fourteenth Street crosstown line was almost at a standstill. Conductors and motormen were pressed into service by the railroad companies to shovel snow and man the snow sweepers. Toward night conditions were much improved, and it was expected that by this morning the usual schedules would be resumed.

At intervals in the afternoon a service was attempted in Forty-second Street, when several of the belt line storage battery cars were run across town from the West Shore to the East Forty-second Street Ferries. The Broadway branch of the Third Avenue line was practically out of commission for the entire day. On the other lines delays were frequent because of short circuits and the blocking of tracks by auto trucks and other vehicles that were stalled in the snow.

An automatic fire alarm yesterday rang from the six-story building at 20 White Street, which is occupied by Herman Bamberger, manufacturer of umbrellas. Engine Company 31, which is stationed at Lafayette and White Streets, responded.

When the engine, which is of the automobile type, came along White Street, it ran into banks of snow and stalled. Then the Captain ordered one of his men to turn in an alarm. This brought three engines, two hook and ladder equipments, and one water tower, a Deputy Fire Chief, and two Battalion Chiefs, with five horses instead of three drawing the engines. Not much time was lost, and the fire was put out before it had done much damage.

All of the steam railroads reported that conditions had improved yesterday. It was said that all trains, long-distance as well as suburban, would be running on schedule time to-day.

Motorman James Duffy of 326 East Eighty-sixth Street was burned painfully by a short circuit yesterday afternoon while operating one of the snow cars of the Third Avenue line at 166th Street and Amsterdam Avenue. He was taken to the hospital.

Duffy was holding a steel bar in the trolley slot. Attached to the bar was a long wire which conveyed the current to the car, which had been stalled. It is thought that an overload on the motor caused a short circuit which sent a flame from the slot. Duffy was knocked down and burned about the hands and face.

WOMEN SEIZE A PICKPOCKET

Then Drag Their Pleading Captive to Station, Where He Confesses.

Mrs. Mary Bischoff and Mrs. John Regan of 253 Moffat Street, Brooklyn, were walking along Avenue A, near First Street, Manhattan, last night, when Mrs. Bischoff felt a hand in the pocket of her outer coat. She turned in time to see a little man throw her purse, containing sixty-five cents, to the sidewalk. She leaped forward and took a firm grip on his collar, loudly shouting for a policeman. Mrs. Regan also took hold of him.

The man tried to arouse the sympathy of the crowd which collected by turning his pockets inside out and crying that he had done no wrong.

Followed by several hundred men and boys, the women dragged their captive to the Fifth Street Police Station. There, when he was searched, a letter was found in one of his pockets addressed to Samuel Levinsky, "1268," Blackwell's Island. Levinsky said he had just finished serving a term in the Workhouse for jostling. Levinsky signed a confession and begged to be sent back to the Workhouse at once, saying that it was better to have food and shelter in jail than to walk the streets looking in vain for work.

The Big Blizzard Did This---

It Demonstrated Absolutely the High Efficiency of

G. V. Electric Trucks

Had Saturday's storm reached us about last Wednesday New York's street traffic would have been paralyzed for three days. As it happened, we had Saturday afternoon and Sunday to catch up.

But what a picture Saturday morning. Everything moved by horseflesh "stuck," behind time or abandoned altogether. Horse wagon schedules were forgotten. The few street cars moving were retarded by jams and prostrate animals; by teams which blocked each other and added confusion to confusion. Five horses on one big dray were a common sight, and no progress then. The swish of the cruel whip was everywhere, and above the hiss of the stinging sleet the crack of the police pistol—another suffering brute out of misery.

It was a day to prove any kind of trackless machinery. Taxicabs were deserted where they stuck, and opulent limousines were abandoned until relief could be sent. One type of power wagon alone did not disappoint the merchant—the electric truck.

A Practical Time Study Reveals Wonderful Efficiency.

A relatively small but busy section was chosen to gauge electric truck efficiency on Saturday—an oblong, bounded by Broadway and Second Avenue, 28th to 44th Street. In 3½ hours on Saturday electrics owned by the following firms passed one observer, all going strong through the snow:

Bellevue Hospital Ambulance, Electric No. "A12" Parcel Post Service; Tiffany Studios; National Sugar Refining Company, 5-ton Electric, loaded; A. Silz and Jules Weber, all "G. V."; American Express, 9 2-ton G. V. trucks and 4 Electrics of other makes; Peter Doelger, 3; N. Y. Railways Co., 2-ton Emergency; Stern Bros., 2; Jacob Ruppert, 5 (G. V.), and Electrics of 5 other brewers; N. Y. Edison Co., a light Electric and a 5-ton Electric 12 years old; Lincoln Safe Deposit Co., 3½-ton G. V. van; New Amsterdam Gas Co., 1-ton G. V.; Burns Bros., 2, and Tiffany Co., 3, all three over 10 years old.

A census which included the downtown department store section would probably have doubled the above figures, and of course one person must miss many in any section. But the study proved beyond question the efficiency of the high grade electric in the trying hours when time and dependable service are at a premium. Mileages were reduced, but the trucks KEPT GOING!

The modern electric truck is efficient because it is simple. All parts REVOLVE. The motor, long developed in street car use, has an overload capacity of 300%. Starting smoothly and surely, the electric will plough through snow and slush that retard mightily other types of motive power. The storm showed that. As for horses, there was no comparison.

The lessons of this great storm should not be lost upon New York's business men. Investigate the electric truck and learn other secrets of its far-reaching economy. Misunderstood at first, thousands are now used in 42 States and abroad. Find out how you can have a storm-proof delivery system.

There Is Still Time for You to Decide

You must have a general idea of the characteristics of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, for it has been so much used and quoted and talked about that it is definitely classed as one of the greatest achievements of our day. But what you probably do not know is that it is a "different" kind of utility book from any that has ever been published; different in get-up, different in contents, different in style, different in method of construction, different and better suited to your needs in the fact that it was built for service—for your service.

Send for the prospectus today. You will then be in a position to settle the matter once for all. Any argument in favor of waiting until tomorrow is also an argument in favor of waiting until the price has been increased in America, as it was in England in December last, and that is surely the wrong course to take. For an inquiry form see the bottom of this column.

The Price of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica a Few Weeks Hence

$29 to $50 more than at present—will not be an extravagant price for the book; but it would be an extravagance for you to pay it needlessly, after neglecting this opportunity to pay less.

On Being "Alert"

To be "alert" of mind does not mean that one must jump to a conclusion, but that when a conclusion has been formed, one must be in readiness to give instant effect to it. The word, indeed, comes from the old Italian "all' erta!"—"Go to the watch-tower!", the warning which, in the eventful Middle Ages, sent lookouts to their post to see when rapid action would be necessary.

The public have shown alertness in recognizing the merits of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica. Those who are alert enough to obtain it now will be just in time to avoid the higher price which is about to be charged for it. That alertness has already been displayed by more than fifty-eight thousand purchasers.

A Book for Everybody—On Terms for Everybody

Whether you are a banker or a bank clerk, a business man or the mother of a family, whether you use the Britannica as a question answerer or for continuous reading, you cannot, in this day of specialization, escape the need for the specialist's knowledge which this one book yields. It deals with the common, everyday knowledge you require in your business and your home, as fully and as faithfully as with modern science, art, literature, religion, philosophy and history.

The reasonable price of the book and the convenient plan of paying for it in payments as low as $5.00 per month, have placed this great efficiency library in the hands of thousands of subscribers with incomes of the most modest size.

NOW is the Time to Decide

The Cambridge University Press has announced the termination of the direct sale to the public, at a special low price and with the privilege of partial payments. Save money by acting now.

MR. BRYAN'S TREATIES.

We note, especially in the German press, an inclination to regard rather scornfully Mr. BRYAN's so-called peace treaties. And it is worth noting that most of his adverse critics seem to think that they provide for general arbitration. In fact they provide only that, if the parties to them find themselves unable to adjust by diplomatic discussion any differences that may arise between them, they shall name a Commission of Inquiry and give it one year in which to report all the facts bearing on these differences before proceeding to the use of force.

This is practically the same arrangement included in the treaties Mr. TAFT negotiated with Great Britain and with France, which the Senate amended without, however, touching this feature of them. We thought at the time that it would have been far better had Mr. TAFT accepted the Senate amendments and so secured the provision for delay and inquiry instead of abandoning the treaties. Later, when the question of Panama tolls came up, Mr. TAFT, through Secretary KNOX, did propose to Great Britain the ratification of the amended treaties and the consequent appointment of a Commission of Inquiry. No action was taken on this proposal, probably because the British Government preferred to deal with the new Administration—a preference justified by the event. But we now have the principle, which Mr. BRYAN advances, supported by the precedent of Mr. TAFT's Administration and previously accepted by Great Britain and by France. It has a fair chance of adoption. And we may be permitted to remind Mr. BRYAN's German critics that, while the British and French treaties were pending, the German Government conveyed to our own its willingness to open negotiations for like agreements.

THE SHORT BALLOT.

To make this State's direct primary and election ballots more simple and to take from the bosses the power of making nominations, a short ballot amendment to the Constitution has been introduced at Albany. Mr. HENRY L. STIMSON in his Lincoln's Birthday speech at Utica had this to say about the vice of the long ballot:

> To-day the attention of the State is concentrated on the scandals which have been discovered in our great system of public works, our canals and highways. Did you ever consider, that we have been placing the control of those great works largely in the hands of the tail of a ticket—an officer nominated in some back room of a convention after the real business of choosing the head of a ticket had been attended to, and the delegates were ready to leave this supposedly insignificant matter to the determination of chance or locality or favoritism?

The short-ballot amendment provides for the appointment by the Governor, instead of nomination by the bosses, of the tail of the State ticket. The Governor would appoint and be held responsible for the character and fitness of the Controller, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Attorney General, and State Engineer and Surveyor. This would shorten the ballot—excepting the Judges, who, also, ought to be appointed or recommended by the Governor—to candidacies for Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

The President and Congressmen are elected on a precisely similar short ballot, the President being charged with the appointment of all other officers of the National Government save the makers of the laws. That is why the National Government is so efficient as compared with long-ballot State Governments. The New York short-ballot amendment would go a little further in that it provides for absolute appointment by the Chief Executive, instead of allowing the Senate the power of confirmation. As a general principle it is better to concentrate responsibility for an appointive act in a single head elected because he holds the public confidence.

Senator MURTAUGH, who as majority leader in the Senate has charge of the proposed amendment, advises THE TIMES that he would not have supported Gov. GLYNN's Direct Primary bill had not the Governor also suggested the enactment of a short ballot. But Mr. MURTAUGH feels that the office of State Controller should be kept elective. He says:

> The office of Controller is yearly becoming more important. It has proved in the past and will prove in the future a most effective check on extravagance and waste in legislative and State departments. I do not believe the Controller should be subject to the influence and control of the Governor, which would be more or less the case were he appointed by the Governor.

With deference to Senator MURTAUGH's opinion, it is our belief, supported by the Federal example of appointment by the President of the Secretary of the Treasury, that the very importance of the Controller's office is the best possible reason for including him among those to be appointed by the Chief Executive. The importance of this officer is not political. It is not something that appeals to voters. The office is of economic importance, and its incumbent should be thoroughly versed in the financial methods and needs of the State. It is usually impossible to secure such a man by convention nomination and popular election, especially if he chance not to be a skillful politician and good campaign orator. The Governor should appoint the Controller after a most thorough canvass of candidates, not with reference to political availability, but because of expert fitness to administer the finances of the State.

The Controller, it is true, exercises a certain check on the other departments, but the fact that he is appointed by the Governor should rather enhance than detract in any way from the effectiveness of that check. As the direct financial operations of the Governor's office itself amount to not over $70,000 a year, the greater part being specific charges for salaries created by statute, there could be little room here for extravagance not easily traceable. We hope that Mr. MURTAUGH will think better of his plan to exempt the Controller's office from the short-ballot amendment.

MR. FETHERSTON'S FAILURE.

Twenty-four hours after the first considerable fall of snow of this Winter surface transportation in this city was in a state of blockade. No cars at all were running on some of the most important lines, and very few on any line, while cab traffic was all but suspended because nearly all the streets were impassable. The storm ceased entirely early on Saturday afternoon, yet all the rest of that day and on Sunday there was little or no perceptible attempt made to clear away the snow, except in the lower part of the city. This has been the first test of the capacity of the new administration to look after the comfort of the people, and, to speak plainly, it has been a dismal failure.

Street Commissioner FETHERSTON had ample warning of the coming of the snow. The Government Weather Department was forehanded with its predictions. The Street Cleaning Department under such a head as WARING would have been ready with men and carts to tackle the results of a real blizzard, and Saturday's storm was no blizzard. As a matter of fact, it was just an ordinary snowstorm of the old-fashioned kind. All the main avenues could have been cleared within twenty-four hours and a good beginning made on the side streets. Obviously, Mr. FETHERSTON places no faith in scientific weather predictions. He made no real preparation to combat with a condition which Street Cleaning Commissioners in former years have had to deal with a dozen times in one Winter. He may have employed all the men he could get, but he was certainly short of carts. In this Borough of Manhattan nearly everybody who dwells above Broome Street expressed severe opinions of Mr. FETHERSTON and his department yesterday. In very few uptown neighborhoods was any attempt made at clearing away the snow. Such a deplorable failure is most discouraging, and Mayor MITCHEL will do well to take the matter under consideration without delay. New Yorkers were pretty well satisfied with the management of the Street Cleaning Department by Mr. EDWARDS. The reason for his removal was not obvious at the time. Just now it seems unaccountable.

SUICIDE AND CONFESSION.

No matter what the actual motive may have been which impelled JOHN J. KENNEDY, the State Treasurer, to take his own life, there is no doubt that his suicide will tend to increase, in the public mind, the importance of the investigation which District Attorney WHITMAN is conducting into the charges of corruption in the award of contracts for canal and road construction in this State. KENNEDY had already testified before a Grand Jury in this city, and, it is rumored, displayed amazing ignorance of banking methods for the occupant of the office of State Treasurer. He had been served with a subpoena to give testimony here to-day, and he knew that it was the intention of the District Attorney to have him appear in the public proceedings before Chief Magistrate MCADOO. That he might have found legal support for refusing to testify is perfectly true, but in that case he would have been placed under arrest and subjected to more or less painful inquisition, in spite of himself.

We believe that no evidence had as yet been secured connecting him directly with the illegal practices sufficiently proven already in the case of others, but as a member of the Canal Board he voted with the majority in the bestowal of the now famous, or infamous, Contracts 71A and 72A, and his former examination here had unnerved him. He was a politician of a long-familiar type, had been a saloon keeper, and for a quarter of a century had been an Alderman in Buffalo and a skillful political worker. He was assuredly not the kind of man who would be expected to take his own life, under any circumstances. The hope that he might be prevailed upon to confess was faint. But the world generally holds to DANIEL WEBSTER's theory that suicide, in such a case, is confession.

THE THIRD-TRACK CONTRACTS.

It is not strange that there should be a difference of opinion between the Public Service Commission and the owners and operators of the Manhattan elevated railway system regarding the third-track contracts. But that difference of opinion does not make it necessary to infer any public detriment as the result of procedure without the Public Service Commission's approval. The city's interests are safeguarded by the Commission's power of oversight of the work and revision of the accounts when the city takes over the work now ordered. It is a right of recapture, not an obligation, and it may be that the option never will be exercised. It is all right that the Public Service Commission should be vigilant. Regularity of procedure is more important to public bodies than the business excellence of the bargain.

The point of controversy was over the payment of "cost and 15 per cent. profit" for the work, instead of a lump sum reached by public letting. The suggestion that the 15 per cent. profit could be saved because it might not be itemized is not convincing. Any round sum which might be bid by a contractor who was not working solely for exercise or health would certainly contain a profit, and it might be larger than 15 per cent. A contract for cost alone might easily run above reasonable figures, if the attempt were made to economize on superintendence. Brains and plant will not be overpaid by the profit of a million or so on cost of $15,000,000 or more. Any disposition to make too great costs or profits on property which the city may want to buy can be foiled by citizens and Commissioners keeping a good lookout as the work goes on.

That point being safeguarded, everybody will be glad that the final contracts of the dual subway system have now been signed. These were the only ones omitted when the subway contracts were let some months ago. Time is of the essence in this case, and the hurry of the private railway is in marked and agreeable contrast to the deliberation to excess of the public control. The result is that interest accounts are running on scores of millions of expenditure which cannot be utilized fully for years, perhaps not for years after trains are running over these elevated tracks. Interborough travel is possible only over bridges or through tunnels. There are scores of millions in bridges which are only partly used. There are two tunnels which have not even been begun, although their construction will take longer than any other part of the system. There is one tunnel which is all but finished, and which might have been working for years. The entire dual system might have been working ten years ago, except for the zeal in the public service of those who feared private profits or wanted public operation. If the normal increment of tax values be taken at $150,000,000 under such conditions of strangulation, it would be interesting to calculate what the city has lost by the ten years' delay. It is sure that it would make a million dollars "profit" look like the proverbial thirty cents.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Great Age of the World?

"We talk of the Elizabethan age, the Victorian age, the Golden age," Rear Admiral PEARY said at the dinner of the Delaware Valley Society on Saturday, and he reminded the guests that those who shall live a year longer will have seen in five short years the north and south poles discovered and the Atlantic and Pacific united. They will have seen, too, great extensions of wireless telegraphy and of the use of the stabilized flying machine, with perhaps a record of some man's flying across the Atlantic. Prof. SODDY, who with Sir WILLIAM RAMSAY found that radium is a transmuting element, told the British Association last Fall that the world must soon prepare for the announcement that a method of accelerating the outgo of energy from radium has been devised, together with the means of transmuting all the other elements, that would tap supplies of atomic energy that are inexhaustible, of which steam and electricity are secondary and insignificant offshoots.

If half the promise of this age is fulfilled, it should compare well with the other ages of human history. Thus far they have recorded great material discoveries and literary activities, as in the age of Queen ELIZABETH; profound changes in religious belief, as in the age of LUTHER, or periods of conquest like those of JULIUS CAESAR and NAPOLEON. This is the age of the scientists. They, too, make material discoveries of vast moment, and the sidelights they throw on the psychology of man and his earthly existence have deeply changed the currents of the world's thinking.

The Word Nurse and Its Meaning.

In an ingeniously worded letter to THE TIMES, appearing yesterday, President BEATRICE VAN H. STEVENSON of the New York State Nurses' Association argued that, inasmuch as the word physician had changed from its old meaning of "professor of things in general" to that of a practitioner of medicine, leaving other scientists and philosophers to get special names for themselves, therefore the word nurse should be changed by law to mean only a person who has been graduated from a hospital training school with the degree of R. N. All other so-called nurses must make shift with the title of "attendant," under pains and penalties for permitting themselves longer to be known as nurses.

But the English language is not changed solely by legal fiat. If the bill favored by the registered nurses is passed, persons who cannot afford to pay $25 a week or more for nursing will still ask for nurses. The name of physician changed in meaning with changes in the speech of the people. Miss STEVENSON and her associates have a direct interest, not in consulting the people's speech and its meanings, but in warping a meaning from a popular to a professional and restricted signification. Misunderstanding and embarrassment, part of it pecuniary, will be sure to follow such a change artificially produced. The more natural process of actual usage changed the meaning of the physician's title before the law began to recognize and define it.

It may, indeed, be urged that the law has fixed the standards for those who would be called physicians. That is necessary and expedient. It may be quite proper, too, to divide nurses into classes according to their grades of training, to the end that they shall be known for what they are. But it is not necessary that one of these classes shall monopolize the title of nurse. "Registered Nurse" for the most highly trained among them satisfies both the law and the people.

A Foreign Policeman on Our Prisons.

That American prisons are "rest cures" and have lost their penal terrors is the conclusion reached after a brief inspection by Mr. JAMES GILMOUR, Superintendent of Police in Manchester, England. Mr. GILMOUR notes the lack of gratings to protect the galleries in the Tombs, remarking that the inmates of English prisons would be jumping from such ungrated galleries all the time in an effort to commit suicide.

The Tombs is bad enough. It is a hutch of moral and physical contagion, mitigated by a less harsh treatment of its inmates from their jailers than is accorded to prisoners in the more mediaeval prisons of Great Britain and the Continent. The foreign jails harbor as great a proportion of chronic criminals as those of the United States, the feature of cruelty of the keepers being not specially deterrent. The brand of disgrace for being a convict is set quite as deeply here as abroad, and, while it does not keep men from getting back into prison after they have been freed, nobody knows, except in a negative way, how many people it frightens into keeping legally good and always out of jail.

THE OFFICE BORE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

All the world hates a long-distance chin musician. As a warning to such as may inflict themselves upon me I have hung over my desk a sign, intended to notify the reader that "a cordial reception is not an invitation to stay all day." I always manage to have it just a little bit awry, so that if necessary I can convey a gentle hint to such as may need it by rising from my seat and adjusting the sign, at the same time taking care that in the process I leave it just as much awry as before, only in a different direction, so that the adjusting process can be repeated indefinitely.

A certain gentleman called on me a day or two ago for some information, and the more he talked the more he wanted to talk. I surveyed my little sign critically and discovered that it needed adjusting. I did so and returned to my seat. After a while, finding no relief, I again discovered that the legend on the wall was misbehaving, and, muttering something about the fickleness of signs, &c., I arose a second time in accordance with my formula. When I found it necessary to repeat the operation a second time my visitor, who had been watching my actions attentively, stuck his hand into his pocket and fished out one of those little glass pushpins and said: "Say, I notice that you can't keep that sign in place; use this, greatest little thing in the world for keeping signs in place." Ye gods!

Trained Servants Scarce.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Probably not 1 per cent. of the unemployed have either natural ability or training to be accepted as domestic servants. Every housewife knows that many call and few may be chosen when there is a vacancy to be filled in domestic service. The suffragists realize that this problem, with many others concerning woman's work, can only be solved through a scientific system of education, which will produce competent housewives as well as trained servants.

Men now control the Board of Education and the Health Boards, which so intimately concern child welfare. Very few broadminded, Christian hearted women have any difficulty in retaining good servants. Give the women a chance and they will help work out all these problems.

Burglary Insurance Rates.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If you should publish the amount in dollars and cents of losses by burglary resisted by burglary insurance companies, in other words, the amount claimed by the assured but not allowed, I doubt very much if the companies would be able to defend their increase in rates as well as they can with the figures which they submit to you.

For example, in the reports from the Insurance Department of the State of New York in the year 1912 they show that $1,587,893.40 was received in premiums covering burglary and theft insurance and during the same period there was paid in losses on the same items the sum of $597,870.71.

In view of these figures do you consider the insurance companies justified in increasing rates?

Women's Vote Grows.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Chicago women's big registration knocks out the argument against equal suffrage based on women's small school vote. Hitherto the women of that city have been able to vote only for an educational officer, and a mere handful of them have gone to the polls.

In Colorado, Washington, Kansas, and Oregon women had had school suffrage for many years before they got the full ballot. Their school vote was small, as the vote of men is small whenever school officers only are to be chosen.

But in all these States the women's votes became large as soon as they had a chance to vote in the large elections.

Now the same thing is happening in Illinois.

MY MUSE.

My Muse is grim and gaunt of shape,
With visage lean and gaping maw;
Its hungry ribs together scrape,
And ragged-edged each tooth and claw.

With scratch and bite it makes me strive;
With growl and snarl it goads my skill;
No fiercer creature is alive
Than this that tunes my lyre at will.

This fiend to stubborn fact belongs!

WEIGH WHITMAN'S CHANCES.

New York Republican Congressmen Discuss the Race for Governor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Republican leaders of the Congressional delegation from New York feel rather confident that Charles S. Whitman, District Attorney of New York County, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in the primaries to be held under the new State-wide primary law next September. Mr. Whitman came here yesterday to attend the dinner of the Gridiron Club, and talked with several influential New York men. This afternoon he was the guest of Representative Luther W. Mott of Oswego at a luncheon.

There are eleven Republican members in the present Congressional delegation from New York, and nine of them were at the Whitman luncheon. The absentees were Representative E. A. Merritt, Jr., of Potsdam, who was out of the city, and Representative Henry G. Danforth of Rochester. Those present besides Mr. Mott and Mr. Whitman, were Representatives William M. Calder of Brooklyn, Edmund Platt of Poughkeepsie, James S. Parker of Salem, Samuel Wallin of Amsterdam, George W. Fairchild of Oneonta, Sereno E. Payne of Auburn, Thomas B. Dunn of Rochester and Charles M. Hamilton of Ripley.

Immediately after the luncheon Mr. Whitman and Congressman Mott left here for New York City. With them was William Hayward, ex-Secretary of the Republican National Committee, now an Assistant District Attorney under Mr. Whitman.

The men who attended the luncheon said its chief purpose was to enable the delegation to meet Mr. Whitman. Some of the members, while familiar with his work, were not personally acquainted with him. The luncheon was informal, and there were no set speeches. Some of those who were present said there was no reference to candidates for the Gubernatorial nomination.

Job E. Hedges already has announced that he will be a candidate. Republicans here say there may be three others in the field, and that, in addition to Mr. Whitman, the Republican aspirants may be Henry M. Stimson and Representative Calder.

Republican Congressmen take it for granted that Gov. Glynn will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination and are talking of the possibility that Franklin Roosevelt of Dutchess County may get into the race. As Republicans here now see it, the Progressives will put up Theodore Roosevelt as their candidate.

One Congressman said the feeling among those at the luncheon was that the Republican candidate, whoever he might be, would have a splendid chance of election. They felt, he said, that Roosevelt could not be elected, and that the Democratic situation at Albany would make votes for the Republican candidate.

The new direct primary law came up for discussion at the luncheon. Some of those present thought that in such a primary the full Republican vote would not come out. Others, however, recalled the fact that Charles E. Hughes once had said a State-wide primary would get out the voters. District Attorney Whitman indicated to-day that he shared the opinion of Justice Hughes in this regard.

There also was some informal talk of the method to be employed in getting the names of candidates on the ticket. The new law provides that a candidate for Governor shall file a petition signed by 3,000 voters. There was discussion as to whether the State Committee should begin the circulation of these tickets. The question whether it might be advisable for the party leaders to get together and exert their influence in the direction of having practically only one Republican candidate running in the primaries also was taken up.

This phase of the matter grew out of the suggestion that some one of the Republican candidates might appear to have better running qualities after primary nomination than another.

During the luncheon the question of the effect of the long ballots also was informally discussed. It was generally agreed that the ballot would be very long and that there might be some difficulty in voting it. On the ballot will be not only the names of all State officers and Congressmen and United States Senators, but candidates for delegates to the proposed New York Constitutional Convention. With three parties in the field, it was agreed, the ballot would be of great size.

SWEET AND WHITMAN MEET.

Have Two-Hour Talk on Subject of Counsel to Graft Committee.

Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet of the Assembly and District Attorney Whitman were in conference from 10 o'clock until after midnight last night on the subject of selecting counsel for the Assembly Graft Investigating Committee, of which John Leo Sullivan, Progressive Republican Assemblyman from Chautauqua County, is Chairman. Several members of the Sullivan committee were present.

No statement was made as to the result of the conference, but it was understood that Speaker Sweet offered Mr. Whitman the place with full power to select his own associates and investigators. Mr. Whitman, before attending the conference, allowed it to be understood that he was much interested in the Assembly investigation, but that under no conditions would he consider giving up his work as District Attorney of New York County to represent the Assembly committee.

Mr. Whitman, it is understood, favors George H. Bond, ex-District Attorney of Onondaga County, as counsel or associate counsel for the committee. Mr. Bond was the first of the up-State District Attorneys to come to Mr. Whitman's support when Gov. Glynn attacked him last December as "a political prosecuting octopus." Mr. Bond has had several conferences with Mr. Whitman as to the graft investigation pending in Syracuse, the home of George H. McGuire.

In addition to Mr. Bond and Assistant District Attorney John K. Clark, a number of men were named yesterday as under consideration by the Sullivan committee for counsel. They were John C. Davies of Camden, N. Y., former Republican leader of Oneida County, but now a Progressive; Ray B. Smith, Republican, former Clerk of the Assembly; George H. Cobb of Watertown, N. Y., former President of the Senate and Lieutenant Governor under Gov. White; ex-Senator Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga Springs, an organization Republican, and ex-Senator Harvy D. Hinman of Binghamton, N. Y., one of the counsel for ex-Gov. Sulzer in the impeachment proceedings.

The sub-committee of the Sullivan committee, consisting of Chairman Sullivan and Assemblymen Burlingame and Schaap, will report to the whole committee to-night in Albany.

PUTS U. S. NAVY THIRD.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Rear Admiral Vreeland, the officer of the General Board of the Navy, ranking next to Admiral Dewey, has filed with the House Committee on Naval Affairs a statement of the relative values of gun and torpedo fire of the German and American fleets as they stand to-day.

"Because of lack of knowledge of Germany's future armaments," says the statement, "it is impossible to furnish comparative data on ships building or authorized."

The Vreeland statement shows that in total muzzle energy of one broadside the dreadnoughts of the German Navy to-day are twice as strong—in the aggregate—as the American dreadnoughts. Entering into this calculation are eight American dreadnoughts and seventeen German dreadnoughts. In the pre-dreadnought ships the United States has a heavier total muzzle energy of guns than has Germany. But combining both the dreadnoughts and the pre-dreadnoughts, the total muzzle energy of the guns of the German fleet is stronger than that of the American fleet by a preponderance of 11 to 8.

After receiving these figures a majority of the members of the House committee assented to the contention of American Navy officers that the United States Navy should now be properly classed in third place among the naval powers.

MORGAN COLLECTION IN METROPOLITAN

THE BYZANTINE ENAMELS

In Contrast with the Bronze and Ivory in Adjoining Galleries and the Bright Enamels Further On.

Many of those who visit the Morgan collection when it is thrown open to the public will wish to use it as an illustration to the great periods of art represented in it, and for those it is expected that a handbook containing simple but scholarly descriptions of the objects will be issued. Such methods of education are the best possible for the casual public, who have neither opportunity nor desire to specialize in any one field. Each of us may have fun with his mind in the present helpful age, and the mental agility demanded to traverse even superficially such varied and significant groups as these in the Metropolitan Museum is far greater and no less wholesome than the physical agility now so desperately encouraged by the friends of humanity.

Even without the handbook the visitor will find himself presently forming a more or less coherent and lively idea of the methods by which these painters and enamelers and sculptors, these artists trained in craftsmanship, these craftsmen so close to being artists, got their thoughts into expression for endless generations after they themselves had slipped out of the world, leaving their work behind them.

In Gallery 11, for example, one cannot fail to gain from the very splendid collection of Byzantine enamels the recognition of a type in art wholly different from the cheerful serenity of the antique. The most casual of observers glancing into the cases that contain these panels and crucifixes, with their isolated attenuated figures, their severity of form, their rigidity, and their elaborate symbolism, will feel more poignantly than from many pages of a written account the spirit of the grave and monumental yet poverty-stricken art of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, so much concerned with devotion and so little with the movement of life.

In the next gallery the large altarpiece in bone and ivory, carved with scenes from the Old Testament and from the life of Christ, arrests the attention, and the visitor, who has been enlisted by the older ivories, will see for himself how this Italian workman of the sixteenth century, working with freedom and with a wide resource in technique, misses something of the stateliness and all of the austerity that were in part the result of the restrictions from which his predecessors had labored to break away.

Other ivories in this room mark the transition stages of art, as expressed through this lovely medium. There are the charming "Virgins" of the fourteenth century, bent backward or sideways with a quaintness of mannerism that is puzzling until one recalls how the shape of the ivory tusks imposed it. Holding their happy children lightly, they encourage their fondling and their daring playful gestures. The artists have passed quite out of the shadow of Byzantine mysticism.

Reaching the gallery of the bronzes, the visitor finds himself suddenly in the midst of the rich and abundant life of the Italian Renaissance. Here are horsemen, in whom the turns and gestures of the figure impart to it an intense vitality; here are studied rhythms of movement, audacious attitudes and the violent play of muscle. In this equestrian figure ascribed to Il Riccio, how the differences of direction in the limbs and the mastery of the corporeal structure unite with the force of the expression, playing over the energetic features to suggest strength and vivacity.

One sees all about evidences that the human form in action had become a matter of supreme importance, that the articulations of the body are now insisted upon with a new fire of resolve. If a sculptor is to place a head upon its torso, the point of attachment must be so understood that we may imagine the head capable of turning upward, downward, sidewise. All physical actions are thoroughly elaborated, the functions of the muscles are made clear, the joints are defined. Even when shown at rest the human form holds within itself the potentiality of all forms of activity, and plastic richness has reached its height.

In the adjacent gallery one comes upon the later enamels and notes how here, as with the ivories, restrictions of technique have broken down and made possible a greater splendor, more joyous color, freer line, and even where the motives imply more specific suffering as in the scenes of the Crucifixion, where the principal figure is often painfully contorted, the whole effect of the art is suffused with warmth and vitality.

From these works, eloquent of religious or martial preoccupations and dedicated to the record of deep human needs, we pass on to the eighteenth century rooms, where unfolds before us the enchanted vision of a world staged for trifling. Among the painted boxes that found so many uses during the century is one with a design of dancing figures, moving elegant and gay under festoons of flowers, and wearing themselves the aspect of flower petals drifting on a Summer breeze. This is the note of the period—all the men and women dancing, flowers caught by art before the moment of fading, and fixed so lightly in their dainty frames as to seem still floating on a Summer breeze.

Thus the collection to be made accessible on Wednesday to the public carries us from primitive times to the most sophisticated age in history. A year would be too short a period for even superficial exploration of the many fields opened, but, on the other hand, a single day spent not too strenuously in the galleries must add materially to one's mental picture of the life and art of the past.

TO DISCUSS PRISON REFORM.

Conferences Arranged by Woman's Department of the Civic Federation.

The metropolitan section of the woman's department of the National Civic Federation has arranged two conferences and a mass meeting in behalf of prison reform in New York State. The first conference will be held in the Hotel Astor at 3 P. M. on March 6. The speakers will include Commissioner of Correction Katherine B. Davis, Mrs. Martha Falconer, Dr. O. F. Lewis, Dr. E. Stagg Whitin, Dean Kirchway and William Church Osborn. Gov. Glynn will preside.

The second conference will be held on Saturday morning, March 7, at 10:30 o'clock, at the Hotel Astor. The suggestions for prison reform, which are being urged by the New York Prison Association, the Women's Prison Association, the National Committee on Prison Labor, and other organizations, will be considered.

SCHOOLS AS VOTING PLACES

Commenting yesterday on the proposed use of public school buildings as polling places, J. Gabriel Britt, President of the Board of Elections, explained that the Board of Elections had advocated the use of public buildings for polling places for several years, and had recommended such a plan in its report to Mayor Gaynor in 1912. He added that the board still desired to have legislative authority for the use of such buildings, in order that it might not be placed in the position of merely occupying space on toleration or subject to the caprice of a department head or a subordinate.

"It seems to us," said Mr. Britt, "that, if the matter is worth going into at all, the proper step would be to have the Legislature amend the law so as to give us the absolute right to take possession of the space in public buildings for the proper discharge of our duties, and also provide that any and all officials must aid this board in the matter.

"If the polling places were located in public buildings, it would become necessary to keep the buildings open so that free access might be afforded to the public copy of the registration list at any reasonable hour, and in order that the document itself might be preserved from destruction or mutilation it would require at least two police officers to be detailed alternately to guard the public copy when the election officers were not present.

"If we use the public buildings and public schoos, we want to use that available space which in the judgment of this board is best suited as a polling place. And who is going to guard the public copy?

"As an illustration of a few of the buildings fitted for this purpose let me mention the West Fifty-fourth Street Court House, the Yorkville Court House in East Fifty-seventh Street, and the various armories.

"This is a question which goes beyond the confines of New York City, and I hope that it will be enacted into a general Statewide amendment to the State election law, so that all public buildings in the State will be used, where available, as polling places. The idea is a good one, and would result in an enormous saving to the taxpayers and a great reduction in the cost of elections."

POLICE USELESS—BRUERE.

Mitchel's Aim to Give Them a Purpose, He Tells Church.

Henry Bruere, City Chamberlain, spoke in the Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday, on municipal problems. He took the place of District Attorney Whitman, who wrote that out-of-town engagements would prevent his return to the city in time to address the congregation. Mr. Bruere explained the ideals of the present administration, and said:

"The Mayor's principal purpose in trying to get Col. Goethals to take charge of the Police Department was to get a man who had experience in handling a large body of men. The police of the city walk about without any definite purpose. They are a good-looking body of men, but they are practically useless. We want to give them a purpose, to make them feel that their duty is not only to look neat, but to be a part of the great machine for the moral uplift of the city.

"We need social centres and amusements and recreation that will do away with street corner loafing and all of those evils that are at the bottom of the social evil. The police force young men to move on, stop the youngster from playing on the streets, and the young men and the little boys sneak off and devise means for fooling the police. They develop into chronic breakers of the law, and when they become too weak to use ordinary methods, they take to the gun, the natural instrument of the weak."

Mr. Bruere said that a Police Captain recently told him that 50 per cent. of the men released from the Blackwell's Island Penitentiary were back again in twenty-four hours. This condition, he said, the new administration would seek to remedy.

NEW ART LEAGUE.

National Society of American Artists Formed for Exhibition Purposes.

In view of the fact that the opportunities for exhibiting in this country in general, and in New York in particular, have not kept pace with the number of works produced, a new society has just been formed, to be known as the National Society of American Artists.

The idea of the new organization is not to compete with or attempt to supersede any existing society, but to provide an opportunity for exhibiting work by the ever increasing number of artists, for whom the existing organizations are unable to obtain room.

The object of the society, as stated in its constitution, is the advancement of American art by the opening of new avenues of opportunity for the exhibition of meritorious works of art without antagonism toward any existing institutions.

The officers of the society are: Ernest Albert, President; Hobart Nicholls, Vice President; G. Glenn Newell, Corresponding Secretary; H. Ledyard Towle, Recording Secretary, and Frank Bicknell, Treasurer. These, together with Paul Cornoyer, Charles Bittinger, Jules Turcas, and Arthur Crisp, form the Board of Control.

Other members are John W. Alexander, John F. Carlson, F. E. Church, Elliott Clark, Louis Cohen, Arthur Crisp, Charles Ebert, Marshall Fry, Edmund Graecen, Walter C. Hartson, Harry Hoffman, William R. Leigh, Jonas Lie, George Macrum, Frederick J. Mulhaupt, Arthur Powell, H. Ledyard Towle, H. A. Vincent, Everett L. Warner, and Gustave Weigand.

The society will hold its first annual exhibition in the Municipal Galleries, 40 Irving Place, from the latter part of March to May 1.

Calvary and Fifth Avenue to Hold Union Services for a Year.

The congregation of the Calvary Baptist Church voted yesterday to accept the proposal of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, that the two churches hold union services for one year. The action is the first step toward a permanent union of the two churches at the end of the year. The combined congregations will number 2,100 of which 700 now belong to the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is a member. In urging the union, Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, a trustee of the Calvary Church described the union as a method of forming "the greatest and strongest Baptist church in the country," to which the entire denomination will go for leadership."

The Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, now pastor of the Fifth Avenue Church, with an assistant to be decided upon by joint committees from both congregations, will have charge of the work of consolidation. The services will be held in the Calvary Church on West Fifty-seventh Street. They will be advertised for a year as union services of the two churches. The greater part of the Fifth Avenue choir and working force will be utilized by the consolidation.

To Discuss Juvenile Delinquency.

The East Side Protective Association will hold a mass meeting at Public School 4, Ridge and Rivington Streets, at 7:30 o'clock to-night to discuss discoveries of conditions causing juvenile delinquency and gang crimes made by volunteer investigators under Supt. H. H. Schlacht of the association. Supt. Schlacht said last night that several well-known men and women had promised to address the meeting.

FIND SUFFRAGE TOUR OF CHEER TO CAUSE

Mrs. Catt Reports That Up-State Adherents Never Were So Active.

AND ANTIS, TOO, ARE BUSY

Many Recruits Enlisted on Tour in the Course of Which Ninety Meetings Were Held.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the International Suffrage Alliance and Chairman of the Empire State Campaign Committee, has just returned from a suffrage campaign tour through the State. She is enthusiastic about the outlook. In five weeks she took part in ninety meetings, and contributions of $20,600 were received for the cause. In telling about her trip Mrs. Catt said yesterday:

"The old-time suffragists never have been so alert and the antis never so active. The outlook for 1915 is most encouraging. Everywhere we went the antis had been before us holding meetings, and people were anxious to hear what we had to say. Our meetings were crowded and we enlisted great numbers of new recruits.

"Our most interesting encounter with the antis was in Albany. There we had engaged the Second Presbyterian Church, which is used for public meetings, and were to pay the regular price for it. But when the anti-suffrage members of the congregation heard that we were to be there they besieged the minister and the Trustees of the church not to let us have it. The Trustees demurred at taking action until the women said that if we were permitted to have the church for our meeting they would resign from the church.

"The Trustees begged us then to get another hall, and they paid for it and for our advertising. It saved us all expense. We took Historical Hall for our day meetings, and the antis took exception to our announcement hung at the gate and had part of it cut away, so we got more advertising. Our meetings were packed.

"At Lockport, where we had a meeting as an annex to our Buffalo conference, the anti-suffragists had preceded us. They said the town was anti-suffrage. There was no suffrage society there. They got five enrollments at their meeting and we got 180 at ours and formed suffrage committees in ten adjoining towns.

"At Rochester, Susan B. Anthony's home of which, the American Baedecker says, 'it is famed for beer and woman suffrage,' we had the biggest meeting ever held in the city. At Buffalo, with a blizzard, we had 2,000 at the meeting and raised $5,000. More newspapers support us than ever before, and many well-known men show that they are not afraid to come out and speak for us.

"President Schurman of Cornell University came out strongly for woman suffrage, and the ex-President of Cornell, Andrew D. White, permitted himself to be interviewed in favor of woman suffrage. I spoke to the girls of Cornell in the new $300,000 hall, given by Mrs. Russell Sage.

"Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and I spoke to 1,500 farmers at Ithaca on household economics—or at least that was what we were down for. At Rochester I debated with Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin at the City Club, and we—two suffragists and two antis—dined with 450 men of the club. The hotel was packed to hear the debate.

"The anti-suffragists in asserting that they would leave the church in Albany if the suffragists were permitted to hire the church building for their meeting were more strenuous and militant than the suffragists ever have been in this country. They say that the suffragists are refusing to give to charity or any other good cause—a statement which never has been verified—until they get the vote, but we have no record of strenuous action like that.

"One of the smaller amusing incidents of the trip occurred at Ithaca, where a lot of chickens were brought in from the country and auctioned off at the close of our meeting, the proceeds going to our work."

At Mrs. Catt's house yesterday were several very handsome silk banners which had been presented to the Empire State Campaign Committee by Mrs. Howard Mansfield.

SUFFRAGE WAR IN STATES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage announced to-night that Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York, its President, and Miss Minnie Bronson, its Secretary, would effect anti-suffrage organizations in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Iowa this week.

At the same time Mrs. Sherman M. Booth announced for the Congressional Committee of the National American Woman Suffrage Association that campaigns were being made in all the States where women did not vote. The anti-suffragist campaign was started last night in Milwaukee, where Mrs. Dodge and Miss Bronson addressed a mass meeting. From Wisconsin the campaign will be carried into Minnesota. Mass meetings will be held in St. Paul and Minneapolis. From these they will go to Omaha, and thence to Des Moines, St. Louis, and Cincinnati.

"The antis," says the statement, "take the position that, since Congress has refused to make woman suffrage a national issue, the question must be fought out in the individual States, and, therefore the opponents of woman suffrage must be fully organized and prepared to take up the fight in any State where it may be necessary."

Mrs. Booth had this to say for the suffragists:

"Senators and Representatives tell us that we should go to the States and get woman suffrage State by State. Of course, that is what we intend to do, so far as in our power, and campaigns are being made in all States with that end in view. We will win in the States and we will win in the Nation."

DR. SHAW TO ATTEND FETE.

Broken Ankle Will Not Keep Her from Suffrage Celebration.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, President of the National Woman Suffrage Association, who slipped on a car step in Jersey City on Saturday morning and broke her ankle, said at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday that she would attend the dramatic tea and fête to be given under the auspices of the New York State Woman Suffrage Association in the Hotel Biltmore this afternoon.

Owing to the long delay before Dr. Shaw received medical attention, it was not possible to set the broken bones in her ankle until yesterday. It was found then that she had suffered a double fracture.

The fête is in honor ofthe birthdays of Dr. Shaw and the late Susan B. Anthony. Some 1,000 tickets have been sold for it.

Finances of Two Episcopal Churches

Financial statements were made public yesterday for St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, and Grace Church, at Tenth Street and Broadway. Grace Church reported an income of $272,500 and announced additions of $11,600 last year to its endowment fund, now totaling $1,889,500. St. Thomas's Church reported total expenditures to date of $1,275,000 for its new church and parish house, with $150,000 still to be expended. The congregation gave $93,000 last year for missions and spent $42,000 to maintain work and worship within the parish, while $227,000 was raised for religious work outside the parish.

YSAYE IN ROW WITH SYMPHONY SOCIETY

WON'T HAVE VIVALDI PIECE

Eugène Ysaye, one of the world's foremost violinists, will not be a soloist at the concerts of the Beethoven festival series which the New York Symphony Society is to play in Brooklyn and New York on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. The Belgian violinist has been advertised as one of the features of the festival series, but yesterday it was announced by the New York Symphony Society that his contract had been cancelled and that Kathleen Parlow would play in his place, Beethoven's violin concerto.

In its notification to Mr. Ysaye's manager the Symphony Society says it will hold Mr. Ysaye "responsible for any financial loss which may ensue from its being obliged to substitute another artist for these concerts."

The orchestra people lay all the trouble to what they call "inexplicable caprice" on the part of the violinist. He was said to be in Montreal yesterday, and his manager with him, so that it could not be learned what he considered it.

The difficulty arose over Mr. Ysaye's insisting on playing a concerto by Vivaldi at the Beethoven Festival, in addition to the number for which he was engaged. His contract called for two appearances on each programme Thursday and Friday nights, and for the second of these appearances he made up his mind he would play Vivaldi's concerto. According to one connected with his side of the case he just made up his mind and that was all. He is said to have remarked that he played what he wanted to and not what other people said he should, and this time it would be the Vivaldi concerto.

This pronunciamento was communicated last week in a telephone message to the officials of the New York Symphony Society and caused dismay in the ranks. Their reply was a letter to R. E. Johnston, Ysaye's manager, embodying the protest in the following words, among others, according to a statement made yesterday:

"Mr. Ysaye's demand to introduce into a Beethoven festival the work of any other composer cannot even be considered, and the Symphony Society regards such a demand as a breach of the contract, which you signed knowing the purpose for which Mr. Ysaye was engaged; and will hold him responsible for any financial loss which may ensue from its being obliged to substitute another artist for these concerts.

"Moreover, the suggestion to play the work of any other composer than Beethoven at these concerts is not only inartistic, but unreasonable, as the clause in the contract calling for two appearances of Mr. Ysaye on each programme (inserted at his request) could be satisfactorily carried out by his playing in addition to the concerto, either of the two Romances (or both) or one of the violin and piano sonatas which Beethoven has written, all of them works of high artistic standing in Mr. Ysaye's repertory."

The letter closed with the statement that unless the manager notified the orchestra manager before noon of last Friday that Ysaye would play pure Beethoven, it would be considered that his contract had been broken, and steps would be taken to engage another violinist.

The notice of acquiescence did not come and Kathleen Parlow, who a short time ago substituted suddenly at the Philharmonic for Jacques Thibaud when the French violinist was forced to sail for home, was then engaged. As far as anyone here has learned, Ysaye is still of the opinion that it is Vivaldi or nothing. He is billed for an appearance in New York Wednesday.

TO AID CITY HISTORY CLUB.

A special performance of "Prince Karl" is to be given on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 24, at the Playhouse, for the benefit of the City History Club, of which Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn is President and Mrs. Robert Abbe is Honorary President. Richard Mansfield first presented "Prince Karl" to the New York public in May, 1886. Cecil Butler, for years Mr. Mansfield's director, will stage the revival, and Douglas J. Wood and others will appear in it. Orson Lowell has designed a souvenir programme for this performance, and a number of this Winter's débutantes will sell it, including the Misses Star Paris, Margaret Seton Porter, Louise Dixon and Cordelia Hepburn. Miss Augusta Dixon will also assist and Mrs. Stanwood Menken will have charge of the girls who are to sell flowers. Tea will be served after the performance, and Miss Grace George, Miss Constance Collier and others will be at the tables. General dancing will follow the serving of tea.

The patronesses are Mrs. William Church Osborn, Mrs. Moses Taylor Pyne, Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. Henry Villard, Mrs. Seth Low, Mrs. George Jay Gould, Mrs. Robert Abbe, Mrs. J. Todhunter Thompson, Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, Mrs. J. J. Mason, Mrs. J. Fred Pierson and Mrs. Stanwood Menken.

Armstrong League Meeting.

Mrs. William Jay Schieffelin will open her house, 5 East Sixty-sixth Street, this evening, for a talk by Miss Natalie Curtis before the members of the Armstrong League of New York City. This league is a recently formed organization of young women and men who are interested in the education and betterment of the Indian and negro races. Miss Katherine G. Chapin is the President, Miss Mary Jay Schieffelin is the First Vice President, and Miss Margaret Carnegie, the young daughter of Andrew Carnegie, is Second Vice President. The Secretaries are Miss Lois Hall and Miss Eva McAdoo, and Alan Fox is the Treasurer.

Miss Curtis is a compiler of Indian books, and will talk of her experiences among the Indians of the Far West, and will also sing several Indian songs.

Theatre Benefit for Women's Club.

A special performance for the benefit of the Women's University Club will be given by Miss Maude Adams in "The Legend of Leonora" on Tuesday evening, Feb. 24, at the Empire Theatre under the auspices of the Smith College Club of New York. The proceeds will be devoted to furnishing the library of the new building of the Women's University Club.

TO GIVE MORALITY PLAY.

Seven of the season's débutantes are announced to appear as "The Seven Deadly Sins" in an adaptation of the ancient morality play, "The Castle of Perseverance," which is to be presented at the Shrove Tuesday Fair in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza on the afternoon of Feb. 24. The seven who have been cast for the Sins are the Misses Caramai Carroll, Martha Gay, Maude Thompson, Adele Clarke, Rene Seigfried, Mildred Rice, and Millie Ford. The fair is for the benefit of the Shut-In Society.

Among those who will appear as "The Virtues" are Miss Marjorie Curtis, Miss Mercedes Acosta, Miss Audrey Osborne, Miss Constance Perkins, Miss Elenore Lamson, Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Miss Marion Clarke, and Mrs. William Potter.

F. A. Markoe, who has adapted the play, is at present conducting the rehearsals. He is basing his work on the original manuscript of "The Castle of Perseverance." The characters will enter and exit through the audience as in the original production. The piece will be presented several times during the afternoon that the fair is held, and will be one of the distinctive features of the entertainment programme.

The fair itself will be in imitation of those held in the fifteenth century in England, and all who take active part in the afternoon proceedings will be clad in the costumes of that period. The costumes are being made under the active direction of Mrs. Charles E. Merrill, the National President of the Shut-In Society.

In addition to those named, others who will appear in the production of the morality play are Miss Helen Jenkins, Francis Geer, Mrs. F. A. Markoe, Miss Alice Damrosch, Mrs. Alfred Macy, Walter Oakman, James M. Faust, Walter Courtney, Jay Corse, Gerald Murphy, T. Chesleigh Richardson, Jr., Frederic Sigarney, and Alfred Macy.

TO SING "JULIEN" FEB. 26.

General Manager Gatti-Casazza yesterday announced the date and the cast for the forthcoming production of Charpentier's "Julien," which will be given at the Metropolitan for the first time outside of Paris on Thursday evening, Feb. 26. Many weeks have been spent in the preparation of the work, which has presented difficulties greater than the average of the entire repertoire of the house. It is not yet known whether the composer will undertake the trip here or not, his recent illness and a fear of the ocean trip having made it doubtful.

Caruso will have the title rôle, a part which keeps him almost continuously on the stage. Geraldine Farrar, who in the opening act is the character of Louise, made familiar in Charpentier's former opera of that name, has four different characters to impersonate during the succeeding acts, a "Vision of Beauty," a "Young Peasant Maid," a "Grandmother," and a "Girl of Montmartre." Mr. Gilly, the leading baritone of the cast, has a triple rôle, "The High Priest of Beauty," the "Peasant," and a "Paris Street Fakir."

The opera will be conducted by Giorgio Polacco, who studied the score with the composer. Jules Speck and Giulio Setti handle the stage direction and the chorus work, and the technical effects have been arranged by Edward Siedle. The scenery was painted by Paul Paquereau of Paris. The opera, which is a sequel to "Louise," is in four acts and eight scenes, and takes about three hours to perform.

PEOPLE'S SYMPHONY.

Frank Croxton the Soloist at Wagner Concert at Carnegie Hall.

At the People's Symphony Concert in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, a Wagner programme was performed with the assistance of Frank Croxton, bass. There was a very good attendance to encourage the givers of these concerts for the people who do not spend large sums on music. Mr. Croxton proved a very acceptable figure as the soloist, having a voice of good quality with plenty of breadth in style. The numbers were the Prelude to "Die Meistersinger" and the Prelude to "Lohengrin"; "To the Evening Star" from "Tannhäuser," sung by Mr. Croxton; "Siegfried's Rhine Journey" from "Götterdämmerung"; "Albumblatt," in a transcription for orchestra by C. E. Le Massena; "Wotan's Farewell" and the "Fire Music," sung by Mr. Croxton; Prelude to "Parsifal," and the "Kaisermarsch."

It could not be expected, on account of the infrequency of its playing, that the orchestra would rise to any great heights of virtuosity in the Wagner music, but it was all seriously and painstakingly done, and amply served the purpose of the organization, which is fortunately educational as well as recreative.

'SOCIETY' MOVIE PLAYHOUSE

With a Fine Organ and Private Boxes—New Phase of Amusement.

The Continental Feature Film Company, which books and distributes the feature productions of the Mutual Film Corporation's producing firms, announced yesterday interesting plans for the metropolitan district.

The Continental has obtained the booking rights to Weber's Theatre for ten weeks with the possibility of an indefinite renewal. It will have a similar arrangement with a new company which has acquired the old Metropolitan Skating Rink on Broadway, at Fifty-second Street, now being reconstructed as a cinematograph playhouse with an expensive pipe organ and private boxes, intended to attract society patrons.

Both Weber's Theatre and the rink will be operated as if presenting legitimate dramatic productions. Weber's will offer elaborate photo plays.

The opening attraction for the Rink, which will be ready in four or five weeks, will be a feature drama called "Dope." Its author, Herman Lieb, will be the star of the production, and the cast will include Laura Nelson Hall, Ernest Truax, Christine Blessing, William H. Tooker, and Gaston Mervale.

The first photo play at Weber's will be "The Gangsters," in which H. B. Walthall and Consuelo Bailey are featured. It will be followed by "The Battle of the Sexes," a photo play by Daniel Carson Goodman, author of "Hagar Revelly."

Albert Parr Sings at Century.

At the Century Opera House concert last night a change was made from the bill announced when Albert Parr, tenor, sang in the place of Lois Ewell, who was announced to be indisposed. Mr. Parr was new to Century audiences. He was obviously under the disadvantage of nervousness, although he is not at all new to the stage, but in his encore number, "E Lucevan le Stelle," from "Tosca," he gained confidence, and the result was some singing in which he revealed a good voice and considerable finesse of style. The others who sang were Thomas Chalmers, Gustaf Bergman, Beatrice La Palme, Alfred Kaufman, Louis Kreidler, Bertha Shalek, and Orville Harrold. The orchestra performed the overture to "Die Fledermaus," Martucci's "Notturno," Tschaikowsky's "Andante Cantabile," the "Evolution of the Dance," overture to Massenet's "Phedre," and the overture to "Stradella," by Flotow. Josef Pasternack and Carlo Nicosia conducted, while Edward Collins assisted at the piano.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 15.—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Natalie Pohle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore T. Pohle of Forest Street, and John S. Trecartin, also of this town, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Homer Trecartin of Brooklyn Heights.

Miss McBurney to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eugene McBurney of 170 Valley Road, Montclair, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Catherine Cole McBurney, to Ronald Baker Clark. Mr. Clark is the son of Charles W. Clark of Paris, and is a graduate of the Armour Institute of Technology. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

BRONX BEAR HIDES HER CUBS IN A CAVE

MAN WHO TRIED HAD TO FLEE

Mother Bear, Full of Fight, Chased and Nearly Caught Him in a Sudden Race for Life.

Park attendants have been trying for days to learn just how many bear cubs there are in a cave at the back of one of the large cages in the Zoological Park in the Bronx. Just when they were born is not known. They only learned that there were cubs in the cave when Colorado, a female North American brown bear, appeared at the entrance a week ago bearing one of them in her mouth. It was not any bigger than a cat, the keeper who saw it said. There are three other bears in the cage with the mother, and they lined up in front of the entrance and prevented an inspection of the cave.

"Hey, Snyder, there are some cubs down in Colorado's cage," this keeper called to Keeper Charles Snyder as he ran into the reptile house to spread the good news.

Snyder accompanied the keeper back to the bear cage. On the way they were joined by others, for the news quickly got about. When the party arrived at the cage there was no sign of the new arrival. The mother bear was far back under the rocky ledge, two of the other bears were shambling about, and the third was splashing water in the pool.

Later the keepers learned that Colorado had more than one cub, but just how many more is still a matter of doubt. Snyder is sure there are three youngsters behind the rock, but Keeper Degnon insists there are only two.

The question is one of great interest to the park officials, as well as to the keepers, for bears ordinarily do not care for their young for any length of time. Apparently Colorado's mates have made no attempt to harm the cubs. They are allowed to enter the family cave, but the growls of the mother bear show that she resents their close inspection of her young.

Interest in the welfare of the cubs became so great among the keepers that one of them undertook to explore the cave and find out how many cubs there were and how they were getting on. He waited until the other bears were dozing after a hearty meal. Then he opened the door at the rear of the inclosure and stepped in, swinging the door softly shut behind him. He was creeping toward the cave when suddenly the mother bear appeared in the entrance. She had a cub in her mouth, for each day she brings one of them out into the sunshine, stands guard over it for ten minutes or so, and then gravely catches the youngster up by the scruff of the neck and carries it back into the cave. She was on the way out to give one of the cubs its airing when the keeper encountered her. She growled savagely, and the keeper backed quietly to the door, reached a hand out behind him and opened it.

Colorado, with a quick turn of her head, tossed the cub just inside the cave. Then, still growling, she cleared the few feet between the cave and the cage door with remarkable speed, reaching it just as the keeper stepped through, and the impact of her body slammed it shut behind him. It was a hairbreadth escape.

Efforts by the keepers to inspect the interior of the cave ceased then and there.

Mabel Garrison at Metropolitan.

At the Metropolitan Opera House concert last night the soloists were Jean Gerardy, 'cellist; Mabel Garrison, soprano; Sophie Braslau, contralto, and Carl Jorn, tenor. Mr. Gerardy played Saint-Saen's concerto for the 'cello and Boelmann's "Symphonic Variations." Among the singers interest centred in Mrs. Garrison, an American singer whose engagement by the Metropolitan was recently announced and who was making her first appearance. She made a good impression, having a voice of pure quality and considerable flexibility and brilliance. To these natural assets she added an easy stage presence and considerable charm of style. The orchestra was under the direction of Adolf Rothmeyer.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Owing to the continuation of "1,000 Years Ago" at the Shubert Theatre, the Shuberts will retain Henry E. Dixey in the part of Capocomico in Percy McKaye's Oriental play, and as a result the proposed revival of "Adonis," with Mr. Dixey in his old role, has been postponed indefinitely.

On Thursday evening and continuing through until the following Wednesday, William Faversham will again present at the Lyric Theatre "Julius Caesar," seen here last season. Mr. Faversham will appear as Antony, R. D. MacLean as Brutus, Pedro de Cordoba as Cassius, and Constance Collier as Portia.

Laurette Taylor and her associate players in "Peg o' My Heart" at the Cort Theatre will begin rehearsals to-day of four new one-act plays, to be presented at the Cort on the afternoons of the four Fridays in March.

A message received by the Liebler Company from Lincoln, Neb., where "The Garden of Allah" was performed last week, announces that on the morning of Feb. 12 a twelve-pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Rakaya El Hassan, members of the troupe of Arabs appearing in the Century Theatre spectacle. Mrs. Rakaya El Hassan is the only Berber woman in this country.

According to an announcement issued by H. H. Frazee yesterday there is no authority for the statement that the Longacre Theatre has or is about to pass from his control. He also announces that the engagement of "Maria Rosa," with Dorothy Donnelly and Lou-Tellegen, will terminate on Saturday night and beginning Monday, Feb. 23, with a Washington's Birthday matinee in the Longacre Theatre, he will present for the first time here a new farce called "A Pair of Sixes," by Edward Peple.

Harry Mestayer of the Princess Theatre Company received last Saturday an offer from San Francisco inviting him to accept the directorship of a theatre of one-act plays, similar to, and perhaps operated in conjunction with, the Thirty-ninth Street institution of single-act drama, during the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915.

George Mooser has organized a permanent musical comedy producing company, and has as his stars Kolb and Dill. The new organization, which has been rehearsing for several weeks past in various Manhattan theatres, will open in Cincinnati on Washington's Birthday. After one week there they will play in St. Louis for the same period, and will then occupy Chicago's American Music Hall.

On Wednesday afternoon and evening, at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, under the auspices of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, Burton Holmes will give for the first and last time in Brooklyn his new travelogue on "Panama Down to Date."

Three hundred members of the Far Western Travelers' Association, which is in convention at the Hotel Astor, will hold a theatre party at Hammerstein's to-night in honor of Emma Carus, who is on the bill. The comedienne is an honorary member of that organization.

The management of the Winter Garden announces that it has decided to add a regular ballet school for American girls to this establishment. The school will be conducted by Lydia Kyasht, the Russian ballet dancer.

To-night's performance of "The Things That Count" at William A. Brady's Playhouse will be given for the benefit of St. Joseph's Day Nursery, at 473 West Fifty-seventh Street, in charge of the Sisters of St. Dominic.

DR. ROSWELL PARK DEAD.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Dr. Roswell Park, one of the most eminent of American surgeons, died suddenly at his home in this city to-day. Dr. Park appeared in good health up to within twenty minutes of his death. He had left the breakfast table and walked into the library, when he was stricken. He died before doctors, hastily summoned, could reach him. Heart disease was the cause of his death.

Dr. Park had been working very hard of late. In addition to practicing his profession, which had taken him to all the great hospitals of the country, he had been a prolific writer of medical works.

Dr. Roswell Park, Professor of Surgery at the University of Buffalo and surgeon in the General Hospital there since 1883, was one of the five physicians who attended President McKinley after he was shot by an anarchist at Buffalo, N. Y., on Sept. 6, 1901. He was one of the best known physicians in the country, with a world-wide reputation as an expert in abdominal surgery.

While here in May, 1910, en route to Washington to attend a meeting of medical societies, Dr. Park was stricken with pneumonia at the Grand Central terminal, and at his own request he was sent to a hospital. It was believed that he never fully recovered from the effects of this illness.

He was born in Pomfret, Conn., on May 4, 1852, the son of a clergyman. Both his father and mother, Mary Browster Baldwin Park, were descendants of distinguished American families, one member, Col. James Baldwin, having been a member of the staff of Gen. Washington, who was with the army at the crossing of the Delaware.

Dr. Park received his medical education at Racine College, Wisconsin, and Northwestern University, and received degrees from Lake Forest University, Harvard, and Yale. After serving as interne in various hospitals he was appointed demonstrator of anatomy in the Woman's Medical College, Chicago, 1877.

In 1879 he became Adjunct Professor of Anatomy in the Chicago Medical College, where he remained until 1882; then Professor of Surgery in Rush Medical College, and in the medical department of Northwestern University. He studied surgery in several large European hospitals and went to the Buffalo institutions in 1883. He was Surgeon of the Fourth Brigade, N. G., N. Y., 1884-93, and President of the Spencer Lens Company. He was the first surgeon here to establish a private bacteriological laboratory. The Congress of German Surgeons elected him a member in 1887.

Dr. Park was the author of a number of medical works. For some years he edited The Weekly Medical Review, was associate editor of "The Annals of Surgery," and editor of The Medical Press of Western New York. Among his writings were "Park's Modern Surgery," "The Electric Light in Surgical Diagnosis," "Contributions to Abdominal Surgery," "A Radical Cure for Hernia," and "A History of Medicine." All were recognized as textbooks on the subjects treated.

He was a director of the New York State Cancer Laboratory at Buffalo, a trustee of the Buffalo State Hospital, and a member of the Philharmonic Society, the German, French, and Italian Surgical Associations, the International Society of Surgery, the American Surgical Association, and the Medical Society of New York. His clubs were the University, Park, and Yacht Clubs, Buffalo, and the University, Manhattan. In 1880 Dr. Park was married to Miss Martha P. Durkee, daughter of Julius R. Durkee of Brooklyn. A sister and two sons survive him.

ABRAHAM SELIGSBERG.

Abraham Seligsberg, who retired from the Presidency of Seligsberg & Co., bankers and brokers at 71 Broadway, eight years ago, died yesterday at his apartments in the Hotel Netherland. Mr. Seligsberg was 70 years old and came to this country when a boy. He joined the Confederate Army, with which he served until wounded.

When the war was over he returned to the North and for a time was in the woolen business. Then he opened a banking establishment in the Wall Street district, where he remained for twenty-four years until his retirement.

COLD CAUSING MUCH DISTRESS
AMONG THE POOR

Hundreds are appealing to us for the bare necessities of life. Some need coal, others clothing and shelter, and still others food.

Many families, threatened with dispossess, need help to prevent them from being thrown out in the cold. In hundreds of ways our Visitors and Nurses are relieving suffering.

These are not chronic paupers. Misfortune is responsible for their plight. They don't want charity, but a chance to be self-supporting again.

They Appeal through Us to You to Help
Them out of Dependency.

CORNELIUS N. BLISS, President.
R. FULTON CUTTING, Chairman, Finance Committee.

Keep Your Eye on "Fixed Charges"

RENT is a fixed charge, and, once incurred, cannot very well be cut down so long as the lease is in force.

A tenant, therefore, should lease not a foot more than he needs, for unused space is simply a senseless waste of money.

That is why we maintain a corps of efficiency experts to confer with tenants and prevent their leasing more space than the size of their business warrants.

Leases now being made from May 1, 1915. The building, however, is due to be completed 2 or 3 months ahead of that date.

J. H. HARJES DIES IN FRANCE.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—John H. Harjes, one of the oldest and most respected American residents in Paris, died at Grasse this afternoon, in his eighty-fifth year, after a long illness.

Mr. Harjes arrived in Paris from Philadelphia in 1868, and founded the banking firm of Drexel, Harjes & Co., now Morgan, Harjes & Co. He was in Paris during the siege. He retired from business in 1908, and devoted the rest of his life to the numerous charitable works in which he was interested, notably the American Hospital in Paris, of which he was President at the time of his death. He was an officer of the Legion of Honor. He owned a villa at Grasse, where he spent every Winter.

John H. Harjes thirty years ago became a partner in the banking firm of Drexel, Harjes & Co. of Paris, which later became Morgan, Harjes & Co. He was born in Switzerland about eighty-four years ago. He came to this country and became an American citizen. He entered the banking business here, and later went to Paris.

His son, H. Herman Harjes, who succeeds him as a partner in Morgan, Harjes & Co., on Feb. 20, 1911, married Mrs. Fredericka Berwind Gilpin, daughter of the late Charles E. Berwind of Philadelphia.

Charles S. Schenck Dead.

Charles Stewart Schenck, the President of the Elevator Barge Company of this city, died yesterday at his home in Rye in his seventy-fourth year. Mr. Schenck's father, Courtney Schenck, was associated with the Count Ferdinand de Lesseps in Panama. His grandfather, Peter H. Schenck, was the founder of Matteawan, N. Y. Mr. Schenck retired from active business ten years ago, and had lived since at Rye. He is survived by two daughters and one son, Stewart C. Schenck, a real estate dealer, at 503 Fifth Avenue. His wife died a few months ago.

Congressman Sherwood's Wife Dead

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Kate Brownlee Sherwood, wife of Representative Isaac R. Sherwood of Ohio, died at the Congress Hall Hotel to-day following a stroke of paralysis. She was 72 years old. Mrs. Sherwood had been a contributor to newspapers and magazines for many years, edited The Toledo Journal for ten years, and was honorary President of the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association. She was known in Washington as the "Poetess of the Congressional Circle."

George W. Walker.

George W. Walker, a brother-in-law of Robert C. Hilliard, the actor, was stricken yesterday afternoon with strangulation in his home at 113 West Forty-third Street and expired in the ambulance of the Flower Hospital, in charge of Dr. Beard, on the way to the hospital. He had just recovered from an operation at St. Luke's Hospital for mastoid tumor. Mr. Walker was well known in the fire insurance business in this city. He was employed by Stephen & Payne of 30 Church Street, fire insurance adjusters, having formerly served with Cruikshank & Co., 1 Liberty Street, for several years.

Major Frederick Brackett Dead.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Major Frederick Brackett, a civil war veteran and a commander in the Legion of Honor of France, who served as representative of the United States to several foreign nations in connection with the Chicago World's Fair and filled other public positions, died at his home here late last night after suffering a stroke of paralysis. Funeral services will take place on Tuesday. Major Brackett was 73 years old.

BASEBALL TOURISTS IN NICE CARNIVAL

Manager of New York Giants.
Copyright, 1914, by John J. McGraw.

NICE, Feb. 15.—The Giants and White Sox world's tourists got an enthusiastic reception to-day when they took part in the carnival procession. All the players wore uniforms trimmed with red, white, and blue, and American flags were conspicuous in the festival decorations.

The baseball players came in for their share of attention in the battle of roses. Flowers and confetti were showered upon them. Their appearance in the procession was greeted with great cheers along the line of march. The famous Winter resort is at the height of its gayety, and the streets were thronged with visitors. The tourists will take part in the grand fête to-night.

Yesterday the party went on a sight-seeing tour to Monte Carlo, visiting all the places of interest. There is an unusual demand for tickets for to-morrow's game, and the seats are selling at a greater advance than at any time during the tour. There is even more interest in the game here than there was at Manila. Desirable seats are selling for 20f., and the demand is much greater than the supply. We expect to go to Paris Tuesday.

We received welcome news to-day from Charles A. Comiskey. He is greatly improved in health, and his physician gave him permission to go to Paris. He is accompanied by Mrs. Comiskey and Ted Sullivan. We received a wire from him, dated Genoa, in which he stated that he was feeling much better.

Jim Thorpe is the centre of attraction here, and before the game to-morrow the Indian will give an exhibition of his prowess in field sports. He will throw the weights and will give an exhibition of sprinting, high jumping, and pole vaulting.

FEDERAL'S WAR CHEST.

President Gilmore Says League's Financial Strength Is $25,000,000.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 15.—James A. Gilmore, President of the Federal League, and E. E. Gates, Secretary of the league, held a conference lasting all the afternoon to-day with M. F. Bramley, who hopes to secure a Federal League franchise for Cleveland.

The conference was kept as secret as possible. No one was admitted to the room. At the close of the meeting Gilmore declined to discuss the possibilities of Cleveland holding a Federal League berth this year, but he would not emphatically deny that it would. All that Bramley would say was: "We are still flirting with the Federal League." Gilmore was free enough in discussing general matters concerning the Federal League.

"If I rated our present financial strength at $25,000,000 I would not be far from the truth," said he. "We started the proposition with a determination to carry it out, and we are going to succeed. We are planning not only for this year and next but far into the future. It will be a fight to the finish."

Asked when he intended to publish the names of the Federal League players, Gilmore said he would not publish all the names at once, but in batches of about twenty each, in order to furnish as much excitement as possible.

Trap Shooting at New Rochelle.

Thirteen men faced the traps of the New Rochelle Yacht Club yesterday, and full scores were returned in four of the five contests decided. The weather was cold, but clear, and the light good. J. P. Donovan, G. H. Martin, G. P. Granbery, A. E. Eldridge, H. M. Bullock, and B. R. Stoddard tied with full scores of 25 in the shoot for the Monthly Cup, and H. M. Bullock won the leg for the Accumulation Cup with a full score. In the distance handicap contest for the Stevens Cup G. H. Martin and A. Chandler tied, with 20 blue rocks smashed for each. H. H. Todd won the ten "bird" and H. M. Bullock the fifteen "bird" scratch contests, respectively.

Manhasset Bay Y. C. Shoot.

Of the nine men who competed at the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club's traps at Port Washington yesterday, C. M. Gould carried off the honors by winning three of the five matches. With a handicap of 7 and 22 breaks he won the leg for the Monthly Cup. With the same handicap and 24 blue rocks smashed he won the leg for the Yearly Cup, and after a shoot-off with H. Funke he captured the prize in a special match at 25 "birds." H. Funke was the winner of the 10 "bird" scratch contest, and E. A. Sierck won the 15 "bird" scratch shoot.

Columbia Leads at Basket Ball.

Columbia will have to conquer opposition of the stiffest kind this week in order to hold its string of victories in the Intercollegiate Basket Ball League race unbroken, because it will be matched against the Cornell five, winners of the title last year and the strongest contenders the New York team has in the struggle this season. Cornell, by defeating Princeton on Friday night, advanced up to the heels of the Columbians, and when the two meet at Ithaca on Wednesday night, there should be a battle royal, with the advantage even. The standing:

Columbia	5	0	1.000	Yale	2	2	.500

Walkers in Coney Island Trip.

In spite of the snow-covered roads and cold weather, about thirty members of the Walkers' Club of America took part in the walk from the City Hall to Coney Island as a final test for the Washington's Birthday competition. The men finished the long walk in good shape and kept well up with Fred Lachermacher, who acted as pathfinder. Among those who made the trip were Hocking, Nichols, Trefy, Sr.; Trefy, Jr.; Schwarts, Nasson, Heath, Stevens, Rolker, Rode, Pflying, Mindleman, Abbitit, Smith, Samuelson, Morrell, Necking, Baumgarten, Greengold, Naisser, Whalen, Osterman, Malone, and Reus.

HARD MATCHES AT SQUASH.

Stillman and Whitney Win Close Contests in Tennis Tourney.

Four of the seven matches played in the squash tennis invitation tournament yesterday at the Squash Club, Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue, went to three sets. It was one of the best exhibitions of squash tennis witnessed in this city, and as the new Squash Club courts are very fast, there was plenty of action throughout. Among the survivors are Dr. Alfred Stillman, 2d, and George Whitney, the present and former national title holders.

Joshua O. Low of the Heights Casino missed an oportunity to lower the colors of Whitney. The pair met in the third round, and the Brooklyn player secured a commanding lead in the first set. He, however, made the mistake of playing too low, and as a result he lost his hand several times by striking the telltale board. Whitney recovered his lost ground and brought the score to 14—all when three aces were set. Low missed another chance to win the set, and the Harvard crack finished 17—16. The Heights Casino player maintained his speed in the second set, which was another deuce affair, but was more successful, winning 16—15. Low fell away in the third and deciding set, and tired as the match drew to a close. He had won a hard match from Frank L. Kidde, Montclair Athletic Club, the champion of New Jersey, in the second round, and this caused his slowing up.

The match between Champion Stillman and S. Hinman Bird, the Princeton Club title holder, was another interesting contest, and for two sets the Princeton player caused Stillman considerable worry. The champion won the first set 15—10, but Bird put up an aggressive and varied attack in the second set and evened up matters. Stillman showed championship form in the last set and allowed his opponent but three aces.

In the other extra set matches F. S. Keeler, Columbia Club, defeated D. R. Noyes, Squash Club, 10—15, 15—12, 15—7, after a gruelling contest, and Low captured his match from Kidde after the latter had won the first set. Keeler, however, was eliminated by H. G. Bulkely, Columbia Club, in the third round after Bulkely had disposed of G. E. Parks, Squash Club, in straight sets. The summary:

Invitation Squash Tennis.—Second Round—E. S. Winston, Harvard Club, defeated J. V. Onativia, Jr., Harvard Club, 15—7, 15—1; Joshua O. Low, Brooklyn Heights Casino, defeated Frank L. Kidde, Montclair Athletic Club, 9—15, 15—14, 15—1; H. G. Bulkely, Columbia Club, defeated G. E. Parks, Squash Club, 15—4, 15—10; F. S. Keeler, Columbia Club, defeated D. R. Noyes, Squash Club, 10—15, 15—12, 15—7.

Third Round—Dr. Alfred Stillman 2d, Harvard Club, defeated S. Hinman Bird, Princeton Club, 15—10, 11—15, 15—3; George Whitney, Harvard Club, defeated Joshua O. Low, Brooklyn Heights Casino, 17—16, 16—15, 15—10; H. G. Bulkely, Columbia Club, defeated F. S. Keeler, Columbia Club, 15—12, 15—11.

Harvard Club Squash Tennis.

The Harvard Club squash tennis championship tournament is slowly approaching the final stages. Considerable delay has been caused in this tournament owing to the national championship and the Squash Club invitation competition, in which many of the Harvard Club survivors were engaged. In the fourth round two interesting matches were played, both of which were decided in straight sets. Dr. A. W. Swann found a hard opponent to defeat in E. H. Pool, and extra points were required in the first set before a decision was reached. Swann forced the pace in the second set, and won in easy fashion. J. V. Onatavia Jr., showed excellent form in his match, and won, 15—7, 15—7. The summary:

Harvard Club Squash Tennis Championship—Dr. A. W. Swann defeated E. H. Pool, 18—15, 15—4; J. V. Onatavia, Jr., defeated E. Taylor, 15—7, 15—7.

KNOLLWOOD GUNS ACTIVE.

F. M. Wilson Wins the Cockburn Trophy at White Plains Traps.

Gunners of the Knollwood Country Club at White Plains made the best of the wintry conditions which prevailed yesterday at their traps, and decided three handicap events in which good scores were made considering the background of snow with which the shooters were confronted. The first match contested was for the J. H. Cockburn Trophy, a 125 "bird" handicap, which showed F. Crampton at scratch.

F. M. Wilson and E. F. Fox, each in receipt of ten "birds," made an aggregate of 104, and in the shoot-off of the tie at twenty-five "birds" Wilson won with twenty "kills," Fox scoring eighteen. The scores of the other leading men were T. F. Wilcox, 91, 10, and 101; W. H. Sykes, 85, 15, and 100, and F. Crampton, 96, 0, and 96.

For the yearly handicap at 100 "birds," E. F. Fox was returned the winner with 76, which, with his handicap of eight, brought his tally up to 84. Wilson and Wilcox from the 8-yard mark, each made a total of 83, while Sykes broke 68, and totaled 80 with his 12 allowance, and Crampton made 79 from scratch, out of a possible 100. Wilcox gathered in the Take Home Trophy at fifty "birds" with a handicap of four and 42 "kills."

LARCHMONT GUNNERS WIN.

New Rochelle Loses Eight-Men Team Match by Big Score.

One of the biggest musters of the trapshooters seen this season at a regular weekly shoot of the Larchmont Yacht Club was that of yesterday, when the regulars were joined by eight members of the New Rochelle Yacht Club. The visitors took part in three of the eight contests on the programme, including a special team match at 100 "birds," in which eight men from each club competed. In this they were beaten by the men of the home club by a score of 675 to 555.

Ralph L. Spotts, shooting from scratch, proved "high gun" for the day with a total of 137 out of the possible 150. Spotts also broke 25 straight in the shoot for the Take-Home Trophy and he won the 10 "bird" scratch shoot. A. L. Burns with a handicap of 2 won both the Visitors' Cup and the Take-Home Trophy, returning full scores in each.

Ralph K. Spotts and W. E. Ferguson tied for the leg for the Monthly Cup and Ferguson with a handicap of 14 won the 125 "bird" handicap prize with 122 to his credit. W. B. Short and A. W. Fitzgerald tied in the match for the Accumulation Cup. They will shoot off the tie next week.

Hutchins Wins Squash Title.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—C. Hutchins of Boston won the singles squash racquet championship of the United States here to-day by defeating H. A. Haines of Baltimore 3 games to 1. The summary: Hutchine, 10, 15, 15, 15; Haines, 15, 14, 7, 9.

LEAGUE EXPANSION WILL INJURE GAME

With the Federal League's attempt to establish itself as a major baseball organization, and with a scheme in the wind on the part of organized ball to fight the outlaw competition with another major league; the demand for good baseball players to-day far exceeds the supply. Where the players will come from the baseball public is at a loss to understand, because, under the present country-wide minor league system, it is impossible to develop sufficient high class players to fill the present wants of the two major leagues.

Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants said yesterday that the number of star ball players had already reached the high water mark, and if the invasion of new leagues should result in the further distribution of the best talent the standard of baseball would be lowered and the baseball public would not be able to see the skillful, high class playing that is seen in the major leagues at the present time.

"Why, there aren't enough good players now to supply the sixteen major league clubs," said Mr. Foster. "Each season we hear of this or that player showing promise of being a world beater, but few of them stick with the big show. The public does not realize the trouble and expense that baseball clubs go to nowadays to discover new players. Organized ball is played in more than 300 cities in this country, and through these leagues every season scouts from the major league clubs are looking for promising players.

"Yes, and they carefully search the sand lots and the colleges for players. Each season, scores of young players who have shown some promise are taken to Southern training camps and given a chance to show their ability. They receive the best of coaching and receive every opportunity to measure up to major league standard, and yet how many of them make good? Very few. It takes years to make a ball player. Most of the good players in the game to-day started to play ball just as soon as they were able to toss a ball. They started on the sand lots and in the schoolyards. Years of playing finally developed them to the point where they were capable, skillful players.

"For several seasons now players have been developed as rapidly as it is possible to develop them. Yet one or two a season, and not more, display unusual talent. Most of them come up from the minors and go back again, and are not heard of any more. There are plenty of ordinary minor league players, but those who rise above the ordinary in their playing are scarce as red diamonds. There are not enough players in the country to make another major league which can reach the standard of playing which has been set by the National and American Leagues."

If the present baseball war continues and reaches a realization, old baseball men predict a violent reaction, which will prove detrimental to the game. This reaction will mean a lower standard of baseball. This will mean a falling off in public interest, and the ultimate result will be that ball players' salaries, which have already reached the high-water mark, will be greatly reduced. The baseball business is a peculiar business. Because the supply of resourceful, clever players is limited, naturally the number of high-class clubs must be limited. An expansion of leagues usually means the lowering of the standard of the game. The baseball fan is a fickle individual. Once he has seen high-class playing, the minor league brand of baseball doesn't please him any more.

The Federal League invasion has been a great thing for the ball players. The salaries of many of them have almost been doubled. The major leagues are giving their men more money than they are normally worth to keep up the standard that has already been set. That is why last week the Boston Club was willing to give Johnny Evers a bonus of $20,000 to stay with organized ball. The National League could not afford to lose a star of Evers's calibre. He had to be kept in the ranks at any price.

EBBETS DESERTS MURPHY.

"Friendship Ceases When Foolishness Begins," Says Brooklyn Head.

President John K. Tener of the National League returned from Washington yesterday and held a conference at the Waldorf-Astoria with August Herrmann and Barney Dreyfus at which Ban Johnson's latest tirade against Charles W. Murphy of Chicago was discussed. After the conference Gov. Tener said: "I have nothing whatever to say about it at this time." Some of the National League club owners, while they are greatly perturbed over Murphy's lack of tact and his troublesome methods, think Johnson's attitude untimely and ridiculous.

One National League club owner said yesterday: "Johnson's attitude is ridiculous, when you stop to consider the close relations between the two major leagues. With an American League club sharing a National League park right here in the biggest city on the circuit, it would be absurd for the American League to pursue any course which would disrupt the two leagues. There is too much co-operative interest among baseball clubs to permit such radical action as Johnson is said to have threatened. The cooler heads of baseball will not permit their interests to be jeopardized by an unnecessary baseball revolution. The National League will take care of Murphy in its own way."

President Charles H. Ebbets of Brooklyn, who has been Murphy's friend through many of his controversies in the National League, has deserted the Chicago manager, as has nearly every member of the Board of Directors. Mr. Ebbets said yesterday: "The National League is a copartnership, and the entire body suffers for the sins of one. I have been Murphy's friend for years, but friendship ceases when foolishness begins."

Gov. Tener will go to Philadelphia this morning, but expects to return to this city to-night, when he will attend the Elks' banquet with Mr. Herrmann. It is possible that the Murphy muddle may be adjusted before Mr. Tener returns to Harrisburg to-morrow.

Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants announced last night that Bob Bescher, secured by the New York club from Cincinnati in a trade, had signed a three years' contract. The star outfielder's salary is said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000 a year. Bescher is at his home in London, Ohio, and was dissatisfied with the terms which the Giants first offered him. The salary question has been satisfactorily adjusted, and Bescher will start for Marlin, Texas, next week.

Although President Gilmore, before leaving for Chicago on Saturday, stated that there would be no further change in the circuit of the Federal League, Ned Hanlon of Baltimore is authority for the statement that the new league does not intend to locate a club at Buffalo. Mr. Hanlon states that the Buffalo franchise will probably be placed in some major league city. The three possible cities, he says, are Philadelphia, Cleveland, or Cincinnati. Washington has also been mentioned as a possible choice for the Buffalo franchise.

DOES NOT FEAR JOHNSON.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Charles W. Murphy, President of the Chicago National League Baseball Club, to-day said he had no fear that Ban Johnson, President of the American League, would act on his suggestion for breaking the National agreement. Johnson's enmity Murphy said, was based on Murphy's refusal to waive a section of the National agreement which gives any club the right to refuse permission for an outside league to establish a club within five miles of a city in which it is located.

"When the Cantillons bought the Chicago property, which now is the home of the Federal League, it was purchased, it was said, for the purpose of putting an association team into Chicago. This deal did not go through, because of Murphy's objections, the Cub owner said to-night.

"Johnson puts me out of baseball at nearly every meeting he attends," said a statement by Murphy. "He puts me out of baseball four or five times a year with a wave of the hand, and I suppose he will continue to do so. The specialty of Johnson is trying to stir up trouble in the National League."

VIM LANDS TWO RACES.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Feb. 15.—In a brisk northwest breeze that sent the ice yachts flying up and down the North Shrewsbury to-day, Henry Applegate's new craft Vim won two six-mile races sailed in record time over the Independent Ice Yacht Club's triangular course. Everett Asay's Streak proved the only dangerous contender of the Vim, the former craft finishing only thirteen seconds behind the Vim in the first event, and but eleven seconds behind in the second.

The Vim has started in four races for the club pennant, has won three and broke down in one, in which the P.D.Q. II. won by a close margin from the Streak.

PELL CAPTURES GOLD RACQUETS

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., Feb. 15.—It was East against West for the Gold Racquet in the final round to-day at the Tuxedo Club courts and the East won out three games to one. Clarence C. Pell of the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet Club defeated C. G. Osborne of the University Club of Chicago, 15—5, 15—11, 17—15, 15—10, 60 aces to 43. Pell won the open championship of the New York Tennis and Racquet Club two weeks ago, and defeated Ernest Greensfields at Montreal a week earlier for the amateur championship of Canada. He is entered in the National Championship at Boston next week.

Pell won the toss and scored three aces on service, while the Westerner was blanked in the first hand. Osborne got two in his second hand to Pell's nothing. It was all one-sided after this, the Tuxedo man leading all the way and winning out easily at 15 to 5. The second game was even up to 10 all, when Pell, by skillful placement earned 5 aces to Osborne's 1, and won the game 15 to 11.

The real fight was in the third game, which was nip and tuck all the way. First one was ahead and then the other. It finally went to 14 all, when the best three was called, Osborne winning out 3 to 1 and the game at 17 to 15.

With almost sure defeat staring him in the face Osborne had hard luck in the fourth and final game, losing five aces. He was unable to return Pell's puzzling service and all he could get was 10 aces to Pell's 15.

There was a large crowd of society people in the courts and every good play was enthusiastically applauded. The score:

FIRST GAME.

Pell	3	0	3	4	5—15

SECOND GAME.

WIN SIX CHAMPIONSHIPS.

American Athletes Make Great Record in Australian Meet.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 15.—The American athletes to-day won six of the eight championships at the New South Wales meeting. George L. Parker, the California sprinter, captured the 100 and 440 yard races, and 120 yards hurdle events; Rurie Templeton, Olympic Club, San Francisco, the pole vault; Reginald Caughey of California the shot-putting contest, and Jimmy Powers, Boston A. A., the mile run.

Amateur Billiard Tournament.

Competition for the Harlem Class C. amateur billiard championship at 18.2 balkline, with ten entries, will begin to-night at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue. The event has attracted a deal of attention, as many of the best-known amateur of the class reside in the Harlem section. The various contestants have been practicing for the last two weeks and speculation is rife as to the outcome of the event. Last year the contest drew only eight entrants, but the increased interest now manifest in the 18.2 game compelled the management of the tourney to limit the number of contestants in order not to prolong the time. Several other entries were received, but it was necessary to set the mark at ten.

N. Y. A. C. SWIMMERS BREAK A. A. U. RULES

Winged Foot Athletes May Be Suspended for Competing at Annapolis.

The action of the team of New York A. C. swimmers who journeyed to Annapolis last Saturday and competed against the Middies' squad in the Naval Academy pool was in direct violation of A. A. U. laws, and may warrant the suspension of the men who participated.

The reason for the disqualification which must follow is based on a rule of the A. A. U. which classes the Naval Academy as an educational institution, the members of which are only eligible to compete, when unregistered, in their own group-colleges and schools.

It is stated that the Middies have steadfastly refused to become affiliated by registration as individuals with the South Atlantic Association of the A. A. U., a fact with which, it is said, the New York A. C. was made acquainted more than a week ago, and warned that if they competed with the Middies they would be suspended.

As the infringement of the rules occurred in the bailiwick of the South Atlantic Association of the A. A. U., that body will demand the names of the men who competed, the Metropolitan Association having already been asked to aid it in that regard.

Paul Pilgrim, Captain of the New York A. C., stated last night that he had no idea who composed the team and that he did not know whether the N. Y. A. C. men were even registered. He said that the voluntary manager of the team had not been made acquainted with the fact that their opponents were unregistered men until the conclusion of the series, when he received word from some one in Washington.

He declared that he would make every effort to get the names of the men, but that he had no idea what action the club would take in the matter. He further averred that it was up to the A. A. U. to take action, and that if he could aid in unraveling the harm, if any had been done, he would help the governing body all he could.

At the annual session of the Amateur Athletic Union last year efforts were made to have the teams of West Point and Annapolis exempted from the rule under which they are now amenable as to registration, but the matter could not have been covered without the adoption of a new amendment, for which sufficient time had not been given. It was promised at that time that such action would be taken at this year's meeting.

Yale and Princeton Swimmers Tie.

Honors in intercollegiate swimming and water polo this year are between Yale and Princeton, and there should be a battle royal when they compete in the tank a week hence. The Tigers will have a warming up meet with Columbia this week, and simultaneously Yale will get in a little more practice, with Pennsylvania as the opponent. Neither Pennsylvania nor Columbia has shown any real strength this season and should prove easy for the Blue and the Tigers. The standing in the league follows:

SWIMMING.

Yale	2	0	1.000	C. C. N. Y.	1	3	.250
Pennsylvania	2	1	.667

WATER POLO.

Yale	2	0	1.000	Pennsylvania	1	2	.333
Princeton	2	0	1.000	C. C. N. Y.	0	4	.000

Nerich and Goodwin to Swim.

Indications point to the Sportsmen's Show at Madison Square Garden excelling in competition any similar events staged in the Garden for some time. The water sports carnival, with the best swimmers of this section entered, and the trapshooting tournament promises to furnish interesting competition. The five-hundred-yard Metropolitan championship swim, which will be staged next Saturday night, will give the water followers the first chance to see all of the distance men in action this season. Of the men entered Nerich and Goodwin lead, but several of the faster lesser lights have chances with the veterans.

KEEP YOUR CAR

The White Company's Solution of the Annual Trading Problem

Too many cars sold today are built to be traded; to last but one or two years; of ordinary materials; of extreme design; and, therefore, quickly useless and out of style. The second-hand market is flooded with such cars, and their value is next to nothing.

There Are Practically No White Cars on the Second-Hand Market

Look through the classified lists of any newspaper. Note the scarcity of Whites in the column after column of cars advertised for sale. Think what this means.

And the most essential points of motor truck superiority—the features which have given White the supremacy among all motor trucks, both in quantity and value of production—are durability and continued economy of operation.

White bodies are built, like White chasses, to last for years, and are not designed to make the owner feel obliged, for mere appearance sake, to purchase a new car every year.

Extreme styles in motor cars are due more to the desire on the part of the manufacturer to force an immediate market rather than to sell cars which will give definite satisfaction for years to come.

So thoroughly does the public believe in the superior wearing qualities and continued economy of operation of White Cars, that every White Dealer has a waiting list for used White Cars which he cannot supply.

The White Company, as far as White Cars are concerned, has no second-hand problem.

And because the demand for used White Cars so far exceeds the supply, White Owners are continually importuned to trade their cars for other makes, because dealers know that used Whites can be sold immediately for the highest cash price.

But White Owners rarely trade. They know that their old Whites are better today, more economical to operate, and will be worth more next year and in years to come than the new cars offered in exchange.

TRUCKS WILL MARK NEWARK AUTO SHOW

The third automobile show of the season in this vicinity will open in the First Regiment Armory in Newark on Saturday night. Following by more than a month the two exhibitions which were held in New York early in January, the Newark show will be distinct from them in character. It will include many types of commercial vehicles, motor trucks and delivery wagons, in addition to the passenger cars. More than 250 machines have been entered, and they will range in size from the little cycle car to the six-ton truck. The exhibition will be opened on Saturday evening by Job H. Lippincott, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner of New Jersey.

⁂

At the monthly meeting of the Motor Truck Club of America, which is to be held at the Automobile Club of America on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, Logan Waller Page, Director of the United States Office of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture, will speak on the subject of highways, their construction and destruction, and will relate the work of his department during the last ten years. If the programme which the club has planned can be carried out in full, speeches will also be made by Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate; H. W. Perry, Secretary of the Commercial Vehicle Committee of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce; John N. Carlisle, Highway Commissioner of New York State, and A. R. Partington, Vice President of the Lincoln Highway Association. All persons interested in highways and transportation are invited to attend the meeting.

⁂

Cycle cars appear to be taking hold in the American market and also in the export trade with a vim. One company which makes these little vehicles reports the closing of a contract with agents in California and Western Nevada for 2,500 cars. Agencies have also been established by the same company in Port of Spain, Trinidad, St. Petersburg and Delft, while a London firm has agreed to take 10,000 cycle cars to be delivered at the rate of 1,000 a year.

⁂

Several announcements of interest to "Automobile Row" were made last week. The Willys-Overland Company of Toledo, Ohio, makers of Overland pleasure and delivery cars, has established a branch factory in Hamilton, Ont., where cars for distribution throughout Canada and in several of the British Colonies will be assembled. The Benz factory at Mannheim, Germany, has just concluded new arrangements for the handling of its motor cars in the United States. The Benz Automobile Sales Company has been forced to take over the agency and handle both the pleasure cars of this make and Gaggenau trucks. Among the officers of the new company are Russel L. Engs and Paul V. Clodio. For the time being the headquarters of the concern will be at the address of the present agency, 250 West Fifty-fourth Street. Messrs. Engs and Clodio are also to handle a new hydraulic shock absorber, the Houdaille, which is based on the principle of the recoil absorber of certain types of cannon, oils or glycerine being forced through adjustable jets. E. S. Cameron has entered the cycle car field and announces a new car, the Euclid, which is to be manufactured by the Euclid Motor Car Company, with temporary offices at 80 Broad Street, and a factory at West Haven, Conn. The car will sell at less than $400 and have 96-inch wheel base, 40-inch tread, a wooden frame and four-cylinder motor.

Ski Exhibition at Central Park.

An exhibition of skiing was witnessed by a good sized crowd at Central Park yyesterday morning when Dr. Leo Roth, an ardent devotee of the sport, tried out his skis on a long slope near the entrance at Fifth Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street. Dr. Roth showed much experience with the skis, but the snow was not deep enough for an exhibition such as he had planned. Most of his work consisted in gliding. He was accompanied by two friends, and the trio attracted considerable attention from the crowds which had gathered to see the yyoungsters slide. Dr. Roth learned the game in Europe, and since coming here he has taken advantage of every fall of snow sufficiently large to allow for the sport.

COFFEY TO BOX ROSS.

Heavyweights Hold First Place on This Week's Leading Card.

The all-star show of three ten-round bouts at the Empire A. C., 107th Street and Lexington Avenue, holds first place on the boxing programme of the coming week at New York clubs. The Garden A. C. will not put on any bouts during the week, the National Sporting Club will also be closed and the Fairmont A. C. will stage only its week-end show. All the other clubs will be busy and the bill contains many bouts that will attract considerable local attention.

Jim Coffey of Dublin and Tony Ross will be the headliners at the Empire A. C. show. The heavyweights are evenly matched, and the bout will furnish much interest for followers of the boxing sport. In the ten-round semi-final Sammy Robideau of Philadelphia will oppose One-Round Hogan. The opening ten-round bout will bring together Phil Cross and Johnny Harvey.

The Irving A. C. of Brooklyn will put on another all-star show at its clubhouse to-morrow night, featuring with a ten-round bout between Willie Beecher of the east side and Jimmy Coffey of Harlem. In the ten-round semi-final the contestants will be Mike Glover of Boston and Italian Joe Gans of Brooklyn.

The card arranged by the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn shows Jack Britton and Young Brown in a return bout as the feature number, and Gene Moriarty of Syracuse vs. Packey Hommey in the ten-round semi-final.

The Olympic A. C. of Harlem will put on its regular weekly show of three ten-round bouts to-night. Billy Meyers of Harlem and Willie Brown will come together in the main event. The other bouts will show Willie Sanders vs. Frank Lippey, and Maxey London vs. the Corona Kid.

The Postman A. C. of Brooklyn, which has been closed for the past two months, will reopen Thursday night with an all-star show, bringing together Joe Bedell vs. Fighting Joe Hyland, Young O'Leary vs. Frankie Hufnagle, and Young Limbo vs. Young McGowan.

At the Atlantic Garden A. C. to-morrow night the usual weekly show will be put on, with Bert Reid and Willie Catton as the headliners. Johnny Schumacker and Billy Cassidy will be the principals in Friday night's show at the New Polo A. C. The East New York A. C. will also hold a show Friday night.

The usual week-end shows will be held at the Fairmont, Sharkey and Atlantic Garden clubs of New York, the Irving, Gowanus, Vanderbilt, National, Dexter Park and Broadway Sporting clubs of Brooklyn, the Queensboro A. C. of Long Island City and the West Brighton A. C. of Staten Island.

CLOSE FIGHT IN HOCKEY.

Defeat of Leaders May Result in a Four-Team Struggle.

The unexpected defeat of the two leaders in the Amateur Hockey League championship changed the situation materially, and from what looked to be a runaway race by the St. Nicholas team, the situation has broadened into a four-team struggle, in which the Crescents, Hockey Club and Irish-American teams are so close that only a victory or two is needed by either one of them to slip into the front line. To-morrow night the Wanderers and the Hockey Club play at the St. Nicholas Rink.

On Friday night the Irish-Americans and St. Nicholas teams will meet in a struggle which will either give the St. Nicks a commanding lead or create a tie between the four leaders.

The big hockey affair of the week will be the play-off of the game between Harvard and Princeton for the intercollegiate championship. This game will be played at the St. Nicholas Rink on Saturday night. The Crimson players were surprised at the result of the game on Saturday night. They thought a victory for Harvard was a foregone conclusion, and with Hobey Baker eliminated it probably would have been, but the brilliancy of the latter's work was not foreshadowed, and before Coach Winsor took his players back to Cambridge yesterday he said that some system of play would be devised between now and next Saturday to curtail Baker's activities. The standing of the clubs:

	W.	L.	P.C.		W.	L.	P.C.

Fordham's Baseball Schedule.

The baseball management at Fordham University has completed the schedule and the selection of coaches for the Maroon nine. Candidates for the team wil report for practice in the cage to-day. Coaches Coffey and Robertson and Capt. Walsh will supervise the practice periods. Robertson, who was once signed to play with the Chicago Cubs, has been chosen as permanent coach this season, as Coffey will leave Fordham in the latter part of March to manage the Denver team of the Western League. The schedule:

March 28, Brooklyn College at Fordham; April 1, Columbia at Fordham; 4, Lafayette at Fordham; 7, Cornell at Fordham; 9, Williams at Fordham; 13, Catholic University at Washington, D. C.; 14, Georgetown at Washington, D. C.; 18, Columbia at South Field; 20, Tufts at Fordham; 22, Princeton at Princeton, N. J.; 25, Middlebury at Fordham; 29, Ursinus at Fordham; May 1, Bucknell at Fordham; 2, Colgate at Fordham; 6, Seton Hall at Fordham; 9, Holy Cross at Fordham; 11, Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y.; 12, Harvard at Cambridge, Mass.; 13, St. Bonaventure at Fordham; 16, Army at West Point; 20, Villa Nova at Fordham; 21, Catholic University at Fordham; 23, Holy Cross at Worcester, Mass.; 27, Seventh Regiment at Fordham; 28, Vermont at Fordham; 30, Georgetown at Fordham.

Mathiesen Three Skating Titles.

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 15.—Oscar Mathiesen, the Norwegian champion, won the skating championship of the world at the international meeting held at Frogner, near Christiania, yesterday and to-day. Mathiesen captured the 500 metres in 47 7-10 seconds; the 1,500 metres in 2 minutes 26 1-10 seconds, and the 5,000 metres in 9 minutes 20 3-5 seconds. The Russian, Ippolitow, won the 10,000 metres in 18 minutes 47 3-5 seconds. Owing to the unfavorable conditions, no new records were established. The King was among the spectators.

Final Round for Jenkins Cup.

The final games in the 18.2 balk-line tournament for the Jenkins Cup will be played this week at Doyle's Forty-second Street Academy. There are three survivors, Olando and Avery, who have each won four and lost none, and Levy, who has three victories and one defeat. To-night Olando will play Levy.

FEBRUARY 22d

NOTICE:

Colonel Joseph Ball was one of the early Virginia colonists. Two hundred years ago his daughter Mary was eight years of age. In later years she was described as "a beautiful woman of simple address, great decision and uncommon strength of mind." When Mary was 24 years of age she was married to Augustine Washington, also of Virginia. They had seven children, of whom the eldest was George, the first President of the United States. Mary Ball Washington died in 1789, at the age of 83 years, and was buried at Fredericksburg, Va.

The Mother of Washington
(MARY BALL WASHINGTON)

Should interest every American boy and girl. There was no photography in those days and the only known portrait of Mary Ball Washington is an excellent oil painting by an able artist, possibly a French portrait painter. This portrait has been carefully protected for more than a century and is owned to-day by a member of the Washington family. It represents Mrs. Washington in middle life and bears a striking resemblance to her illustrious son. Few knew that this portrait was in existence.

The New York Times secured the right to reproduce this portrait in full color for its readers. The copies have been made and they represent the best work of modern engraving art; showing all the delicate coloring as well as the "age" quality of the original oil painting. No other known copies of this portrait have ever been made.

Every school room in the country should have this portrait on the wall. It is a suitable portrait for your boy's room or your girl's room or to hang in your library or hall. The portrait will reach you unfolded. The size is 10¾ inches by 14¾ inches.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION IN AMERICA AND EUROPE

The high bids submitted for the $6,000,000 issue of Massachusetts State 4 per cent. bonds and the large demand which appeared for participation in the underwriting of the proposed Southern Pacific $55,000,000 convertible bond issue were among the indications which were afforded last week of a continuance of a healthy and active demand for investment securities. The general bond market showed some lull, but there was very little recession in quotations and much eagerness was still shown for high-grade issues. At the same time the money market appeared to have reached a stage at which any further sharp recession in rates was not reasonably to be expected, and it was, therefore, believed that the bond market would lack the very unusual stimulus which was received during the first month of this year from the rapid and world-wide decline in interest rates. It still promises, however, a well-sustained though quieter inquiry for investments, which will favor the large amount of refinancing which still remains to be done. So far as the stock market is concerned, last week was given over for the most part to reaction, but taking the list as a whole it showed considerable underlying firmness, and such losses as were recorded in the general level of prices were relatively small when viewed in the light of the brisk advances which lasted throughout the month of January.

So much that is favorable has already come about since the turn of the year that there is danger that too much may be expected of the immediate future. It is well in this connection to take count of such facts as the decrease which was shown last week in bank clearings after several weeks of increases, lest later on disappointment should be felt not because the general movement had been unfavorable but because too much had been expected in respect to the rapidity of recovery from the adverse conditions which prevailed in trade at the end of last year. After making such necessary allowances there is ground for very real satisfaction in the showing which was made in statistics from two important trades last week. The monthly Copper Producers' statement showed a very marked increase in the deliveries of copper, the most significant item being the large gain as compared with December which was made in the domestic deliveries of the metal in January. A similarly satisfactory story was told in the monthly report of unfilled orders issued by the United States Steel Corporation, which showed an increase of over 330,000 tons, the first increase reported for any month since December, 1912. But that increase in itself did not reflect the full extent of the improvement which has come about in the steel trade since the first of the year.

Authoritative trade reports were to the effect that the daily average of incoming orders as well as the rate of output of the steel mills was larger during the first ten days of February than at any time during January. This indicated progressive improvement, which, taken into conjunction with the advances in the prices of steel products which have recently been made, suggests healthy progress in this most important industry. Early last year the course of the iron market began to foreshadow the industrial developments of the later months of the year, again proving the accuracy of the steel trade as a barometer of general trade conditions. It would be difficult now to assign any reason why the course of the steel trade since the beginning of this year should not be accepted as an equally accurate indication of the general trend of trade. If it may so be accepted there will gradually be realized a very large share of the hopes upon which a good deal of the stock market improvement of recent weeks was based.

Changes in the money position were less noteworthy than during the earlier weeks of the year, when a rapid decline from the rates prevailing last December was in progress, but evidence of the new ease which has come about was presented in many quarters. The European bank statements were favorable, the increase in the gold holdings of the Bank of France being particularly worthy of note because of the part which this market has played in contributing to the reserves of the French institutions. We sent out another $2,000,000 last week at a time when sterling exchange was much closer to figures suggesting gold imports from London than exports to France. The decline in sterling exchange, not only here but at other financial centres, has followed the remarkable change in the London money position, where discounts have gone as low as 1¾ per cent. and where the reserves of the Bank of England have been mountnig to figures paralleled at this season only in past years of extraordinary plenty. But our market, at least, is in no need of increasing its gold supply, since our own reserves have lately become superabundant.

The returns of the national banks under the call of Jan. 13, the compilation of which was published by the Controller of the Currency last week, reflected the country-wide application of the influences which have been finding an echo in the changes which have come about in the New York bank position since the close of last year. Compared with the figures of Oct. 21, 1913, the Jan. 13 return showed a contraction of over $85,000,000 in loans, accompanied by an increase of over $92,000,000 in cash. No part of that cash increase was due to fluctuation in the Government's deposits in the national banks, for, as a matter of fact, those deposits were $10,000,000 larger on Oct. 21 than they were on Jan. 13, on which later date they amounted to $79,845,000. There was, however, during the interval between these reports a decrease of about $7,000,000 in the cash held in the Treasury, which contributed that much to the increased supply of cash from which the national banks drew their large gain. The greatest part of this gain came, apparently, from circulation, a natural movement during the later weeks of the interval between these two reports.

The very fact that the banks have added so largely to their cash holdings serves to emphasize the ease with which they could at the present time return to the Treasury the balance of the special deposits which were made with them last Fall for the purpose of stimulating the movement of the crop. The latest daily Treasury statement at hand shows that there has been a decrease of $22,000,000 in the Government's deposits in the national banks since they reached their maximum in November. If all of this decrease is to be entered against the special deposits made under the terms of the Treasury circular of Aug. 18 last, there still remains outstanding about $12,000,000 of those deposits. This much, and even more, could readily be turned back to the Government at this time without imposing any hardship on the money market. If the presence of this unneeded cash in the banks is to be made the excuse for further shipments of gold abroad at a time when, as a matter of fact, the exchanges are running in favor of this market, there would be supplied an additional reason for taking this cash back into the Treasury without further delay.

Gold which flows out naturally need not be begrudged, certainly not under conditions of ease such as prevail at this time, but the operations of the Treasury should of course not give artificial stimulus to a gold-export movement. We have in this matter to consider future needs, including those which will arise under the change which we are now in the process of making in our banking system. It is desirable, of course, that matters should be so handled as to leave at the disposal of our banks an abundant supply of the best of all bank reserves, namely, gold. It is not desirable that any stimulus should be given to an outward gold movement which later might cause lower forms of reserves to be used instead of gold to a greater extent than need be. Clearly, the desire and the tendency are in the opposite direction. This is shown by the proposed changes in the banking law in this State regarding the composition of State bank reserves and in the decision of the committee which has the revision of these laws in charge to exclude the new Federal reserve notes from the kinds of money available for bank reserves in this State.

LITTLE BUSINESS IN PARIS.

Market, Declining Throughout the Week, Improves at Closing.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The hopes of a week ago, when dealers on the Bourse looked forward to a general revival of activity, were disappointed at the opening on Monday, which was characterized by a general relapse, Rio Tintos being the only security to rise, finishing 12 up on the day. The tendency improved a trifle on Tuesday, but the volume of business left much to be desired. Rentes relapsed, pending the issue of the debate in the Chamber of Deputies on the Government's financial policy. Contrary to expectations, on the publication of the American copper statistics, which showed a heavy decrease in business, Rios took a sudden spurt, but closed below the previous day's quotations.

In midweek business went from bad to worse, all signs of cheerfulness giving way to discouragement, despite the fact that there were practically no clouds on the foreign political horizon or fears of economic troubles. It is evident that the investing public applies directly for stocks, shares, and bonds in the big issues of foreign and colonial loans and is less and less inclined to speculate on the Stock Exchange; consequently, the Bourse is mainly kept going by professional dealers, and as clients decrease business declines.

Although the mournful note continued over Thursday, the shadow of the approaching settlement obscuring every attempt to impart cheer to the market, rentes improved a trifle. Rio Tintos had a nasty slump, on reports of difficulties in the Huelva mines, closing the day 12 down. Mexicans declined a trifle.

The end of the week showed a recovery from the depression, although the volume of business was still small. Operators were stimulated by the cheerfulness of the London market, and Rio Tintos gained 13 points and rentes a quarter of a point. The latter were favorably affected by the Senate's opposition to the Government's income tax proposals, there being some speculation as to the fall of the Ministry.

BERLIN SURE OF GOOD TIMES.

Market's Strength Confirms Optimism—Good Industrial Outlook.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The opinion, which has prevailed for some time, that the Boerse has entered upon a new period of steadiness and prosperity was confirmed by conditions during last week.

The market was firm throughout the list, resisting easily several adverse influences from abroad. The investing public continues to be a generous buyer, though there was a slight cessation of its activities in the week.

The outlook in the industrial world strengthens the general feeling. New combinations are pending in the steel and iron trade, and banks and other concerns are preparing to extend in various directions.

The national satisfaction over the avoidance of an internecine German shipping war is tempered only by the fear that the sharp measures taken by Austria to restrict emigration will seriously affect the German companies' main source of revenue.

Banking issues were especially active on advancing prices.

LONDON LOOKS FOR A BOOM.

Hopes That Cheap Money Will Take Prices to Higher Levels.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The stock markets have shown the usual indications of an incipient boom, at least in the section which at present monopolizes attention, namely, home investments. There was the customary relapse after the first advance had spent itself, and then a renewed upward turn.

Two factors militated against the markets. In the first place, the Ulster question checked speculation. Although cheap money caused a leveling up of prices, few outside the ranks of professional dealers cared to run risks. Another factor is the French situation, which has undoubtedly improved a good deal in recent weeks; but Paris is still very cautious; loans are held up and money is kept in hand.

The older and more experienced observers express the opinion that the stock markets are on the eve of a development that will have far-reaching importance. This opinion is based upon the belief that cheap money will revolutionize the yield on high-class securities and, provided peace remains unbroken, bring back quotations to something like the level which was attained before the Boer, Russo-Japanese, and Balkan wars opened a period of depreciation.

WANT SIEGEL TO EXPLAIN.

Depositors' Committee to Ask Simplified Statement of Settlement Offer

The Committee of Ten, representing depositors of the banking firm of Henry Siegel & Co., headed by J. P. Munch, was in conference all day yesterday at the University Settlement House, 184 Eldridge Street.

The committee decided to ask its counsel, Coudert Brothers, to obtain a simplified statement of the settlement that Mr. Siegel and Mr. Vogel proposed to make. It also will endeavor to find out to what ends the Protective Committee, headed by E. W. Bloomingdale, is working, as well as by what authority that committee was appointed. The depositors will have meetings on Wednesday and Thursday.

New York, N. Y., February 10, 1914.

To the Stockholders of the SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY:

Pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Directors, adopted February 5, 1914, but subject to the increase of the authorized capital stock of the Company by the stockholders at the special meeting which has been called to convene April 8, 1914, or at any adjournment thereof, and subject also to the timely completion of such further corporate or other proceedings as the Company may deem advisable, the privilege will be given to the holders of the stock of the Company to subscribe, at par, with an adjustment of accrued interest, upon the terms and conditions hereinafter stated, on or before April 22, 1914, for an amount of the Convertible Bonds hereinafter described, equal to twenty per cent. (20%) of their respective holdings of the stock of the Company as registered on its books at 3 o'clock P. M., March 9, 1914. The bonds referred to will be Five Per Cent. Twenty-Year Convertible Gold Bonds of an authorized issue not exceeding $55,000,000. The bonds will be convertible (except as hereinafter provided) at the option of the holder at any time after issue and on or before June 1, 1924, into paid-up shares of the Common Stock of the Company at $100 per share, with an adjustment of accrued interest and current dividend. The entire issue, but not a part thereof, may be called for redemption by the Company on June 1, 1919, or on any semi-annual interest day thereafter, on ninety days' notice, at 105 per cent. of the face value thereof and accrued interest, but if so called during the conversion period, the bonds may be converted up to thirty days prior to the redemption date named in any such notice.

The bonds will be payable on June 1, 1934, and will bear interest from June 1, 1914, at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on June 1st and December 1st. Both principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of the United States of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any ~~tax or~~ taxes (other than Federal Income Tax) which the Company may be required to pay thereon or to retain therefrom under any present or future law of the United States of America, or of any State, county or municipality therein. They will be issued as coupon bonds in denominations of $500 and of $1,000, with the privilege of registration as to principal and exchangeable for registered bonds without coupons, each for the principal sum of $500 or any multiple thereof that may be authorized by the Board of Directors. The registered bonds will be exchangeable for coupon bonds.

Warrants signed by the Treasurer or an Assistant Treasurer will be issued to each stockholder as soon as possible after the closing of the books on March 9, 1914, specifying the amount of bonds in respect of which the stockholder is entitled to a subscription privilege. Warrants entitling the holder to subscribe as hereinafter stated will be issued only for amounts of $500 or multiples thereof. For each fraction of a $500 bond in respect of which a holder is entitled to a subscription privilege, a fractional warrant will be issued. After April 18, 1914, all fractional warrants will be void and of no effect. No subscription may be made on a fractional warrant, but if surrendered on or before April 18, 1914, to the Treasurer, with other fractional warrants aggregating in amount at least $500, a subscription warrant for a $500 bond will be issued in exchange, and if the surrendered fractional warrants include a fraction in excess of $500, a new fractional warrant will be issued for such fraction. Fractional warrants desired by stockholders to complete full bonds, or fractional warrants which the stockholders desire to dispose of, must be bought or sold in the market, as the Company will not sell or purchase such fractions.

On the back of these warrants will be two forms. In case it is desired to subscribe, the first form is to be filled out and signed by the stockholders or by their assigns; but, in case it is desired to dispose of the subscription privilege, the second form, which is an assignment, is to be filled out and signed by the stockholders.

Where a warrant authorizes a subscription to two or more bonds, stockholders who may wish to subscribe for a portion of the bonds covered by the warrant and dispose of the balance, or who may wish to dispose of a portion of the bonds covered by a warrant to one person and the balance to another, should return their warrants to this office on or before April 18, 1914, to be exchanged for other warrants, specifying in writing the number of warrants desired in exchange and the number of bonds to be covered by each. In no case, however, on such exchange will a fractional warrant be issued.

At the time of making subscription on or before April 22, 1914	$333.32
On or before June 1, 1914	333.32
On or before July 10, 1914	333.36

Subscriptions may be paid in full at the time of making the subscriptions on or before April 22, 1914, in which case the amount payable will be $994.58 per $1,000 bond, which includes adjustment of accrued interest; or, after the payment of the first instalment on or before April 22, 1914, as above provided, the remainder of the subscription may be paid in full on or before June 1, 1914, by paying $664.88 per $1,000 bond, which includes adjustment of accrued interest.

The price of subscription to each $500 bond will be one-half of the price of subscription to the $1,000 bond and will be payable in the same manner.

The warrants must be returned to this office by the stockholders, or by the persons to whom assigned, on or before April 22, 1914, accompanied by the payment of the first instalment or the full amount payable; and all warrants not so returned, with such payment, on or before said date, shall be void and of no value.

Failure to pay the second or third instalment when and as payable will operate as a forfeiture of all rights in respect of the subscription and the instalments previously paid.

The Treasurer will, on surrender of the warrants and payment of the first instalment, issue receipts, which shall be transferable by delivery merely, and which, unless previously paid in full, must be returned on or before June 1, 1914, accompanied by the payment of the second instalment, or, at the option of the holder, accompanied by the payment of the full amount remaining payable, for endorsement thereon, as the case may be, of the payment of the second instalment, or of the payment of the full amount remaining payable; and such receipts, unless previously paid in full, must again be returned on or before July 10, 1914, accompanied by the payment of the third instalment.

Full paid receipts for bonds will be exchangeable for the engraved bonds as soon as the latter are ready for delivery.

No subscription or assignment of this privilege will be recognized unless made on the forms of the Company.

No holder of stock of the Company shall be entitled to any of the above-mentioned bonds, unless the terms of subscription herein specified are fully complied with.

The subscription and respective instalment payments must be made at the dates and in accordance with the provisions stated above. Checks or drafts in payment of subscriptions must be drawn in favor of Southern Pacific Company, in New York funds, and for the exact amounts covering the respective instalments.

By order of the Board of Directors,

A. K. VAN DEVENTER, Treasurer.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The severe storm of Saturday in New England and the Middle Atlantic States has passed off to sea. A depression over the upper Missouri Valley Saturday morning has moved rapidly to Northern Indiana and is being closely followed by a moderate area of high pressure.

Light snow is indicated for Monday in the lower lake region, and thence eastward to the Canadian maritime provinces, probably extending southward to include the Middle Atlantic States.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

3 A. M.	29	16	4 P. M.	48	23
6 A. M.	27	15	6 P. M.	39	18
9 A. M.	32	16	9 P. M.	37	15
12 M.	42	20	11 P. M.	36	13

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 15; for the corresponding date last year it was 38; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 30.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 14; at 8 P. M. it was 17; maximum temperature, 23 degrees, at 3 P. M.; minimum, 13 degrees, at 7 A. M.; humidity, 51 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 37 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.05 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.09 inches.

Beer Mats Are Not "Printed Matter"—Blanket Duty Is Lowered.

Beer mats made of pulp are not to be regarded as "printed matter," according to a decision of the Board of United States General Appraisers. The mats in question were imported at St. Louis by Wilfred Schade & Co., and were returned for duty by the Surveyor at the rate of 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 447, Tariff act of 1909. The importers said that duty should be levied at 25 per cent. under the provision of the law regarding printed matter, on the ground that on the mats was printed matter in the form of an advertisement.

It was decided that colored cotton blankets, not hemmed or whipped, imported by Oscar Hofmann, New York, were not to be regarded as "manufactures of cotton," as that term is used in the old law. The Collector returned the goods under that provision and exacted duty at 45 per cent. ad valorem. The blankets are admitted as properly dutiable as countable cotton cloth at the appropriate rate according to count of threads, value, &c.

A decision of Collector Malone was reversed as to duty on hatpins with various kinds of tops. Classification was made as jewelry at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem under the old law. The goods, it was asserted, were dutiable at 45 per cent. as manufactures of paste. The successful importers included Mills & Gibb, A. D. Matthew's Sons, and Morris Goldberg, New York.

PRINCETON HAS GIANT PIG.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 15.—The pig to-day is not what it used to be. Evidence of this fact is shown in the exhibition at Princeton of a giant pig, whose real name, Archaeotherium ingens, no one except a geologist uses in ordinary conversation. It belongs, according to the explanation of Prof. William B. Scott, to an extinct group of animals, the entelodonts, ("complete tooth," in allusion to the presence of the full number of teeth,) which lived in the Western States during the Oligocene and Miocene periods, some hundreds of thousands of years ago, according to the most probable estimates.

This particular specimen was dug out of the South Dakota "badlands," and since it has been mounted presents the almost complete skeleton of the extinct animal. It is not like the contemporaneous type of pig. The entelodonts differ in a number of respects in structure, some of the most apparent being the great flaps projecting downward from the cheek bones, the protuberances on the under margin of the lower jaw, and the presence of two toes on each foot.

The skeleton as mounted for exhibition in the Guyot Hall Museum stands on a base seven feet five inches long, and is about four feet seven inches high at the shoulder. There is only one other similar specimen, that exhibited in the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh, and it is of a considerably younger formation.

S. B. Van Duser Assigns.

LYONS, N. Y., Feb. 15.—S. B. Van Duser of Newark, N. Y., drygoods merchant, filed a general assignment to Burke, Fitzsimmons, Hone & Co. of Rochester. The liabilities are placed at $30,000; assets $25,000. Rochester firms are the principal creditors.

Driven from Their Home by Fire.

A fire which started yesterday morning in the basement of the four-story brown stone house at 47 West Seventy-fourth Street, drove the owner of the house, William H. Page, a lawyer, and his wife, three sons and two servants to the street. The fire was confined to the basement and did little damage.

JEWELRY SETTLEMENTS.

The Manufacturing Jewelers' Board of Trade is now distributing to its creditor members dividends in the following cases: A. L. Block, trading as L. Block Jewelry Company, Seattle, Wash., first dividend, 5 per cent.; Harris Brothers Jewelry Company, New York City, first dividend, 4 per cent.; W. G. Ingham, Pittsburgh, Penn., final bankruptcy dividend, 24 per cent.; M. Goldstein & Co., Pittsburgh, Penn., final similar dividend, 9 per cent.; H. G. Pattee, Ft. Columbus, Col., 40 per cent. dividend, and L. Bauman Jewelry Company, St. Louis, fourth dividend, 5 per cent.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Wolk & Co., retail jewelers of 208 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh. The liabilities are estimated at $11,000, and the assets at $5,000.

Creditors of H. F. Hahn & Co. of Chicago are being asked to sign an agreement to take the firm's affairs out of the Bankruptcy Court and place them in the hands of a creditors' committee. This followed a meeting at which creditors representing $300,000 in claims were present.

The Moyer & Talbot Company of Los Angeles, Cal., are asking creditors having claims of more than $1,000 to grant them an extension from July, 1914, to December, 1915, with payments of 5 per cent. monthly until next January, and 10 per cent. per month thereafter. A statement made to the creditors shows assets of $291,362 and total liabilities of $154,941.

LEGAL NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—SIEGEL STORES CORPORATION, Complainant, vs. SIMPSON CRAWFORD COMPANY, THE 14TH STREET STORE, HENRY SIEGEL COMPANY, MERCHANTS' EXPRESS COMPANY, HENRY SIEGEL, and FRANK E. VOGEL, individually and as copartners doing business under the firm name of HENRY SIEGEL & COMPANY, BANKERS, and individually and as copartners doing business under the firm name of HENRY SIEGEL & COMPANY, WHOLESALE, Defendants.

On reading and filing the annexed petition of Henry Melville, receiver of Henry Siegel & Company, Bankers, and of William A. Marble and John S. Sheppard, Jr., receivers of all the other defendants above named, it is ORDERED that a public hearing be held in the Convention Hall of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building, 233 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on Thursday, February 19, 1914, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, before Hon. George C. Holt, who is hereby appointed Special Master to hold said hearing and report to the court with his recommendations; and it is further

ORDERED, That all parties hereto and each and every creditor and stockholder of all the parties defendant be, and they hereby are ordered to show cause at said hearing why an order or orders should not be made directing the sale or other disposition of all or any part of the assets of any or all of the defendants herein and or authorizing and directing the receivers to compromise, adjust, or make other disposition of any claims by any defendant against any other defendant, or of any claim of any party or creditor against any defendant, and further to show cause why the court should not make such order in relation to the properties and affairs of any or all of the parties defendant herein and or for the discontinuance or further continuance of the business of any of the corporate defendants by the receivers and any order which to the court shall appear proper, just, and equitable to be made in this action; and further

ORDERED, That the receivers of the defendants shall make reports at said hearing of the assets and affairs of the several defendants, which reports will be received and considered by the court for such action as may be deemed proper, just, and equitable; and further ORDERED, That at said hearing any person may attend and submit bids for the purchase of the properties and assets of all or any of the defendants. Bids may be made for the purchase of the properties of the defendants by the payment to creditors of a percentage of their claims or of different percentages to various classes of creditors of some or all of the defendants, or by the payment to creditors partly in the securities of a corporation or corporations organized to acquire the assets and business of all or any defendant, or may be for the purchase thereof for cash or on credit or on any terms and in any form that any bidder may desire to submit.

The said hearing may be adjourned to such time and place as the court or the Special Master may direct.

Notice of said hearing shall be given to creditors and stockholders of the defendants and to the public generally by publication of a copy of this order at least twice before February 17, 1914, in each of the following newspapers, to wit:

New York Herald,
New York Times,
Daily Trade Record,
New York World,
New York American,
Boston Transcript,
Boston Globe,

together with such additional publication and the publication of such additional matter as the receivers may consider advisable. And it appearing that the creditors number over twenty thousand and that various classes of creditors have formed representative committees, personal service, or service by mail of notice of said hearing is hereby dispensed with and the publication of this order as herein provided, shall constitute due, timely, and complete notice to all parties herein and to all creditors and stockholders of all of the parties herein and to all bidders and to the public of the time, place, and purpose of said hearing and of said order.

Dated New York, February 9, 1914.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT Court for the Southern District of New York.—THE EASTERN STEEL COMPANY vs. GODAIR-WIMMER BUILDING COMPANY et al.—In Equity.—10-69.

By virtue of a decree entered in the above-entitled action on the 2d day of January, 1914, the undersigned receiver in the above-entitled action will offer for sale and sell at public auction at the office of the Godair-Wimmer Building Company, in the Heidelberg Building, at 42d Street and Broadway, in the City of New York, on the 11th day of March, 1914, at the hour of eleven (11) o'clock in the forenoon, the following property, namely:

2,000 shares of the Capital Stock of the Godair-Wimmer Building Company of the par value of $100.00 each share, the same being the entire capital stock of the said Godair-Wimmer Building Company; also

$200,000.00 par value of the 5% Mortgage Bonds of the said Godair-Wimmer Building Company, due on the 1st day of June, 1917, the same being the entire issue of the bonds of the said company.

The said Godair-Wimmer Building Company has been decreed in the above-entitled action to be the owner of the leasehold of that certain real estate located at the junction of 7th Avenue, 42d Street and Broadway, in the City, County and State of New York, said real estate comprising a frontage of 86 feet 2½ inches on 42d Street; 49 feet 4½ inches on 7th Avenue, and 51 feet 3 inches on Broadway, together with the building thereon situated, known as the Heidelberg Tower Building; the said leasehold being for a term of 21 years from the 1st day of May, 1909, with the privilege of three (3) renewals of 21 years each.

The purchaser of the above-described stock and bonds will thereby acquire the entire leasehold interest of said Godair-Wimmer Building Company in said premises, and the building thereon situated.

Terms of Sale: Each bidder will be required to deposit with the undersigned receiver a certified check for $5,000.00 or other satisfactory security as evidence of the good faith of his bid, and as a guaranty that if the property is struck off to him he will complete the purchase.

Terms of Payment: The purchaser must pay 1-3 of the purchase price in cash, on confirmation of sale by the Court; 1-3 in 6 months, and 1-3 in 12 months, with interest on the deferred payments at the rate of 6% per annum, such deferred payments to be secured in a manner satisfactory to the receiver, or the purchaser may pay the entire price in cash.

Full particulars regarding the said stock, bonds, and the leasehold, and plans and particulars of the building thereon hereinbefore referred to, may be obtained at the office of the receiver or his counsel, by persons interested, at any time prior to the date of the sale.

Said sale will be made subject to confirmation and approval of the Court.

Take notice that, pursuant to an order duly entered in this court on the 10th day of February, 1914, the undersigned, receiver of the estate of the above-named alleged bankrupt, offers for sale the property described below, and will receive sealed bids therefor at his office, No. 261 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before Monday, the 16th day of February, 1914, at four o'clock in the afternoon, at which time and place said bids are to be opened by the receiver, and creditors may attend and pass thereon. Separate bids or a combined bid may be made for any one or more of the parcels of property below set forth, and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for ten per cent. of the amount thereof, the balance of the purchase price to be paid to the receiver within two days. The receiver reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and the sale will be made subject to the approval of the court.

1. All the right, title, and interest of the receiver and of the bankrupt in and to the unexpired term of a certain lease of the restaurant and hotel known as Henkel's, located at No. 58 West 36th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, subject to all arrears of rent, taxes, water rates, and any and all charges now due or which may become due under the provisions of said lease, including the charges against the receiver, if any, for the period during which said premises were occupied by him.

2. All the right, title, and interest of the receiver and of the bankrupt in and to the furniture, fixtures, furnishings, utensils, chinaware, linens, silverware, and all the contents of the restaurant and hotel before mentioned.

3. The entire stock of wines, liquors, groceries, cigars, food supplies, &c., &c.

4. The good will of the business, with any right, title, and interest of the receiver in and to the use of the name "Henkel's."

SPECIAL NOTICE.

If the bids at private sale are rejected, any of the property which remains unsold will be offered for sale at public auction by United States Auctioneer Shongood on Thursday, February 19th, 1914, at the premises formerly occupied by the alleged bankrupt, No. 58 West 36th Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, at 10:30 o'clock A. M., in which case an additional notice of sale will be published in this paper on said day.

NEPONSIT

The Beach Is Your Own

wherever you locate at Neponsit, New York City; 40 minutes by Long Island electric trains from Pennsylvania Station, New York or Flatbush Avenue Station, Brooklyn. It is the only seashore property where all purchasers are given perpetual rights to the enjoyment in common of the beach and ocean front. It is a community of beautiful homes—a restricted colony of refined, cultured people. The beach extends one-half a mile and affords perfect surf bathing. For an all-year home, where social and recreative features abound, Neponsit is admirable. A few more artistic houses and bungalows are nearing completion. Act now, if you wish to occupy your seaside home next Spring and Summer. Write, call or 'phone Greeley 2741 for full information.

SCHIFF WOULD LET IN HONEST IMMIGRANTS

AGAINST A LITERACY TEST

Says Persecuted Races Bring In the Ideals Needed as a Leaven to Our Materialism.

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, speaking yesterday afternoon at the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society in Public School 62, at Hester and Essex Streets, said that the standards of living in this country were higher to-day than they ever had been in the history of the world, and that in order to preserve this standard immigration from countries where living conditions were not so good should not be permitted to an excessive degree.

This suggestion to restrict immigration was warmly opposed by Jacob H. Schiff, who said that every immigrant who came to the United States with strong hands and an honest purpose was bound to succeed and become an asset of the nation. He had known of few failures among immigrants who came here with good health and determination, Mr. Schiff said. He spoke of his own struggle to get work when he landed here, nearly half a century ago, and said that, in spite of the fact that he was idle at first for nearly four months, he believed he had "made good anyhow." This statement provoked laughter and applause.

Secretary Wilson was introduced to the large gathering by Judge Leon Sanders, its Chairman, as one who was endeavoring to administer the immigration laws intelligently and humanely. He said that he esteemed it a great honor to be present.

"I esteem it a great honor," he said, "because of the magnificent work which your organization has been and is doing for the welfare of your people, not merely in giving aid to those who are in immediate want, although that has been a great and a good task, but because behind that giving of aid, and better than that giving of aid, has been the spirit of your organization to help men to help themselves."

Secretary Wilson then told how his father, mother, brothers, and sisters had been evicted from their little home in Scotland when he was a small boy. Their household goods were thrown out into the snow, and he recalled having slept in the stable of a toll house. Their emigration to America, their arrival at Castle Garden in 1870, and finally their struggle for existence in the coal mines of Pennsylvania were all described by him.

"The standards of living in this country are higher to-day than they ever were in the history of the world," he continued, "and we must maintain those standards as an example to those who come to these shores from other countries. The conditions of living are not as good in other countries as they are here, and we must keep in mind the condition of the multitudes who are already here. Consequently, if the influx of immigration is permitted to go on to an excess, the standards of living here will be greatly lowered. While it is true that we have millions upon millions of acres upon which immigrants could be settled, still the problem of assimilation must be considered."

The Department of Labor, according to Secretary Wilson, will try to bring about closer and more peaceful relations between employers and employes, though it will not advocate compulsory arbitration of disputes.

Jacob H. Schiff was introduced as "our friend, your friend, the friend of everybody, and a friend the world will remember as long as the world exists." Mr. Schiff arrived in the middle of Secretary Wilson's address and regretted he had not heard the first part of it. He explained his delay by saying:

"The fact is, Sunday is not a day of rest for me. It is the busiest day of the seven. On Sunday I am busy from 7 o'clock in the morning, when I am at the Montefiore Home, until late in the evening, when I am at some conference, having only one hour's intermission for luncheon with my family.

"Now, I agree with Secretary Wilson entirely as to what he has said about the relation of employer to employe, as to what they should not and as to what they should be, and as to what should be done to make them more harmonious and to bring about industrial peace. But I don't agree with him in what he has said about immigration.

"There have always been attempts to restrict immigration in this country. It began with the time our Pilgrim Fathers tried to land at Plymouth and the Indians tried to keep them out. There always has been some one who wanted to keep immigrants out, and there always has been some reason for trying to keep them out.

"There is labor in this country for everybody. As Secretary Wilson has correctly said, it is the question of distribution that is so difficult to solve. But we must try to solve it, because we have no right to say to the healthy and willing immigrants who come to this country to settle: 'There is no room here, there already is too much unemployment.'

"I came here myself nearly half a century ago, relatively a poor boy. I found no ready employment. I had to go around for nearly four months before I could find employment, and I think I have made good anyhow.

"Just as it has been my hope and my help in every situation to trust everybody until I find they are not to be trusted, so do I trust every immigrant who comes here—every immigrant, whether he can read or write, if he has strong hands and an honest purpose. Among all the immigrants whom I know there have been very few failures in this country.

"The illiteracy test—what do you gain by it? The Jewish immigrant is not illiterate, because he gives his children education even if he has to go hungry to do so. Because an intolerant government has shut the schools against him, are go going to shut him out too? The man who comes here to work with the hoe and the shovel is the builder of this country, and the illiteracy test for him is a most miserable test."

Mr. Schiff said he did not believe there was one in 10,000 immigrant Jews who landed here who returned to his native country, simply because they knew they could not very well go back. He defended the Russian Jew as a racial type that had given to the world "literateurs, servants, and idealists." He added:

"This is a materialistic country, and the fight for the almighty dollar goes on night and day, sometimes too intensely. We need ideals, and the Russian immigrant, who knows what suffering is, brings us these ideals. He is driven out of Russia because he has these ideals, because he will not submit to an intolerance that grinds down human ideals. He brings these ideals here, and they form a counterbalance to the materialists that is all too intense. We German Jews feel a kin to these people, not because they are of the same faith, bue because we know that they have suffered for the same things that our fathers and our forefathers suffered for before us in the ghettos of Germany."

Mr. Schiff was frequently interrupted by applause. Others who made addresses were Abram I. Elkus, the Rev. H. Masliansky, and Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle.

In the annual report of President Sanders, it was shown that Jewish immigration at the five principal ports of entry has increased 61.2 per cent. in 1913 over the preceding year. The Society had "extended the hand of welcome" to 127,743 Jewish immigrants, many of whom it sheltered and fed and directed to their destinations. Out of 126,073 Jewish immigrants who came to these shores in the eleven months from January to November, 1913, only 11,000 or 8.7 per cent. left the country. For the same period the general incoming number of aliens exclusive of Jews was 1,407,044, and the number of outgoing, 531,399, or 37.8 per cent.

IN NEW JERSEY.

NEWARK.—Every-One-in-Church Day was celebrated yesterday in all of the Protestant churches. The congregations were unusually large. In all of the churches there were special services.

NEWARK.—George Norton, in a dying condition, was removed to the City Hospital yesterday from the Keystone Lodging House, on Ward Street. At the hospital it was said that Norton was suffering from a fractured skull and was injured internally. Norton had told other lodgers that he had been beaten in a fight in Harrison on Saturday night.

PASSAIC.—The Public Service Corporation's snow sweepers threw the snow to each side of the trolley tracks in this city. It is piled at least three feet high outside the tracks, causing a congestion in traffic. The corporation has been ordered to remove this snow by noon to-day.

HACKENSACK.—Not until late yesterday afternoon was the trolley service between Hackensack and Newark and Lodi resumed. Many persons who were in towns south of Hackensack were unable to return home until yesterday afternoon. William Woods, a garage owner, tried to get to Lodi on Saturday night with two passengers, but the auto failed to get through a five-foot drift on the Polify Road and was forced to return.

BAYONNE.—Funeral services over the body of Chief of Police John Yore will be held at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. Chief Yore was 58 years old and was a member of the Bayonne Police Department for twenty-eight years. Inspector Michael Reilly has been appointed Acting Chief by Mayor Daly.

SOUTH ORANGE.—Many of the members of the Village Fire Department have "mutinied," and unless the Board of Trustees effects a compromise the village will have the services only of five paid firemen to take care of the horses and apparatus. A few days ago some stringent orders were issued. The volunteers were not permitted to congregate at headquarters and it was set down that it was the duty of any fire fighter to report any fellow member who enters a saloon. Displeased with the new rules, the firemen have rebelled. The firemen insist that they will attend no more fires until the rules are amended.

WEST ORANGE.—Since Thomas A. Edison announced that he would leave on Feb. 21 for his Winter home at Fort Meyers, Fla., to spend six weeks with Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, and John Burroughs, the naturalist, he has received thousands of letters from sportsmen in all parts of Canada and the United States telling him where he can catch fish and get plenty of game. Mr. Edison says he intends to do no shooting, but would fish when he felt like it.

VERONA.—Dr. Guy Payne, Medical Superintendent at the Essex County Hospital at Overbrook, said yesterday that the condition of the paresis patient who recently underwent a new operation for the treatment of his disease continued to be encouraging. The man's condition was improving, Dr. Payne said, and he had hopes of his ultimate recovery. The patient has regained his power of speech, and there are other signs that his physical and mental condition has been favorably affected by the operation.

CALDWELL.—The Board of Education has decided to submit the question of the establishment of a course in agriculture in the local high school to the voters.

STUMBLES OVER A BOMB.

A bomb made of a tomato can and closed with a circular piece of concrete, was put on the door-step of Joseph Strongoni's butcher shop at 318 East 106th Street, on Saturday night. Michael Strongoni, the butcher's son, went to a dance in the evening and returned home at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. He stumbled over the bomb. Its fuse was half burned. Snow, blowing into the doorway had extinguished it.

The young man and his father occupy quarters in the rear of the store, which is on the ground floor of a six-story tenement house containing more than 200 tenants. The son notified Patrolmen Frederick Nau and and William Hahn of the East 104th Street Station and they took the bomb to the station house. Inspector Owen Egan of the Bureau of Combustibles said that the bomb was powerful enough to destroy the whole tenement house.

The Strongonis denied that they had received any blackhand letters. They thought business rivals were responsible for the bomb. Some time ago, when business became poor because of high prices, the elder Strongoni got a job in a slaughter house. His place there enabled him to buy bargains in meat which drew the trade of the neighborhood from other dealers, he said.

As with all wise and truly great men, the lighter side of life appealed to the immortal patriot. In the midst of events that changed the world's history his natural predilection for humor eased his heavy burdens and helped to make heroic achievements possible. Washington was first in war and first in peace. If he were among us to-day he would be the first to see and acknowledge the extraordinary merit and charm of "THE LITTLE CAFE"—WITH A LAUGH FOR EVERY STAR, AND A JOY FOR EVERY BAR of the glorious emblem that proclaims America's pre-eminence to the whole world—

Nearly Every Hart, Schaffner & Marx Winter Suit and Overcoat Now $14, $17.50 or $22.

MERE price comparison,—saying that many $30 garments are now $14, many $40 ones now $17.50, and many $50 ones $22, doesn't convey an adequate idea of what this sale offers, though it does tell of the sweeping reductions. Most of our stock is included in these three prices, because we MUST clear our counters now—

$25, $30, $35 and $40 Suits and Overcoats $17.50
$35, $40, $45 and $50 Suits and Overcoats $22
